SATURDAY MORNING.....Sept. 8, 1883.

JAY GOULD A WITNESS.

He Testifies Before the Senate Special Labor Committee.

Senators Blair and McCall, of the committee on capital and labor, had Jay Gould before them in New York on Wednesday. On being sworn Senator Blair requested him to give a history of his early life and first business ventures and then go on and give the story of his progress to his present condition.

Mr. Gould seemed to be somewhat staggered at the request but turning with a smile toward the reporters, he began in a low voice: "I was born," he said, "at Roxbury, in Delaware county, in this State, on May 27, 1836. My parents had a small farm and kept 20 cows which I assisted in tending. I attended a school about 15 miles distant and when I was about 14 years old obtained a situation in a store in a neighboring village. I was much interested in mathematics and used to get up at 3 o'clock in the morning and study to 6, when the store was opened. I remained in the State for two years, when I made the acquaintance of a surveyor, who was making a survey of Ulster county. He took me into his service at a salary of $20 a month. I learned that my employer's credit was not very good, and I was to obtain no money for my work until the map was completed, so that I made sun-dials for the farmers at $1 apiece to pay my running expenses. I made surveys afterward of Delaware and Albany counties, and made in these contracts about $5,000. I then went into the tannery business with a Mr. Pratt, of Prattsville, and finally entered into a partnership with Chas. M. Leupp, who committed suicide. The first railroad with which I had any connection was what is now a portion of the Rensselaer and Saratoga, of which I was superintendent. During the panic of '59 the stock went down very low, and I was able to buy in a large amount of the stock, which afterward rose in value and I made a handsome profit." The next road in which Mr. Gould said he interested himself was the Cleveland and Pittsburg, which he afterwards leased to the Pennsylvania road. Mr. Gould then rehearsed the story of his connection with the Union Pacific road. As he had interested himself in it, and the stock was falling, he made up his mind to carry it through at any cost.

"It was on the point of being placed in the hands of a receiver. Afterward when the road became a paying one and dividends were declared regularly there was a great cry from the public that it was Jay Gould's road, as if this was a dangerous thing. He said, however, that he was then engaged in selling out his stock, which was soon in the hands of more than 7,000 investors, representing the earnings of many widows and orphans. This ended his connection with the Union Pacific, and the stock was now higher than when he sold it. The next venture was the building up of the Gould railroad system in the South and West. It began with the purchase of the Missouri and Pacific from Commodore Garrison. Other roads were purchased and connections were made to different points. Mr. Gould said that he had at this time passed the point where money-making was an object, and his only idea was in carrying out the system to merely see what could be done by combination. The lines now spread through Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri, Arkansas, Indian Territory, Texas, Louisiana and Mexico. There are central connections at Cincinnati, St. Louis, Chicago and New Orleans. All the construction of this system of roads was completed last year and represented about 10,000 miles of road.

AT DAGGER'S POINTS.

Republicans Who Are Still Fighting Creswell and Webster.

"Why is it that the Republican party is so divided, and from whence springs all this opposition to Mr. Creswell, Col. Webster and others of that following? Is there no way of reconciling existing differences?" These questions being propounded in the hearing of a Day reporter, without eliciting satisfactory answers, led the reporter to go further and inquire of one who keeps a diary of political events, bearing dates anterior to the war and running all the way up to the present time. He was evidently one of the most difficult to reconcile, for he began by mentioning the name of a very warm place in connection with certain persons whom he was pleased to call "potato-bugs," and then proceeded. "You ask why it is that the Republican party is so divided. I will tell you. No party has been so shamefully imposed upon in its Federal appointments as the Republican party of Maryland, and the imposition has come mainly from the men you have named. The trouble commenced with the appointment of Col. Webster by Andrew Johnson after the assassination of President Lincoln in 1865. As soon as he came in he removed the most stanch and stalwart Republicans and substituted what he called conservatives. On the 7th of September, 1866, the following call was published in the Baltimore Sun: 'To the soldiers and sailors of Maryland, who are now as true to the country as in the bloody days and months and years which just passed by, who are ready and willing to resist a revolutionary overthrow of the republican government of the United States by the acts of Northern radicals as by the arms of Southern rebellionists. * * * You are requested to attend a mass convention in Baltimore at 12 m. on Wednesday, Sept. 12, to send delegates to the grand convention at Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 17, 1866." This call was signed by Col. Edwin H. Webster, Capt. Frank Gallagher, Col. Wm. H. Purnell, Gen. Charles E. Phelps and some seventy others, a large percentage being well-known Democrats, and was for the purpose of sending delegates to the Cleveland convention, with the view of indorsing the restoration policy of President Johnson and in opposition to the Radical convention of soldiers and sailors which was held in Pittsburgh on the 25th of same month, where was upheld the action of Congress in passing the constitutional amendments, &c., and where the course of President Johnson was condemned. A tax was levied on the men in the custom-house to help pay the expenses of this Johnson convention, and those who refused to pay were required to leave. A man named Wm. A. Snyder with some others whom I do not just now recollect, attended the Radical convention at Pittsburgh, and they were turned out before they got home. In 1867 a tax was levied on the custom-house employees to carry a New Hampshire election in the interest of Democrats, and the man who collected this money was Col. S. G. Reed, then clerk under Col. Webster. I was among those who refused to pay, and I had to go. I told them that I was a Republican, and that I did not give money for Democratic elections. Webster remained in office from '65 to '69, and when Grant came in John L. Thomas was named as his successor. From that time until 1881 Webster was not identified with the Republican party, and perhaps he would not have been had he not shortly afterward been nominated for Congress. I was reappointed by Mr. Thomas and remained until Mr. Webster once more took the collectorship, when I had to go. Thus you see that his course from the first has been against the well-known and pronounced Republicans and in favor of those who, at least, are or have been questionable—those who could be made to yield either way he wished them.—Harford and Cecil counties may be reconciled to this state of things, as they have a large share of the appointments; but they will find it very different in Baltimore and elsewhere. There are hundreds, if not thousands, in this city who will never become reconciled to Mr. Creswell, and who will vote the Democratic ticket if that is the only means left to secure his defeat. He has given it out that he is for Holton for governor, a little trick intended to draw the wool over the eyes of Holton's friends, for he knows that James A. Gary is bitterly opposed to him, and that he must pass from the field of politics if Mr. Holton should be elected. He knows that Mr. Holton, under the influence of Mr. Gary, would use all the State patronage against him, and that he could not survive such a struggle. They are now using the Federal patronage to secure a majority of the delegates to the State convention, which nominates the governor, and if they are successful in securing that majority they will name some one in place of Holton—some friend of Creswell's—and thus having secured the State patronage they will send Col. Webster as delegate at large and a pledged ticket for Mr. Creswell's choice for President. This is what they hope for. Should Mr. Holton, by any means, succeed in getting the nomination, they will defeat him, if possible, before the people, because they know that his election will prove a quietus to Creswell and company. Under such a state of things do you think there is much chance for reconciliation?"—Baltimore Day.

A FEMININE REVENGE.—They were in the surf together. They were both swimmers and both rather venturesome. Finding herself a little beyond her depth she lady turns to her escort and remarks the fact. "Yes, I see we are," is his comment, as he promptly leaves his companion's side and puts to shore. She reviews the situation calmly for a moment, waits for the next breaker and comes in riding proudly on its crest; there was a dangerous gleam in the eye, however, and she took swift revenge. The gallant feels her little stabs every time he asks permission to bathe a lady and meets with stereotyped refusal: "Thanks, no; I might get out too far."—Progress.

MR. H. A. HERBERT, an ex-member of the English Parliament, is reported to be about to wed the daughter of the Hon. George Hawkins Williams, president of the Maryland Senate. The young lady in question is Miss Rebecca Williams, and the prospective groom is the owner of the Muckross estate, which includes within its boundaries the famous Muckross Abbey and the world-renowned lakes of Killarney.

THE SPORTSMAN'S HAND-BOOK FREE.—Before starting on his autumn hunting or fishing expedition the wise sportsman will do well to consult the pages of "A Paradise for Gunners and Anglers," a neat and handy publication, recently issued by the Passenger Department of the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore Railroad.—This little pamphlet finds the sportsman's paradise in the Maryland and Delaware Peninsula, and that section is exhaustively treated with regard to its hunting and fishing resources. Not only are all its birds and fishes discussed and described, but their habits are descanted upon and their haunts disclosed. Valuable hints are also given as to the time and manner when angler or gunner may work with the best success; and explicit directions as to routes and stopping places, accompanied by an excellent map of the section, renders the work a complete guide-book. The book is handsomely illustrated with plates of the principal species of game, and is arranged so as to be carried in the pocket with convenience.—Such a guide-book to a district so rich in birds, water fowl and fish must prove an invaluable prize to the sportsman.

Copies may be procured, free of charge, by addressing Jas. R. Wood, General Passenger Agent, Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad, Philadelphia, Pa.

FAST SPECIAL TO THE BALTIMORE ORIOLE SEPTEMBER 11, 12 AND 13, 1883.—In answer to numerous inquiries the Passenger Department of the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore R. R. announces that for the convenience of those living along its Delaware Division and who desire to visit Baltimore during the Great Carnival Celebration of Sept. 11, 12 and 13, they will run each day during the continuance of the Festival a special train from Porter's via Newark to Baltimore arriving at 11.43 A. M. Connection with this special will be made from all points south of Porter's by the regular train leaving Delmar at 7.30. The trip from Delmar to Baltimore being made in the unprecedentedly quick time of four hours and thirteen minutes. The committee in charge of the Celebration promise that this shall surpass all previous efforts. Among the many features may be mentioned the following:

On September 11 an association of gentlemen representing Lord Baltimore, his cousins, household and officers will be escorted from the vessel landing to the City Hall by a great military procession. September 12, grand illumination of Baltimore. September 13, mystic procession of forty great tableaux, in which it is stated that thirteen hundred men and over two hundred horses will be employed. A grand ball at the Academy of Music will conclude the Celebration. The train will leave Chestertown at 7 o'clock.

PEARL OF A FAT WALLET.—Mr. W. W. Taylor, a London millionaire, arrived at New York on a steamship last week, and after proceeding to the Fifth Avenue and registering remarked casually to the clerk that he had been robbed of a wallet containing drafts, etc., the equivalent of $30,000. A detective was summoned, but so cool was Mr. Taylor that the detective thought there was no truth in the reported loss. However, he turned his attention to a thief known as "Albany," and found him Friday afternoon.—After a short parley Albany confessed to having abstracted the wallet from Mr. Taylor's pocket as he came off the gang plank of the steamship, and had deposited it with a saloon-keeper, who advanced him $50 on it. The wallet and contents were restored to Mr. Taylor a few hours later, who smiled quietly, lighted a fresh cigar and went out for a walk. "Albany" was almost crazed when afterwards informed that payment could not have been stopped on the drafts, as Mr. Taylor did not remember the name of the bank.

MR. SHOEMAKER'S JERSEY HERD.—Mr Samuel M. Shoemaker sent from his farm in Baltimore county on Thursday his fine herd of Jersey cattle to the New York State Fair at Rochester. The herd consists of the celebrated bull Forget-Me-Not, cost as a calf $2,150; Princess 2, for which he paid $4,800; Oxford Kate, cost $3,850; $5,150; St. Clementine, $2,600; Miss Muffett and Oscar Ruggles, to be the finest herd in the United States.—Baltimore Sun.

MR. ALEXANDER BROWN, master of the Elkridge Hunt, of Baltimore, is making arrangements to introduce fox-hunting at Saratoga Springs next year during the latter part of August and the first two weeks of September.

THE Baltimore city grand jury, as was generally anticipated, ignored the indictment as to Mayor Whyte and found true bills against the other members of the late fire commissioners' board.

DIAMOND STATE SUPER PHOSPHATE AND DIAMOND STATE SOLUABLE BONE are probably the most popular fertilizers manufactured for wheat. In quality, mechanical and drilling condition, they cannot be surpassed.

BALTIMORE MARKET.—The Baltimore papers of Friday quote as follows:

In introducing these Wagons on the Peninsula, we feel that we are doing something to benefit the public. It seems to be the unanimous verdict of Farmers that our Wagons track better and run lighter than any others made on the Peninsula. This was the decision of the Judges of the Worton Fair, held in September, 1881. Every piece is carefully selected, and nothing but the best material is used.

SOMETHING NEW!

THE "KENDALL" BLACKBERRY.

THIS BERRY originated with us in '75, and has been thoroughly tested. We make for it the following claims: It does not blight or winter kill, is the strongest grower, and propagates faster than any other berry. It is the earliest bearer, producing fruit the first season it is set out. It ripens earlier than the Wilson, it is the most prolific; we have hills we expect to get thirty quarts from. It is the largest berry; we have grown them that forty-five would make a quart. It is a nice table berry; flavors similar to the June berry, and a splendid shipper.

Every one interested is invited to come and see for themselves. I have several thousand Plants for sale at 25c. each; 100 at the highest number that will be sold to any one party.

Orders solicited. Address

Some Reasons Why!

IN THE MILLING BUSINESS

Why has SPICER been successful in the Milling business! We answer?

1st.
Because he is a jolly old fellow, and has a good word for everybody.

2d.
He is a millwright and keeps his mill in first-class order, without going to Baltimore for a millwright.

3d.
He is not only a millwright but enjoys the reputation of being a first-class miller.

4th.
In his mill you can always find flour meal, chops and all kinds of feed for sale at the very lowest prices that the market will allow it to be sold for.

5th.
He has but one price for the rich and poor. His prices are the same to all.

6th and Last,
Though not least, he is very careful how he uses the toll-dish, as all his customers will say.

To the ladies of Kent county who delight in good flour, we wish to say that we have at last succeeded in getting Radcliffs Mill, at Chestertown, in first-class order, and today we are making better flour than ever before. We keep the best millers that money can get. None but first-class millers handle our wheat mill. Gentlemen we will willingly take back and pay cash for any bad flour we may make from good wheat. We are very thankful for all past favors, and as we have the mill in first-class order and are making first-class flour and meal, with plenty of water that will run us day and night, we hope to secure a full share of public patronage.
