SATURDAY MORNING.....Sept. 29, 1883.

POLITICAL MEMORANDA.

Col. Henry Page thinks Somerset has the best prospect for electing the whole democratic ticket she has had for ten years, and says that all the reports to the contrary are set in motion by the other side.

A letter from Port Deposit to the Baltimore Sun says: The feeling in this section is one of entire satisfaction with the Democratic State ticket and it will receive the cordial and full support of all democrats in Cecil.

The Cambridge (Dorchester county) Democrat and News says: "While we, and the people of Dorchester who love and honor Mr. LeCompte as a warm friend, regret that he was not accorded the nomination for comptroller, yet neither he nor the people who honor him will sulk in their tents; and we can extend to Mr. Turner the assurance that neither Mr. LeCompte, the democrats of Dorchester nor ourselves will leave any stone unturned to give him our fullest and strongest support."

Easton Star: The Old Line Democrats, the Ring Democrats, the Young Democrats of Baltimore city, and the Johnson Building Democrats, all support the Democratic State ticket nominated at the Democratic love-feast held in Baltimore last week. What can withstand a united democracy in Maryland? The Republicans may now prepare to "hang up their fiddle and bow," for they cannot now come into power through openings made by a discordant democracy. They must now stand or fall on their national record, the Hayes fraud, the Garfield bribery, the Star route frauds, and the treasury frauds. Holton may pour out his money, but it will not avail! Burnt brandy cannot save the Republican party in Maryland this year.

The Washington (D. C.) Post, democrat, says: "The nomination of Mr. McLane is an event of more than local importance. His service in Congress gave him a national reputation as a statesman of marked ability. He possesses all the qualities required for the successful administration of the executive office of his State. No man can find in his record or in his character anything on which to hang a doubt that as Governor he would be free from every unworthy influence and move steadily forward in the discharge of his duty, regardless of the effect of his acts on the interest of cliques or on his personal popularity. The selection of such a man is not only good for his State and for the interests of his party therein, but is such an example as the country has needed. Too many State conventions of both parties have passed over their leading men of national repute and taken up local celebrities. At such a time Maryland has done the country a service by calling on the veteran statesman to lead his party to victory."

The Cecil Democrat says: "The ticket probably represents as clearly the prevailing sentiment of the party whose support it asks as any ticket that ever emanated from a State convention. All interests, all classes, all affiliations of the past and all purposes for the future have had their say in its making. Certainly no faction can claim its exclusive parentage. Mr. McLane is his own man and the party's man and a man all over; too big for faction, too strong for leading strings, too well poised for domination, too rigorous for servility's mandate. Chief among the foremost, and mighty amid the mightiest, brave, wise, resolute, unflinching, his name is a synonym of honest purpose, his life a grand triumph of honorable manhood. His party, the State, political integrity, will vindicate the people's verdict that calls to the post of duty and honor the man who neither seeks the honor nor shirks the duty. The intrinsic merit of the ticket is generally recognized. All factions will unite in its support and remove its success from the realms of question."

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

The democratic-conservative party of Maryland, in the State convention assembled, resolves, as follows:

The election for the executive officers of the State, to be held in November of this year, is of momentous importance, because it will determine the policy and control of the legislation of the State until 1888, and will exert a decisive influence upon the vote of the State at the presidential election in 1884.

The declaration of the election of Hayes and Wheeler in 1876 to the offices of President and Vice-President of the United States was brought about by frauds, consummated under the forms of law, and the methods used in the election of Garfield and Arthur in 1880 have been proved, by the creatures who did the evil work, to have been, if possible, more discreditable than those adopted by their fellows in 1876.

The national republican party of the country has, during its tenure of power, made the public lands the spoil of favored corporations. It has squandered the money of the country by maintaining a horde of idle, profligate and incapable placemen. It has not during its tenure of power, in its tariff legislation, given that just and equal protection to all the industries of the country which it ought to have afforded, but has, on the contrary, made the masses of the people pay from their hard earnings enormous bounties to favored monopolies. It has broken up the commerce of the United States in vessels carrying the national flag. It has permitted the unworthy men who planned and executed the frauds perpetrated in the presidential elections of 1876 and 1880 to deal with the patronage of the government and with the public money in the treasury as if these were the spoil of an enemy's camp.

The democratic-conservative party of this State will enter into the State and national campaign of this and the ensuing year with its whole heart, resting its opinions in national politics as heretofore, upon the express words of the tenth amendment to the constitution of the United States adopted in 1795: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively or to the people."

It will demand that national taxation, in all its forms, shall be limited to such amounts as are necessary for the economical administration of the government, for the payment of interest upon the public debt, and for the redemption, in each year, of a fixed and reasonable proportion of that debt.

It will demand such revision and amendment of the federal law relating to shipping and carriage of ocean freights as will restore our merchant marine to its former prosperity.

The democratic-conservative party of this State, in fulfilment of its pledges made to the people, has enacted a registration law under which an exact registration can be made of the name of every person entitled to vote in this State, and has otherwise secured the purity of our elections.

It has lightened the burden of taxation by abolishing offices not necessary for the public service, by reducing salaries subject to its control to the limit of the compensation of persons engaged in similar employments in private life, and it will continue its efforts to devise such further legislation as will give effect to a true and enlightened policy of governmental reform.

It has progressed in giving full effect to the requirements of the bill of rights, that "every person in the State or person holding property therein, ought to contribute his actual worth in real or personal property."

It has exactly fulfilled all pecuniary obligations of the State, and has increased the high credit of its securities at home and abroad.

It has by the amendment and impartial execution of the laws of the State maintained peace and good order within its territory.

It will endeavor to remedy any unjust discrimination against our local interests which may be practiced by corporations in this State. It will, while respecting the obligations of all existing contracts, confine within the appointed limits all exemptions which any of such corporations, or the property thereof, may enjoy from the burdens of taxation imposed on the citizens of this State owning property therein; and it will prevent the unreasonable extension of the powers of such corporations by State or municipal legislation, and it will keep such corporations under strict supervision.

It will afford such protection as can be given by law to the health, permanent safety and welfare of men, women and children engaged in labor in this State. It declares that laboring men have an equal right with the owners of capital to make peaceable combinations for their own protection, and that such right ought to be recognized by statute; and that the collection of statistics and information concerning the needs of various branches of industry and the abuses which exist therein ought to be provided for by law.

It has organized an additional system of free public schools for the use of the people of the State, and it will continue and foster that system.

That the thanks of the democratic party of this State are due to Governor William T. Hamilton for his efforts in connection with the Legislature of the State in carrying out the declaration of principles affirmed in the democratic platform of 1879.

The reading of the resolutions, which were in the nature of a platform for the party, was frequently applauded.

DRIVING FROM MASSACHUSETTS TO FLORIDA.—The Easton (Md.) Gazette mentions that one day last week a covered wagon, drawn by one horse and occupied by a man, a woman and a dog, passed through Talbot county, from Massachusetts, on the way to Florida. They were going to Cherrystone, Eastern Shore of Virginia, and go from there to Norfolk by steamer, and drive from Norfolk to Florida. They had already driven all the way from Massachusetts.

A DEBT WE OWE MR. MCLANE.—The people of this county owe a debt of gratitude to Hon. R. M. McLane, of which they are perhaps not aware but which we feel sure they will be prompt to repay. It was through his efforts in a great measure that the appropriations for cleaning out Corsica creek and the head of Chester river were made. He was an important member of the Committee on Commerce of the House of Representatives. An interview was had with him by Mr. John B. Brown, the late Col. Jas. T. Earle, Mr. George Warfield and the editor of this paper.—The importance of these improvements was laid before him, and he promised then and there that he would do his level best for us. The consequence was that he secured a report from his committee recommending appropriations for these improvements, and supported by Representative Covington and Senator Gorman and Groome, all of whom became our friends in this matter, Congress passed the bill. One improvement has already become an accomplished fact, and the other will in due time become accomplished.—Without the aid of Mr. McLane the sand bars above Crumpton would still be a serious barrier to the navigation of the upper river, and Corsica Creek would be impassable for large boats for a long time to come. He placed our people under great obligations to him, and ingratitude is not a characteristic of noble people. We are confident that the ballot box next November will demonstrate that our people appreciate the good offices of a disinterested friend.—Cent. Observer.

HON. CHAS. B. ROBERTS, democratic nominee for Attorney-General, was tendered a complimentary serenade at his home in Westminster on Thursday night week by the Band in that city. Mr. Roberts responded briefly, says the Advocate, thanking the Band and the citizens for the serenade and saying that he regarded the compliment as devoid of political significance, and as a personal one to himself, as a fellow-citizen who had been nominated by his party for an exalted positon. He alluded to his nomination as one unsought, except from his fellow Democrats of Carroll. He said that the party in Carroll had recommended him for the place, and that the party throughout the State, through their representatives, had ratified their choice without solicitation from him, and that his nomination was not that of a cabal or ring; that letters to him upon the subject were left unanswered, for he wanted to be able to say, if he should be chosen, that his nomination was unsought, except from the party in Carroll. If elected, he said, he would do his utmost for the best interest of the whole people, and would labor to further such reforms as would be beneficial to the best interests of all. At the conclusion of his remarks Mr. Roberts invited all in to partake of refreshments. After refreshments there was more music, and then all dispersed to their homes.

A MAD DOG IN A HOUSE.—A dog belonging to Capt. John R. Emory was taken with hydrophobia last week, and caused great alarm to that gentleman's family. The dog ran from room to room snapping and snarling at every thing in its way. Running to the cradle, where the infant had but a few moments before been sleeping, it seized a blanket and tore it badly. It then went to a window and seizing a shutter pulled out two of the slats. Its next freak was to seize a curtain and tear it badly. The family then succeeded in forcing the rabid animal to the porch where Capt. Emory shot it. No serious damage was done, but the Captain's family, and especially his infant child, made a narrow escape.—Observer.

THE FOUR DROMEDARIES which were presented by King Humbert, of Italy, to Mr. John Garrett, and which have been given by him to the Druid Hill Park Commissioners, arrived in Baltimore last week and were transferred to the Park without difficulty. They were accompanied to the city by Mr. Curran, who had been their keeper during the voyage across the ocean, and who gave them every attention and care required. In appearance they are not unlike the camels which every travelling circus boasts, and in fact about the only distinguishing mark between the two is the possession by the dromedary of one instead of two humps on the back. The Sun says that about 20,000 persons went to see them Sunday.

GEORGE BROWN, colored, confined in the Anne Arundel jail, has confessed to the murder of Foreman Lomach, colored. Lomach's wife is also in jail charged with being an accessory. On Monday while Mr. G. S. Griffith was at the jail Brown confessed to him the killing of Lomach, and said he would not have committed the deed, but he was persuaded to do it. The woman still stoutly denies her guilt. The murder occurred on the night of June 8, near South river, Anne Arundel county, and all the circumstances showed premeditation and pointed to Brown as Lomach's murderer and Lomach's wife as an accessory.

MR. HENRY HOUCK, aged about 74 years, a citizen of Frederick county, while walking on the track of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, near the Frederick Junction, Wednesday morning, was struck by the Winchester train bound east, and so badly injured that he died soon after.
