SATURDAY MORNING .....Nov. 3, 1883.

TO TAX PAYERS.

The Result of Republican Rule in the Counties of Maryland.

In every county of Maryland where the Republicans are in power the taxation is greater than in the Democratic counties. In St. Mary's the citizens pay a State and county tax footing up one hundred and nineteen cents in the hundred dollars—a higher rate than is paid by any other county in the State. The county is and has been for years in the hands of the Republicans—more than half of the whole vote of the county being colored.

In Charles county the same condition of affairs exists. The public roads are parcelled out to the colored voters as pap for their suffrage;—the county almshouse is a great hospital for the entertainment of numberless colored idlers and others too lazy to work; indeed in every department of the county there is inefficiency and extravagance to such a degree that the people are groaning under the load of taxation and annoyance resulting therefrom.

A local paper—the Port Tobacco Times—published in Charles county, thus bewails in piteous grief the sad condition of affairs in that county:

"Thus has the bad domination in this county been gradually and surely sapping the resources of our county and blighting its material prospects by alienating our young men, repelling immigration, stirring up strife and discord between employers and employed and keeping taxes at an oppressively high rate. After ten years of this mal-administration, the affairs of the county have reached a deplorable condition. Here we have been constantly retrograding since the war, while in almost every county of the South where this bad domination has been broken down the course has been one of continual progress.

"The rates here are higher than almost any county in the State, being kept up almost to the highest war rates. All the offices of the county, with a few exceptions are loosely and inefficiently administered, and there is a painful suspicion existing in the minds of the people that there is a chapter in the financial management of the county which has not been revealed. The last statement of the county commissioners is not in compliance with law, and the manner in which the books are made to balance is to say the least very unsatisfactory. There appears to be no account of the $5,000 which the county is known to have borrowed about a year ago, and other manifest irregularities are shown. An investigation of the county books will probably make grave disclosures. Hence it is that the local election overshadows in the minds of our thoughtful citizens all other political considerations. All true citizens of the county regardless of political convictions, must admit the necessity of a change and all things now point hopefully to the fact that a change is to be made."

UNQUESTIONABLY the most commanding figure in Maryland politics is and has been for years that of ROBERT M. MCLANE. His candidacy has given to the State canvass an importance that embraces the whole country. His defeat, if such a thing were possible, would be not only a stigma upon the Democracy of the State, but it might have an offsetting influence against the result in Ohio. Happily there is no such ground for apprehension, but it should be the pride of every Democrat to unite in swelling the majority of the candidate who is not moved by ambition to become such, but yields the leisure of his age to the voice of the people.

THE New York Sun says the political census for October, 1883, discloses two highly significant facts. Twenty-six of the thirty-eight States chose Democratic Governors at their last elections. Eleven States elected Republican Governors, and one State is governed by a Readjuster. Twenty-two of the thirty-eight States have a majority of Democrats in their delegations of Representatives in Congress. The Republicans control fourteen State delegations, the Readjusters one, while one is equally divided between Republicans and Democrats. Now, two years ago the Republicans held just twenty of the thirty-eight State administrations and just twenty of the thirty-eight Congress delegations. The Republican party is going, and going fast.

GRAFTED SPANISH CHESTNUTS.—At the recent fair in Cecil county, Md., some fine Spanish chestnuts were exhibited by Mr. Geo. Balderston, of Colora, who grafted some of our native trees with this variety a few years ago and this fall raised a few quarts of them. They ripen some weeks in advance of our native chestnuts and sell in our cities for twenty-five cents per quart, which is about five times the ordinary price of our native fruit which ripens a few weeks later. Farmers and others so situated as to be able to give their attention to raising chestnuts would do well to plant this variety, or probably what is better, graft their native trees with cuttings from the Spanish chestnut.—Cecil Democrat.

NO HOSTILE LEGISLATION IN LOUISIANA.—The New Orleans Times-Democrat (dem.) says: "That the abolition of the civil-rights bill will not be followed by any hostile legislation, or by the adoption of any unfriendly discrimination against the colored race, the negro leaders of Louisiana ought to know. The late constitutional convention should have taught them this. It dealt with them in the kindliest and most friendly manner, refused to pass any unfriendly provisions, provided for the establishment of colored colleges and normal schools, and, indeed, did more for them than any republican Legislature that ever assembled in Louisiana."

THE late Judge Black had a powerful ear for music. His daughter Becky used to play something that pleased him. It was "Lucy Neal." It became his favorite. Whenever Becky would be playing for visitors the Judge would say: "Now, Becky, give us my favorite, 'Lucy Neal,'" and Becky, slyly winking at the guests, would play "Old Dan Tucker" or "Old Hundred." As she concluded the Judge would tip back in his chair and exclaim: "That's my favorite!" and couldn't understand what the people were laughing at.

IT has been figured out by a New Yorker with a mathematical turn of mind that Madame Patti, the celebrated prima donna, will receive $1.75 for every breath she draws upon the stage of the New York Academy of Music this winter. Curbstone warblers should make a note of this, and cease "wasting their breath" on the night air.
