CHESTERTOWN - - MAY 21, 1887.

DUDERY AT THE CAPITAL.

A Brief Description of the Style of Dudes They Have in Washington.

A handsome and stylishly-dressed lady, followed by two dogs and a dude, entered the Western Union Telegraph office. The dude was rigged out in the most approved style of dudedom. He carried a very large and heavy cane, one of the late affectations of his class. The lady wanted to write a dispatch, but her canine pets manifested a disposition to hurry her away. She essayed to write several times, but on each occasion had to stop to call in one or both of her dogs.

Finally she hit upon the expedient of tying the dude useful. She stood him in the way of the entrance, stick in hand, and commanded him to keep the dogs inside. He obeyed very meekly, and the lady once more resumed the task of writing the dispatch. She cast a meaning glance at a group of newspaper men in the office, and she did so her upper left eyelid, perhaps unintentarily, stole downward. Her meaning glance said plainly: "That is all he is good for."

This same young man has afforded no little amusement to society here. His father died some time ago and left him a fortune. The youngster, with a great flourish, went to England, and upon his return recently an acquaintance asked:

"Did you visit the tower?"

"No."

"Did you see Westminster?"

"No."

"Did you see Parliament in session?"

"No."

"Well, what in the world did you do abroad?"

"I brought back six brand-new overcoats of the latest fashion," was the young man's summing up of the results of his trip.

After a diligent cultivation he has succeeded in raising a very faint moustache, which is now his pride. For several days past he has been employed in collecting all the photographs of himself which he has given out. To each one of whom he took back a picture of himself he would say:

"This ain't a good one. It ain't like me any more, I'm going to give you a new one, taken with my moustache."—Chicago Herald.

Original Love Letter.

The following "original" love letter was picked up last week on the street in Chestertown:

MAY the 1. 1887

My dear frend i take my pen and ink to rite a few lines to you to let you no how i am well in helth but not so well in mine the troble of my mine is studying of a genman of your sobility you are my daly study and my nightly dream is studying of you the hills is high an the sea is deep an for your sake i can hardly sleep vires is so blue an flowers love dew stares of heaven an I love you i have sumething to tell you that will well with you remember——— who use to think so much of ——— i am glad you have joined meating an is striving to do better when you riten that letter an ask fer the baby it was my hart delight to think that you thought that much of me this is not half i have to tell you come over as soon as you can an i will be glad to see you Good night my dear rite soon an let me here from you ask me how was my genman how is your girl ancer as soon as you get this letter i have kisses for my darling

The Puzzled Horse-Dealer.

I have been very much bothered lately, said a horse-dealer to a St. Louis Globe-Democrat reporter, with a question arising out of a deal which has been to me a source of greater annoyance than the 15 puzzle. I sold a horse to B. for $80; in a few days he came back with the horse, and I repurchased it for $70. I then immediately resold him for $65. The question is: "How much did I gain or lose on the transaction?" When I bought the horse back for $70 I certainly made $10, and when I sold again for $65 I assuredly lost $5. Now, if I gain $10 and lose $5 my net gain is, it seems to me, $5. But on the other hand, after my first sale I had no horse and $80, while after my second sale I had no horse and $70, consequently I must have lost $5. At one time, when I think over the matter, I congratulate myself on having pocketed a "V" through sharp dealing, while at another I feel like going around behind the barn and kicking myself for having been such a blank fool.

Value of Street Dirt.

"You will never have clean streets in America," said an Italian gentleman in the Colonnade hotel recently, "as long as you throw away the dirt. In Italy the cleanings of the street are sold to the highest bidder at public auction, and the man who gets the contract fairly scrapes the streets to collect all the dirt he can. It is then taken to a factory, where it is pressed into blocks, which are then sold for fertilizing purposes. You Americans do not seem to know that your street dirt is valuable. I think if you would advertise you would find some smart man who would be glad to take a ten years' contract to clean your streets for nothing. He would get rich."—Philadelphia Call.

BUFFALO BILL in going to England devoid from the usual custom of less illustrious travelers. Instead of putting himself at once into the hands of London's tailor, Poole, as soon as he arrived, he goose to supply himself with a liberal outfit in America, and he landed on the other side with any amount of "store clothes." One suit, in which he expects to pay his respects to the Queen, is a dark gray; another in which he will appear at the Queen's jubilee as Nebraska's representative, is two shades of blue; while a gorgeous hunting costume, in which, perhaps, will be seen the Windsor Forest, consists of blue corduroy jacket, gray corduroy trousers and scarlet and brown waistcoat.

THIS is the way the ladies electioneered each other's votes in Kansas the other day: "Say, Em, come in here. Have you voted yet?" "No." "What'll you take, carameis or an ounce of gum? Now, you'll vote for Mrs. K., won't you?"—Burlington Free Press

A REMEDY FOUND AT LAST TO CURE
HOG CHOLERA!
LIEBERMAN'S
Hog Cholera Remedy
WILL POSITIVELY CURE AND PREVENT HOG CHOLERA!

IT is not a new remedy, but has been tried and experimented with for two years and found that if used when the hogs are first attacked that it will cure the Diseased Hogs and prevent the contagion from spreading to the others in the same pen.

SYMPTOMS OF HOG CHOLERA:

It is essentially a malarial fever. The animal however fierce and obstinate formerly is found more gentle and tractable; it shows decided signs of fever, elevated temperature alternating with cold shivers; the ears are more or less lopped; hindquarters weak and the hog shows a strong tendency to lie down on the least provocation and hide in the litter, rising only when wanting to drink; no appetite but great thirst. It often stands drawn together, with arched back and tucked-up abdomen. Its gait is staggering and its grunt weak. Its cough is weak and has a peculiar hollow sound, not easy to describe. It breathes hard, with pumping flanks and soon loses flesh. The skin is harsh and scaly and soon becomes discolored with purplish patches around the snout, between the forelegs and inside the thighs.

In the Circuit Court for Kent County, in Equi

THE object of this s is to procure a decree for the sale certain mortgaged premises in Kent Caty which were on the sixteenth day of February, in the year eighteen hund and sixty-four, mortgaged by a certain Laurence S. Vansant and Sarah J. Vans, his wife, to Peregrine L. Wickes, and y assigned to Caroline C. Perkins, since deceased, of whom the complainant is administrator de bonis non.

The Bill states that on or about the sixteenth day of February nteen hundred and sixty-four, the said arence S. Vansant and Sarah J. Vans his wife, conveyed certain real estate, w is particularly described in the Bill and its accompanying exhibits, unto the sa eregrine L. Wickes by way of mortgage secure the payment of a bond of the sa Laurence S. Vansant and wife, to the sa eregrine L. Wickes, bearing even date y said mortgage, for the sum of five thou dollars, containing a condition that it come void on payment by the said L nce S. Vansant and Sarah J. Vansant, he said Peregeine L. Wickes, or his assi of the sum of twenty-five hundred do on the ninth day of February, in the ye eighteen hundred and sixty-nine and no ore, and pay the interest on said sum twenty-five hundred dollars semi-annu

That the said bond deed of mortgage were duly assigned Peregrine L. Wickes unto Elizabeth C kes, and by said Elizabeth C. Wickes to said Peregrine L. Wickes, and by said Peregrine L. Wickes to Caroline Perkins, in her lifetime, on or about ninth day of August, eighteen hundred sixty-seven.

That the Equity of Redemption in said real estate passed by proper legal conveyances from the said Laurence S. Vansant and Sarah J. Vant, through the hands of various individuals into the possession of the said James Willis, on or about April 28th, 1873, and that the said James Willis conveyed the Equity of Redemption to his wife, Lydia Willis, on the 6th day of December, in the year 1876.

That the said Lydia A. Willis departed this life some time in the year 1885, and by last will and testament devised all her interest in and said real estate upon certain contingencies in said will described unto the said James Willis, Lydia P. Pennington, wife of H. C. Pennington, Lottie V. Hayes, wife of Owen Hayes, James L. Willis, James Willis, trustee, for John W. Willis and Harry P. Willis, John E. Willis, and J. E.
