Oh "Yew" Teddy Bears!

Tree clipping has been developed to a fine art in Victoria, the beautiful capital city of British Columbia. There, the holly bushes and yew trees of the city's gardens and parks, are shaped by clever shears into unique, symmetrical forms. Among the outstanding examples wrought by the gardeners of Victoria, are the two teddy bears pictured here. Both have been shaped from yew trees. The big one is a tree that is forty years old and the little one just five years old.
