Youth Groups To Share World Poultry Session

Quen Anne's To Send Boys, Possibly Girls, To Summer Congress

Youth organizations from all parts of the globe will participate in the Seventh Annual World's Poultry Congress and Exposition in Cleveland from July 28 to August 7. A Hall of Youth will be occupied solely by young people interested in the poultry industry.

Queen Anne's county will be represented by at least two boys, and possibly two girls, according to present intentions of the County Poultry Association.

These organizations have been invited to display or exhibit the application of their national agricultural problems for youth as they apply to the poultry industry. Twenty thousand square feet of floor space will be available in the Hall of Youth for activities and entertainment of the youngsters.

The United States will be represented by five organizations. They are the College Poultry Science Clubs, Future Farmers of America, 4-H Clubs, Boy Scouts of America, and New Famers of America. Officials expect more than 1,000 participants from at least 40 states. Many boys and girls, other than those participating, will be visitors at the Congress and will be provided for at the youth camp.

Each of the national organizations has been invited to develop an exhibit. The exhibits will be made by national organizations and not on a State basis.

Youth of foreign nations have been invited to be represented in each youth event, and foreign teams may present demonstrations in their own language.

The youth program has been developed in five operations—demonstrations and demonstration contests, judging contests, exhibits, entertainment, and youth camp. There will be no live bird show or display exclusively for the youth program.

Youngsters attending the Congress will have headquarters at the Cuyahoga County Fair Grounds at the edge of the city of Cleveland. The boys will be quartered in buildings on the fair grounds, with cots and beddings furnished. The girls will stay in college dormitories a few blocks from the grounds.
