CHESTERTOWN - NOV. 3, 1888.

Six Married Men.

At this juncture the coroner desired to show the jury the direction taken by the ball, and for this purpose produced the corset worn by Mrs. Burkhart at the time of the tragedy. "You see" said he—and here he drew the corset around his waist with the lace in front—the ball must have gone in from behind. No, that can't be, either, for the doctor says the ball went in front. Confound it, I've got it on wrong. Ah! this way." (Here the coroner put the corset on upside down.) "Now, you see (pointing to the hole in the garment, which rested over his hip), the ball must have gone in here. No, that can't be either, for—"

Here Mr. Mather, the handsome man on jury, broke in. "Dr. Stillman," said he "you've got that corset on wrong." Here the man blushed like a peony. "Well, when I married twice, and I ought to know how to rig a corest." "Yes," said Mr. Mather, "but you don't. You had it on backwards. The strings go in front and you lace them together at the back." "I think I ought to. I have a theory. If you doubt it, look here (pointing to the fullness at the top). How do you think that's a going to be filled if I put it on as I suggest?" "Dr. Stillman," "why, that goes without saying." "No, it don't" said Mr. Mather, "the fullness goes somewhere else—I'll show you." Mr. Mather indicated where he thought the fullness ought to go. The coroner and jury discovered that they had put the corset on bottom side foremost, said he, "put it on the other way."

The doctor put it on in reverse, with the laces in front. This brought the eyelet holes directly over the tails of the bullet.

"I don't think," said Mr. Mather, "that there is the bullet went in there, doctor."

"I don't think it did," was the reply. "Confound it, it's mighty funny—six married men in this room and not one that knows how to put on a woman's corset."

A Sly Fox.

Necessarily, from the life it is compelled to lead, the fox excels in cunning devices. A good illustration of it is this of the fox that, having captured a large duck, found his homeward progress obstructed by a wall too high for him to leap over with his burden. Raynard made two or three attempts and on each occasion fell back baffled. Finally he sat down and looked at the wall for a few minutes. Having satisfied himself with the survey, he caught the duck by the head, raised himself up against the wall with his fore paws as high as he could reach and stuck the bill of the duck into a crevice. The fox was now free for action. He leaped on the wall with a bound, reached down and catching the duck by the neck, went off on the other side with his plunder. The arctic fox is known to be particularly wary. One was killed by seizing on a bait tied to a string, which pulled the trigger of a gun; but another one, profiting by this experience, took care to go under the bait and pull it below the line of fire. Cases have been known also of the arctic fox avoiding all risk and completely circumventing its enemies by cutting the line attached to the trigger and then safely removing the bait.—Pionyme.

Our Population in 1890.

The census of 1890, preparations for which are already being made, promises to show in the United States a population of more than 70,000,000. The population in 1880, according to the census of that year, was 50,155,783 persons, of whom 43,475,840 were native and 6,679,943 foreign born. The natives had increased 10,484,698 from the figures of 1870—32,691,142—or 31.5 per cent. The foreign element had gained more slowly, however, bringing the percentage for the entire population down to 30 per cent. The same rate of increase applied to the census of 1880 will, give an increase of 15,046,639 persons during ten years ending in 1890.

Sick Horses.

Last week four horses belonging to Stewart Wade, residing near Appleton, were taken sick with some disease that baffled the skill of the local horse doctors. At the request of Dr. J. H. Jamar, Dr. W. H. Wray, State Veterinary Surgeon, came to Elkton on Wednesday and in company with Dr. Jamar, visited Mr. Wade's farm and examined the sick animals. Dr. Wray pronounced the disease cerebro-spinal meningitis, the same disease which afflicted so many horses in this county about a year ago. Two of the horses in question have died, the others are likely to recover.—Cecil Democrat.

THE coal miners of Birmingham, Ala., have struck against an attempt to reduce their wages from fifty to forty-five cents a ton. There is a tariff tax of seventy-five cents per ton on coal to keep out foreign coal and protect our miners. Those who use coal will please take notice that they are taxed about thirty cents more for a ton of coal than the whole cost of labor in producing it. There is no tariff on coal in England and the miner gets eighty cents a ton. Now why don't we according to protection theories flood the English market with our labor coal? And where is the need for any tax on coal except to rob the miner of coal to add to the profits of the owner of the mine?

The Literary Musical and Dramatic Club, incorporated in Oxford. The following three of the charter members write their names; and judging from the articles of incorporation the following note: "It is certain that a secretary who cannot be elected to keep the minutes of the club."—Fred. Stump. The "committee" of colored people.—Etc.

MME BERIOT—"You say you are engaged, Miss Gushington, but would you be married on Friday?" Miss Gushington—"What? Next Friday? Why of course, you are so sudden and so unpatienal.' "You quite misunderstand me. I protest—I didn't propose—" "That's all right, you didn't propose as they usually do, but I like it just the same. Yes, dear, it shall be Friday." Alfonse swoons.

PORTABLE electric lights, arranged to hang on a button of one's coat, and with a parabolic reflector to concentrate the light, with storage batteries weighing 1½ pounds each, are made to enable one to read in railroad cars by night.

CREDITOR—Brown you told me three months ago that you would come to my office and settle up your account. Debtor—I know I did, but it occurred to me that the office should seek the man, not the man the office.

RAILROAD OFFICIAL—I am exceedingly sorry, but I connot renew pass. Citizen (indignantly)—Wh-at! And I've had a pass on your road for fifteen years. Is that the way you treat old customers?

NURSE—Can't I put baby in the crib, ma'm? Mother—No, doggie is in the crib. Wait till doggie has had his nap.

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 7, 1888—The Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Gentlemen: I was a great sufferer from mucus or rheumatism for two years. I could get no permanent relief from any medicine prescribed by my physician. I took over a dozen bottles of your S. S. S., and now I am as well as I ever was in my life. I am sure your medicine cured me, and I can recommend it to any one suffering from any blood disease. Yours truly,

WACO, TEXAS, May 9, 1886—Gentlemen: The wife of one of my customers was terribly afflicted with a loathsome skin disease that covered her whole body. She was confined to her bed for several years by this affliction, and could not help herself at all. She could not sleep from a violent itching and stinging of the skin. The disease baffled the skill of the physicians who treated it. Her husband began finally giving his wife Swift's Specific, and she commenced to improve almost immediately, and in a few weeks she was apparently well. She is now as fat and hearty, fleshy and healthy, with no trace of the affliction left. Yours very truly, J. E. SEARS,
