On TUESDAY EVENING, Oct. 29th.

Speeches by F. HYLAND TAYLOR, S. VANNORT, J. A. PEARCE, J. D. URIE and LEWIN W. WICKES.

Getting Hot!

Judge Yellott charges that Mr. John Hubern "told eighteen lies on a single subject in the space of a few weeks!" Verily the campaign in Baltimore county waxes hot to allow of such extensive lying on the part of Mr. Hubern, or of charging on the part of the venerable judge!

A Curiosity or Monstrosity.

The Republican platform professes to favor the Pearce election law "with the addition of some features of the Australian system." Only give that party a chance, by allowing them to get the next Legislature, and the election law they would formulate would be a curiosity—if not a monstrosity!

A New Assessment.

The Republican platform demands a reassessment of all property throughout the State. The Democrats also favor a reassessment. It will, therefore, be made. The only question now to be considered is who shall make it? Are the Republicans of Kent better qualified for assessors of real and personal property than Democrats?

EX-GOVERNOR JOHN F. HARTRANFT, of Pennsylvania, died on the 17th inst. at his home, at Norristown, aged 59 years. He was in active service throughout the civil war and took part in many battles. General Hartranft was elected Governor of Pennsylvania in 1872 and re-elected in 1875. On his retirement from the governorship in 1878, President Hayes appointed him postmaster of Philadelphia, and in 1880 he was appointed collector of that port, holding the office until the appointment of his successor by President Cleveland, in July, 1885.

EX-CONGRESSMAN RAYNER is evidently a democrat from principle and of the old school sort, as was shown in a recent speech in Baltimore. Among other things he said: Whatever feelings I may entertain upon questions of party policy, whatever differences of opinion may exist between myself and others upon matters of that character, when I believe the party is in danger, when I see the signal flashing all along the line and warning me of danger, I am willing to bury any personal difference or grievance that I may have, and come with all the strength I can command to help the party in its hour of need."

CAPT. HOWARD COMMENDED.

Owners of the Dredge Vessels Get Nothing.

The result of the damage suits brought by the owners of the two dredge vessels that were sunk in Chester river last December by Capt. Howard will have an excellent effect upon the dredgers, and it is not likely there will be any more pitched battles for the supremacy in waters reserved to tongers. In dismissing the action Judge Morris stated that Capt. Howard had the strongest reason for thinking that these boats had violated the laws, which would give him the right to overhaul them, and that he displayed in the course pursued by him the qualities of a brave, capable, and resolute commander under the most dandangerous circumstances, and deserved the thanks of the State. Correct!

"Things are absolutely rottening in this monumental Bedlam of ours."

This expression was used by Mr. Wm. M. Marine, a Republican orator, at one of the meetings in Baltimore on Monday night. He referred to Baltimore city. If Mr. Marine tells the truth our people had better keep away from the Monumental city. A "rottening" city is certainly an unfit place for any people to deal. But did he tell the truth? Is Baltimore as bad a place as this campaign orator paints it? Our people do not believe him, of course. His own Republican hearers did not believe him. He was only talking for buncome. Therefore Baltimore's trade and commerce will not likely be injured thereby. But Mr. Marine is none the less culpable. And the flood of abuse and slander now pouring from orators of his ilk is enough to make every citizen of Baltimore loathe the cause that prompts it!

An Interesting Case.

In the court proceedings in another column will be found the report of the case of Lorentz & Ritler vs. Victor Hendrickson. There are twenty-five or thirty of these "Hulless Oats" and "Seneca Wheat" note cases docketed in our court, and some of them have features like the one above named. The result in the Hendrickson case will be very discouraging to all other makers of such notes. Some of the other cases have been compromised. The case was watched with much interest from beginning to close by many interested parties, and the argument of the distinguished counsel were all heard by a full court room.

Col. Edward H. Brown, of the Centreville bar, opened the argument for the plaintiff. He is a man of marked ability; has a strong, rich voice, and his earnest manner and intelligent grasp of every detail of his case, render him a most effective advocate before a jury. His speech in this case was about one hour and a half in length and was a masterly effort.

Harrison W. Vickers, Esq., followed for the other side. He was eloquent and earnest as usual, and with wonderful skill and directness he presented the strong points of his case.

Mr. Vickers' associate, Albert Constable, Esq., of the Elkton bar, followed in a characteristic speech; and all who have ever heard Constable in an important case know what his characteristics are. His ingenuity and invective, his sarcasm and eloquence were in full play, and with striking mien and voice he did his whole duty to his client. When Constable and Vickers had finished speaking many thought the defendant's case won, but there was one other speaker to be heard.

Thomas J. Keating, of the Centreville bar, came last. He is one of the best lawyers on the Shore, and the man who so honorably filled the office of State Comptroller for three terms. He began his speech in so low a tone that many could not catch his words, but in a little while his voice penetrated every part of the room, and in a most forcible and convincing argument he settled whatever of doubt remained with the jury. Mr. Keating appeared specially vigorous and pleasing in manner and delivery, and the general opinion among the listeners, when he took his seat, was that the plaintiff's case was gained, and so it proved to be.

College Notes.

The Athletic Association of Washington College held a meeting on Tuesday and elected the following officers: President, Edw. J. Clarke; vice-president, W. S. Stevens; rec. sec., W. B. Usilton, Jr.; cor. sec., W. F. Porter; treas., G. A. Bunting; executive committee, R. F. Duer, C. W. Perkins, J. H. Geoghegan; visiting committee, M. S. Harper, P. Hammond, R. E. Fisher. The association numbers about forty members. President Reid addressed the association in appropriate terms. It was decided to have a field day of sports in June when prizes will be offered.

Washington College now has fifty-nine students—a larger number than for many years, and the prospects are very encouraging for its future. Prof. Reid seems to be the right man for its head, and has the cordial co-operation of the other members of the faculty. The visitors also are giving hearty co-operation.

The following students have entered since October 15th: Alma Jarman, David Brown, W. E. and R. Hill, W. C. Copper, Jas. N. Boston and John T. Norris, of Kent; Jos. Kendall, of Queen Anne's, and C. P. Hammond, of Talbot.

The faculty have recently adopted a good feature—that of sending out monthly reports to parents showing standing of pupils. Those deserving special mention in the preparatory department for the past month are Gurney Knotts, 96⅔; Harry Catlin, 96 2-5; Arthur Merritt, 94¼; John S. Clayton, 93½; Louis M. Barnard, 91 4-5; Carl Westcott, 90⅓. Those having graded over 80 out of a possible hundred are, Ward Carville, William H. Bonwill, Willie Bell, Winnie Copper, Harry Hurtt, Harry Simpers, Tom Perkins, David Ford, Norman Perkins, Paul Graham, Weston Welch, Sam Beck.

THE Hanesville Woman's Christian Union held a meeting at St. James' Church on Sunday evening last, attended by a large audience. The program, which consisted of music by the choir, readings, recitations, solos and addresses by ladies and gentlemen of the community, was of a very interesting character. Mr. Frank Crow and Miss Annie Lee read selections from temperance literature, the Misses Martie and Annie Stephens delivered interesting recitations; Miss May Hurlock sang a solo of unusual sweetness, and Master Will Willis and his sister May rendered a dialogue entitled "Temperance Children." The features of the evening were selections by the choir, a reading given by Mrs. Charles Hurlock and an address by the president of the union, Mrs. Dr. William Turner. The pastor of the church, Rev. S. B. Tredway, concluded the exercises with a short address and pronounced the benediction.

A TRAVELING PREACHER.—The colored citizens of Corktown in Morgan's Creek Neck had an experience recently which will make them more cautious in the reception of strangers. It was on Sunday morning, October 13th, that a colored gentleman arrived at the Corktown colored church and preached a very short sermon, promising to give them more of his eloquence the following Sunday. So he did, but not in words; his actions spoke louder. On Monday he sold the buggy in which he had ridden from Chestertown to "his field of labor" for eleven dollars and the horse he mortgaged for five dollars to two leading men of the church. He immediately left for Philadelphia. No sooner had he left than a colored man from Centreville arrived at Corktown and identified the team as his and declared the preacher a thief and a hypocrite. The team was given up to its rightful owner. The preacher had been given money to buy lumber cheap at Kent Island, but he has gone! Possibly he may send it when he goes back to Queen Anne's.

A SCAFFOLD FALLS.—Mr. R. K. Pippin is rebuilding a church at Queenstown, and on Wednesday afternoon while at work on the building the scaffold broke down. Four men were on the scaffold, two of whom, Messrs. Pippin and J. A. Bacchus, were precipitated twenty feet to the ground while Messrs. McClenahan and Gosman clung to the poles until rescued. Mr. Pippin fell across the joice and broke a bone in his left wrist, but Mr. Bacchus lighted on his feet and was but little injured.

THE entertainment to be given by Miss Olive Thompson in McWhorter's Hall at Millington on Wednesday evening next will no doubt be a charming affair. Miss Thompson is a young lady of graceful presence, and a reader of marked ability. Her powers of imporsonation are wonderful. She has delighted large audiences in all sections of the country.

THE managers of the Cecil County Agricultural Society report their net profits this year at $1,400.

In Memoriam: RICHARD HYNSON.

Another prominent figure from the various walks of life has disappeared. RICHARD HYNSON is dead. From one end of our county to the other the shock is felt, and throughout the State the intelligence will cause feelings of deepest regret.

It has been apparent for several years that Mr. Hynson's fine constitution and physical strength were on the decline, though no suspicion of broken health or disease was entertained by himself or his family until during the past summer. Then it was only the shadow of suspicion occasioned by his failure to get rid of what at first seemed a slight illness in the nature of a cold or malaria. He had been in the habit for years past of spending a good part of the month of August at the White Sulphur Springs for rest and recuperation, and so when last August came and he was about to set out for his favorite resort, it was not without grave misgivings that he was really too sick to go. But with that determination characteristic of the man, and reliance upon a constitution that had never yet failed him, his decision was made. He had not been at the Springs long before the physicians there advised him against remaining, and he returned to Baltimore. There he had the close attention and best skill of eminent medical men, who soon diagnosed his case; its serious nature was made known to him, and he imparted a ray of the dread truth to his family. Returning home, his indomitable perseverance and wonderful industry prompted a return to accustomed duties, and for a while he was to be seen at his office and desk and assuming his usual interest in political and business affairs. But the fatal disease was rapidly and surely doing its work, and all his strength of spirit, added to his physicians' skill, could not keep him up, and he sought the quiet of home and there awaited the summons to the grave. Dr. T. H. Cooper was his physician and gave him constant attention, aided by Dr. Thomas Shearer, the eminent homeopath of Baltimore.

In legal circles especially will Mr. Hynson's loss be felt. For forty-five years he has been in active practice, giving attention almost exclusively to cases at the Kent bar; he very rarely accepted an engagement beyond an adjoining county. For thirty years he has had a very large practice here, both civil and criminal. In legal combat he has crossed swords with Chambers, Ricaud and Vickers of our own bar, and with like distinguished and departed giants of Queen Anne's, Cecil and elsewhere, as well as with the many able men of younger years now in active practice in the same courts. For years his influence at the Kent bar was almost omnipotent. His engagement in the defense of a client was regarded by some as the sure guarantee of the success of that client, be his case ever so desperate. His love for his profession was self-absorbing; he was never better entertained than in the discussion of legal questions. He was particularly strong before a jury of his own county, where his plain, earnest and practical pleading, fortified by the implicit confidence of the panel in his wisdom and integrity, was convincing in the highest degree. He never attempted oratorical flourish; that quality he regarded as rather a weakness than a help to a pleader; and he was doubtless right. He gave first consideration to his jury, and, with reasonable success in that, he was generally sure of his case. He was not disposed to harshness in dealing with witnesses and was extremely considerate with any of the gentler sex who might be called to endure the ordeal of the witness stand. He was well read in law and always fully fortified with this lever before going to trial; the strength of his pleading was in his ingenious theorizing, his plausible speculations and forcible presentation of practical truths which appealed to the intelligence and sympathy of the juror. When he took hold of a case he grasped it with all his might of brain and heart, bending his every effort of voice and influence until the jury or the court definitely settled it. His equity and orphans' court practice was specially remunerative. He was very successful in the sale of lands, and has administered a number of the largest estates in the county, with integrity unquestioned and with satisfaction most gratifying to all concerned.

Mr. Hynson has always taken an active interest in political affairs, and for many years has been an acknowledged leader in county and State politics. He was originally a Whig, and upon the death of that party joined the Democracy, and never faltered in his allegiance to its principles. Among the great State leaders of his party he was a valued adviser. He assisted in planning and executing many of the important political State campaigns of recent years. In county politics he took great interest—always anxious, always practical and always far-seeing in counsel and planning. He rarely ever failed of success in any campaign of which his judgment approved. He never held a purely political office. He was averse to positions of this kind. He could have been Governor of the State or gone to either House of Congress with a word; the opportunity was afforded him once or twice to grasp the generally coveted prize of the United States Senatorship—but he invariably refused. Without the slightest effort upon his part he could have secured any political position in the gift of his county people, but declined them all for the more congenial and the more profitable calling to which he had devoted his life—that of the law.

Mr. Hynson also had a great fondness for agriculture. He owned some of the finest lands in Kent county, mostly in the lower section, and it was his delight to visit one or more of these farms nearly every Friday in the farming seasons and acquaint himself with the details of farm work. Mr. W. H. Coleman, Mr. Lem. Stevens and Mr. J. C. Wheatley, of his tenants, have the reputation of being among the best farmers in the county, and their many years of continuous relationship with Mr. Hynson as landlord and tenant without a serious disagreement, indicates his intelligent comprehension of the merits and claims of a worthy farm tenantry.

Biographical.

RICHARD HYNSON was born January 20, 1821, at Deer Park, or Poplar Grove, the residence of his father, in St. Paul's Parish, Kent county. He was the son of Thomas Bowers and Ann (Dunn) Hynson. His parental ancestor, Thomas Hynson, was an early settler, and for several years and at different times the clerk and high sheriff of Kent county. His mother, Mrs. Ann (Dunn) Hynson, was descended from an old and distinguished family of the same county.

He received a classical education in Kent, his native county, and finished his course of study at the New London Academy, Chester co., Pa., during the presidency of Dr. William Dubois. After completing his studies at the academy he studied law with his relative, Judge John B. Eccleston, of Chestertown, and in the office of Hon. George Vickers. He was admitted to the Kent bar at the September term of 1843.

In 1850 he was made treasurer of the Chester Bridge Company, of Chestertown, which position he held until the time of his death. He was the treasurer and solicitor of the Kent County Railroad Company from its organization in 1866 to the year 1874, and was the attorney and solicitor of the Kent National Bank of Chestertown since it became a national bank in 1865. At the session of the Legislature of Maryland of 1877-8 he was appointed one of the managers of the House of Correction of Maryland, and has been reappointed several times since, holding the position up to his death. He was a director of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for several years, and resigned and was succeeded by Senator Gorman two years ago. He was also a member of the board of visitors of Washington College and counsel for the board for a great many years and up to his death. He was a delegate to the Democratic nominating convention which met in Cincinnati in 1880 and nominated W. S. Hancock as a candidate for the Presidency of the United States, and was also selected as one of the delegates to the Chicago convention in 1884 that nominated Grover Cleveland.

In religion he was an Episcopalian. On December 7, 1843, he married Carolene Louisa Marsh, a niece of Judge J. B. Eccleston, and a daughter of Elias Marsh and Mary Louisa (Eccleston) of Philadelphia. Mr. Hynson leaves a wife and four children: Mrs. William M. Slay, nee Augusta Eccleston Hynson, Carolene Louisa Hynson, Mrs. Edward Rogers, nee Marian Hynson, and Richard Dunn Hynson.

The Funeral.

Funeral services will be held this morning at 11 o'clock at the deceased's late residence on Front street, conducted by Rev. S. C. Roberts, of the Episcopal church, after which the remains will be interred in St. Paul's cemetery. The pall-bearers will be Messrs. W. N. E. Wickes, James A. Pearce, C. T. Westcott, Dr. S. Beck, Wm. T. Hepbron, S. Cacy, John Brice, R. S. Emory.

Gov. Biggs, of Delaware, was in town last Monday on business.

Rev. I. G. Fosnocht, the popular pastor of Galena circuit M. E. Church, has been attending court this week. But it was for no fault of his own!

Rev. J. W. Trout and Dr. J. B. Merritt, of Easton, drove up and spent Monday in Chestertown, returning that evening.

Mr. M. J. Woodford, of Centreville, had charge of the organ in Christ Church, Chestertown, last Sunday, and evidenced much taste and skill in his performances.

Messrs. M. A. Toulson, J. W. Bordley, Chas. S. York and F. Carter went to Centreville on Monday night to hear Col. Bain's lecture. They say they were well repaid.

Mr. T. J. Vickers, who was on the jury trial of the Hulless oats case, was excused by the court on the second day on account of sickness, and the case went on with eleven jurors by agreement.

Rev. E. H. Nelson and wife, of Chesapeake City, have been visiting Mr. J. R. Franklin and wife this week.

More than the usual number of visiting attorneys have been at the Kent bar this week. Among them Messrs. T. J. Keating, E. H. Brown and P. B. Hopper, of Centreville; Albert Constable, of Elkton; and Wm. B. Thomas, of Westminster.

Mr. David Clements, of Chesterville, fell from the granary recently, and it was at first feared that he had dislocated his shoulder, but upon an examination it was found he had not. He has, however, suffered much from the severe fall.

Ex-Senator W. T. P. Turpin, of Centreville, and Mrs. Carrie Wesson, of Louisville, Kentucky, were married at the latter place on Thursday. After a short wedding tour they will return to Centreville, reaching there on Tuesday or Wednesday next. Senator Turpin left Centreville for Louisville Monday morning.

Miss Bessie Boyer, of Sassafras, lost a gold watch while in Middletown some few days ago, and a diligent search was made for the missing article. After some time was spent in hunting for it, it was found near a hitching post at the Railroad depot, where it was dropped about two hours before.—Middletown News.

Rev. Wm. Munford, who was recently called from St. Paul's to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. Chas. F. Sweet as pastor of St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church, Salisbury, has taken charge of his new parish, officiating for the first time on Sunday. Gov. Jackson and family were among those present.

MRS. J. H. RUPP, of Baltimore, made an official visit to St. James' Church on last Sabbath morning, and organized an auxiliary branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Protestant church. Twenty-five ladies gave their names and an organization was effected, with the following ladies for officers: President, Mrs. Harriet M. Usilton; vice-president, Mrs. Lizzie Skirven; secretary, Mrs. Walter Skirven; treasurer, Mrs. William Anderson; collectors, Misses Lizzie Hepbron and Daisy Usilton. The amount expended last year by the society in Japan was $5,576.82.

WALTON CHAPEL BURNED.—The frame M. E. Church in the lower part of Quaker Neck, known as Walton Chapel, was destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The fire was discovered about half-past six o'clock and by eight the house was entirely consumed. The only things saved were the pulpit bible and a few chairs. Meetings had been held in the church every night during the week and it is probable that the origin of the fire was accidental. The house was insured in the Mutual Insurance Company of this county for $728, which was probably two-thirds of its value.

MR. JAS. S. ROBINSON, of Anne Arundel, the humorous and popular speaker who delighted the big audience in Stam's Hall on Thursday night, will certainly be at Grey's Inn next Saturday. Turn out, Democrats and give him a big audience!

T. W. ELIASON, JR., has received a large invoice of lumber and shingles this week. Builders will find it to their interest to call and see him. He is reliable in representation and as low in prices, if not lower than others.

GEN. JOSEPH B. SETH, of Talbot county has been appointed Maryland commissioner to locate the Potomac oyster boundary.

REV. JOHN MARTIN, on account of sickness, will not be able to fill his appointments at Shrewsbury to-morrow (Sunday). 1t.

GRAND MUSICALE!

One Night Only - Stam's Hall.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 30, 1889.

RICCA'S CASTILIAN TROUBADOURS!!

will appear in the

Brilliant Spanish Costume of Old Castle

and produce the wonderfully attractive and dreamy music of their native land. Their music is dainty, sweet and pathetic. It appeals to the romantic in human nature, and affects the emotions like strains from an old song. Their instruments are the

MANDOLIN, HARP, GUITAR and ZITHERN.

It is to be hoped this entertainment will be liberally patronized, as it is rarely that a county town is favored with music so attractive.

The price of Tickets, including Reserved Seats, has been fixed at 50c., and the sale limited to 400. It is best to secure your seats now and avoid trouble. Read what the press says.
