Pardons Granted.—Gov. Warfield on Wednesday pardoned or promised to pardon a number of persons. William Ford, colored, of Kent county, who is serving a six month's sentence in the House of Correction, was ordered to be released. Ford was convicted of drawing a razor on one of his associates at Kennedyville. Ex-State Senator Hepburn indorsed Ford's application for release. The Governor, after looking over the paper, said: "Well, I suppose farmhands are scarce in Kent county. I will give Ford an opportunity to go to work."

The Governor decided to pardon Marian Comegys, an elderly colored woman, who was found guilty by the Circuit Court for Kent county of aiding the attempt to escape of her son, Hayes Comegys, unless there are some strong protests. Comegys was then confined in the Kent County Jail, and is now serving 10 years in the Penitentiary, having been convicted of an aggravated assault and robbery. The mother smuggled a saw to her son, with which he nearly succeeded in escaping, and was sentenced to three years in the Penitentiary. She has now served about two years.

The woman stood well among the people of Kent county and it has been urged upon the Governor that she obeyed a natural impulse in giving her son help and hardly realized that she was committing a severe offense. Mrs. L. J. Legg and Mrs. Mahlon Lee, prominent women of the county, made a personal visit to Annapolis in behalf of the colored woman. There was a numerously signed petition for her release. The Governor ordered the case advertised, and will pardon her unless there are strong protests.

Does Your Heart Beat

Yes. 100,000 times each day. Does it send out good blood or bad blood? You know, for good blood is good health; bad blood, bad health. And you know precisely what to take for bad blood—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Doctors have endorsed it for 60 years.

One frequent cause of bad blood is a sluggish liver. This produces constipation. Poisonous substances are then absorbed into the blood. Keep the bowels open with Ayer's Pills.

DR. LEWIS' NARROW ESCAPE.

Passes Through Two Harrowing Experiences During Recent Trip to Jamaica.

Dr. T. H. Lewis, president of Western Maryland College, having passed through two harrowing experiences—that of spending a night on a vessel going to pieces on the rocks and later to be on an island visited by an earthquake, was seen in Baltimore a few days ago by a NEWS reporter.

"In returning Dr. Lewis concludes a trip of nine months. Last June, with his daughters, he left for Europe and visited France, Switzerland, Palestine and Egypt, after which he returned to New York and met Mrs. Lewis. Together they left for Kingston, Jamaica, on the steamship Princessin Victoria Louisine, which foundered on a reef within 100 yards of the shore. The account of their experiences is best told by Dr. Lewis himself. He says:

"We left on the Princessin Victoria Louisine, which was the finest vessel afloat. Contrary to all rules, the captain did not take a pilot aboard. About 9.30 o'clock at night he started to take his vessel up the channel to wait until morning before going into the harbor.

"Suddenly we hit upon a reef, and a few moments later we learned that the captain had committed suicide in his cabin. There was a great deal of confusion due to the fact that there was no head. The mate did not seem to know what to do and allowed the vessel to rock to and fro. A few futile attempts were made to put out an anchor from the stern. We remained on the vessel until 10.30 o'clock in the morning, when we were taken off in lifeboats.

"We made our headquarters at Half Way Tree Inn, which was the oldest place on the island, built back in the sixteenth century. It was a 15-minute trip from Kingston proper. The inn was completely demolished. About 3.30 on the afternoon of the earthquake we were preparing to take a bath. My wife was lying across the foot of the bed. As soon as I felt the first shock I knew it was a quake. We fled from the house in our dishabilles, and it was lucky, for the bed on which my wife was resting was covered with bricks and plaster from a brick partition. The real quake did not last more than 35 seconds. First there came a rocking, then spinning, followed by a twisting sensation, and I believe that it was the latter that did the damage.

"After the quake there was no more place to live in, but as the weather was warm it was not a very great hardship, and the people suffered only from the sunshine by day and the dew by night. There was very little scarcity of food. The fire must have broken out almost simultaneously. It burned fiercely Monday night, but early Tuesday morning the wind carried it out to the harbor and it burned out.

"We fortunately secured quarters. At our place there was a little hut of two rooms used by the servants. They became the rooms of the guests, one for the ladies and the other for gentlemen. The latter was well filled.

"The removal of the American forces from the island caused a great deal of unfavorable comment, and the bankers, especially, were prevented from opening their safes. As a result I could not get my letter of credit cashed, and had to remain in the place until Tuesday of the next week, when I left for Cuba.

"In a good many instances the loss of life was due to persons rushing into the streets and being caught between falling walls. Mr. Nathan, a rich Londoner, was getting shaved and jumped from the chair and was killed before he reached the edge of the pavement. His partner, Mr. Shirlock, was in a store and was also killed before he reached the edge of the pavement. With all the money that Nathan had he was placed on a piece of corrugated iron and lowered into the ground without any casket.

"At another place I saw the crisp remains of a man lying on the top of a pile of bricks. Not a church or public building remained standing, and the most remarkable thing I saw was the statue of Victoria, that had been turned completely around on its base.

"After remaining in Cuba for a time we left for Florida, and, after five weeks there, came home."

Weak Hearts

Are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you subject to indigestion, you have, no doubt, had shortness of breath. Indigestion causes the stomach to expand and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, then in the course of time the heart becomes diseased. It is necessary in these conditions to employ the use of digestive agents, which take the strain off the heart and gives strength and relief to every organ of the body. An eminent specialist has suggested the following formula: Kastor Compound, 1 oz., Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, 1 oz; Tr. Cinchona Compound, 2½ oz. These can be obtained from your local druggist at a small cost, and will afford a world of relief in any of the forms of indigestion, dyspepsia, sour stomach, inflamation of the mucuous membrane, lining of the stomach and digestic tract, nervous system and catarrh of the stomach.
