For the Children

To succeed these days you must have plenty of grit, courage, strength. How is it with the children? Are they thin, pale, delicate? Do not forget Ayer's Sarsaparilla. You know it makes the blood pure and rich, and builds up the general health in every way.

The children cannot possibly have good health unless the bowels are in proper condition. Correct any constipation by giving small laxative doses of Ayer's Pills. All vegetable, sugar-coated.

KESLEY CHAPEL ALIVE.

Broad Neck Young People Attending Church—A Flourishing Society With Aggressive President.

Kesley Chapel is the name of a church organized fifty years ago and located in one of the fairest spots of Kent county—Broad Neck. For some reason it has been allowed to slumber from inattention and had been almost abandoned. Recently, however, a few aggressive citizens determined to reopen the sacred edifice and begin a Sabbath school. A musical and literary society was organized with these officers: President, Richard Groves; vice-president, Mr. Samuel J. Vickers; secretary, Miss Louise Glenn; treasurer, Miss Ethel Jacquette. It now has forty members and meets every week.

Thursday evening was a "red letter" night in the history of the society. The church was well filled with the young people of Broad Neck who entered enthusiastically into the spirit of the occasion and the following program was presented:

Singing.....Chorus
Lord's Prayer.....In Concert
Solo.....Miss Emma Bryan
Address "Cheerfulness".....Fred. G. Usilton
Solo.....Richard Groves
Recitation.....Miss Lula Bedwell
Address "Music and Literature"..Wm. F. Russell
Declamation.....R. Groves
Solo.....S. J. Vickers
Reading.....Mrs. Walter Fletcher
Duet.....Misses Carrie and Rachel Bryan
Chorus.....Society

Miss Louise Glenn is the organist while Mr. S. J. Vickers leads the singing. The choir is composed of strong voices and willing spirits. There is no reason why this charge should not become one of influence and vigor.

A Gifted Pulpit Orator.

Rev. Dr. Francis T. Little Known as "Literary Artist."

Rev. Dr. Francis T. Little, is one of the best known and one of the most popular preachers in Baltimore. His sermons are philosophical compositions, and his power as an orator has won from his fellow-ministers the title of "literary artist," for few men excel him in beauty and elegance of word painting.

Gifted in an unusual degree, with a noble, dignified bearing, he adds much to his acquired talents by his pulpit delivery. His voice is deep and mellow, under perfect control, at times striking like a thunder-bolt and compelling obedience to his words; again plaintive and persuasive, attracting by an irresistible force.

As a pastor Dr. Little is likewise successful. His straightforward manliness opens the hearts of his people, and his unmistakable sincerity (for he practices what he preaches) gives him a clear pathway to those whom he would bring under the influence of the church. In revival meetings, through his efforts, many unconverted persons have professed religion.

He is a great favorite with children, and in the Sunday-school the younger folks listen attentively to his words. He is master of the art of adapting himself to conditions, his talks being as much appreciated in Sunday school circles as are his addresses on more formal occasions. Although he usually occupies an hour in the pulpit, time passes rapidly under the personal magnetism of the speaker.

Dr. Little was born in Baltimore and was educated in the public schools and the City College. In 1871 he was appointed by the president to Dorchester Circuit, the only charge he has had where he was junior pastor. He has enjoyed the distinction of serving the longest pastorate in his conference, being stationed at Starr Church, Baltimore, from 1889 to 1902, and has preached in all of the pulpits of the conference district.

For 12 years he was secretary and treasurer of the Baltimore Book Directory and secretary of the Board of Publication, composed of the joint directors of Baltimore and Pittsburg. He has been trustee of Western Maryland College, an institution of the Methodist Protestant Church, since 1896. He is at present a director of the Maryland Bible Society and a vice-president of the Maryland Tract Society.

In 1901 the University of Kansas conferred on him the degree of doctor of divinity.—Baltimore Sun.

AN ART SURPASSING PAINTING.

"Divorce will decrease about ninety per cent when women learn the art of cooking. When that happens, this will be the happiest place this side of Aready, or heaven—Though I do not know the geographical location of the latter place, nor am I acquainted with the nutrients used there."

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chemist for the United States department of agriculture, makes this statement;

"Cookery is the crowning accomplishment of the good housewife. The well-being of the whole family depends on it, ethically and economically, as well as physically—ethically, because the state of the human mind and temper is so dependent on the state of the human body, economically, because the cook, who knows how she can set a better table—more palatable and more nutritious—than the woman who doesn't.

"Cooking, I regard as one of the highest arts. In my judgement, it ranks above painting, It certainly does more for the happiness of the human race than all the other high arts put together.

"To a really good housekeeper, the servant problem is not such a bug-bear. She can get along without servants if she wants to. And she is generally able to keep servants when she gets them, or to train new ones when she is obliged to do so. So she does not let it drive her out of her home and into a hotel or boarding house. I believe that if every girl who looks forward, as all girls should, to a happy marriage, were to regard that as a vocation, and fit herself for it by first of all being thoroughly mistress of her kitchen range—whether the actual work is done by deputy or not—and after that of the rest of her house, she would stand a much better chance of living happy ever after."

SAMUEL H. FOX.

Samuel H. Fox died at his home, in Wilmers Neck, Thursday morning of general debility. Mr. Fox was 66 years old. About two years ago he had a severe attack of typhoid fever, which left him in a feeble condition. He is survived by a widow, five sons and three daughters, namely, William and Samuel, of Wilmers Neck; Ludlow and Frank, of Baltimore, and Clarence, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Isaac Williams, of Philadelphia; Mrs. William Crane, of Baltimore, and Miss Mary Fox.
