Rev. Dr. F. T. Little, the newly appointed pastor of Christ Church, Chestertown, filled his pulpit last Sunday, and was greeted by full congregations. Both sermons were very interesting and met the expectations of his auditors, which is saying much of one who is so well known in Kent for his distinguished ability as a pulpit orator and as a popular pastor.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

The following proceedings of the Circuit Court for Kent county is a continuation from our last issue.

SATURDAY.

Frank R. McWhorter vs. H. H. Barroll, attorney, for alleged neglect in collection of claim was concluded. Verdict for Barroll. R. Groome Parks, attorney for plaintiff.

The Grand Jury finished its investigations and was discharged.

State against Walter Nichols charged with attempt to rob money drawer of Smith & Graham, verdict, not guilty.

C. Decatur Kelley and Adam N. Kelley versus Dr. Thomas B. Willson and others. This was a suit of much interest. It was claimed by the Kelleys that the late Wm. H. Coleman, collector of taxes for Kent county, in the year of 1889, sold their land, a farm of 23 acres for $795 for a tax bill of $11.93, and never paid over to them any part of the purchase money. Mr. Coleman died some ten years ago, and this was a suit against the sureties on the collector's bond for the purchase money of the farm. The defendants contended that the bond was given to insure the collection of taxes and their prompt payment to the county commissioners and not to secure persons whose property was sold by him for taxes, and further, that the collector had no right under the law to handle one dollar of the purchase money in excess of his taxes and costs. This view was sustained by the decision of the Court on demurrer and judgment entered for defendant. Barroll for Kelley; Slay and Beck for defendants.

The defendant offered account for service etc., in bar. Jury trial; verdict for Ashley. H. H. Barroll attorney for Sharp; W. W. Beck for Ashley.

Case of Clifton Spry, of Chesterville, charged with selling whiskey was tried by a jury. The jury after being out for six hours failed to agree. It is said they stood 9 for conviction and 3 for acquittal. This case was afterwards stetted by the State. In the other two cases against Spry for same offence he pleaded guilty, and fined $150 in one case, which was paid, and the court suspended sentence in the other case after an able and eloquent reprimand by Judge Crothers. H. W. Vickers, Jr., and S. Scott Beck for Spry; W. W. Beck for State.

NEW INSURANCE COMPANY.

Hiram R. Burton, of Lewes; John S. Mullin, Jr., Dr. Peter W. Tomlinson and William F. Kurtz, of Wilmington, Wilbur W. Hubbard, of the Hubbard Fertilizer Company, Chestertown; DeCoursey W. Thom, of Baltimore; Hawes L. Cooper, of Denton; J. S. V. Wilcox, of Salisbury; B. E. Smith, of Cambridge; T. R. Madden, of Smyrna; L. A. Weishampel, of Easton; J. W. Keene, of Chestertown; H. G. Hayman, of Centreville; C. C. Hale, of Baltimore, and L. L. Derrickson, of Berlin, with some Dover captalists and business men, met here by invitation of one of this number to consider the advisibility of organizing a life insurance company.

The meeting was behind closed doors and nothing was divulged except that no organization was decided upon and adjournment was made to some period about May 1, to be fixed later.

No name was adopted but three were suggested, if the promoters should effect an organization, one in particular being the American Assurance Company.

There have been a few meetings where such a combination of the business interests of the Peninsula was congregated.

Dissatisfaction over the conduct of the business of some of the old line companies and discontent through the Peninsula at sending any more money to New York were assigned as the reasons for organizing a local corporation with the insurance of the lives of the people of the Peninsula in view. The Baltimore men who attended were all Peninsula "boys," Mr. Thom now having a residence at Queenstown.

Some of those present, it is said, were not fully in favor of organizing unless practical insurance men of the Peninsula could be interested. Others favored the interesting of still larger vested interests and men of means of the Peninsula, particularly of Delaware.
