BY THIS DAY's MAILS.

MIDDLEBURY, (Vt.) Nov. 13.

Constitution of Vermont.

Agreeably to the constitution, a Council of Censors, consisting of thirteen persons, will be elected by the freemen on the last Wednesday in March next, who are to assemble in this place on the first Wednesday in June, 1806—" Whose duty it will be to enquire, whether the constitution of this state has been preserved inviolate in every part, during the last septennary, or seven years; and whether the legislative and executive branches of the government have performed their duty, as guardians of the people. They are also to enquire, whether the public taxes have been justly laid and collected in all parts of the commonwealth; in what manner the public monies have been disposed of: and whether the laws have been duly executed. For these purposes, they are authorised to send for persons, papers and records; and have power to pass public censures, to order impeachment, and to recommend to the legislature the repealing of such laws as shall appear to them to be unconstitutional. These powers they are to hold during the space of one year from the day of their election. They are also empowered to call a convention, to meet within two years after their sitting, if there appears to them an absolute necessity of amending any article of the constitution," &c. &c.

SALEM, November 20.

Arrived, the brig Hannah, of Portland, from St. Vincents, 21 days. The brig Warren Donnison, from New-York, touched at that island on the 24th October, from New-York, and left without anchoring for Dominica. Sailed from St. Vincent, the 29th Oct.; on the 30th was boarded by the French privateer Mary, of Martinique, with 1 gun and 18 men, and robbed of ten gallons rum, and most of our candles, and all our live stock; found they could get no money, and left us. Nov. 5 lat. 26, long. 67, spoke the brig Hope, Barker, from Senegal, 25 days out, for Philadelphia—captain very sick.

INTERESTING FOREIGN EXTRACTS.

[From our English and French files.]

Nearly 10,000,000 of dollars in specie, has been shipped in England, to the continent, for the use of the allied powers—to be divided with Austria, Russia, Sweden, and perhaps, Naples and Bavaria. It has been transmitted principally in ships of war, and had been insured at Lloyd's against all risks, at from one fifth to half per cent.

Several attempts were made about the beginning of October, by the boats of sir Sydney Smith's squadron, to burn or destroy the French flotilla in Boulogne, with carcasses, &c.—But with little loss and less effect.

PARIS, September 24, 1805.

His majesty, the emperor, arrived here this day. The prefect presented to his majesty the keys of the city and the following address:—

" SIRE,

" Here are the keys of Paris, of the capital of your empire, of that city you have made the first in the world.

" In offering you that ancient symbol of the submission and devotion of the city, we cannot dissemble, sire that joy, that delicious sentiment which always signalises the arrival of your majesty within the capital, is united this day with more grave emotions.

" The annunciation of an Imperial sitting of the senate, the rumors which have preceded that intelligence, those that have followed it, some circumstances that are known, others that are said to be unknown—in a word, every thing that is known or supposed, for some days has thrown the public mind into a kind of agitation, which demands only a word to become the most generous and national impulse.

" That word, sire, we expect, and the immense crowd that is about to follow you is impatient to learn what impulse will be permitted, or what measure shall be prescribed to their indignation and their zeal.

" GOD forbid, sire, that we should seek to predict the designs of your high wisdom, or the conceptions of that great genius which has every where made you master of times, places and events; but if it be true, as has been reported, that your person has been attempted, and the independence of the nation, our liberties and constitution menaced, command the defence to be proportioned to the interest of such a cause; and if it be necessary to march, believe that every thing will be soon ready to follow you, serve you, and avenge you.

" Such, sire, are the sentiments of your good city of Paris."

This address, delivered when the emperor was going in procession to the senate, smells of conspiracy discovered against the person of his majesty.

By an Imperial decree, the conscripts of reserve, of the years 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13, are placed in immediate requisition.

BERLIN, Sept. 21.

A grand council of state has been held at the palace. Since which every thing seems to announce great events. The army is put on the war footing: Our garrison is ordered to be in readiness to march in four days; and a great quantity of artillery has already been sent to Magdeburg and Grandeng. So extraordinary an activity has not been observed for many years.

FRANKFORT, Sept. 17.

Previous to the Austrian troops passing the Inn, the commandant assured the elector of Bavaria that he should respect the electoral military and civil authorities.

LOWER RHINE, Sept. 21.

The emperor of Russia has addressed the following note by a Russian Charge des affaires, to the several courts of Germany:

" As his majesty the emperor of Russia wishes to know the sentiments of each of the German princes, in the present circumstances, he enquires by these presents, what part your highness intends to take, in the event of war between France and the emperor of Austria? If no decisive answer be returned to this enquiry, their imperial majesties will consider it as if your highness had taken the part of the French, and will treat your country accordingly, &c.

WASHINGTON, December 2.

His excellency Soliman Melemelli, ambassador of his highness the bey of Tunis, arrived at this city in the Congress frigate on Friday last, and on Saturday morning landed at the Navy Yard. On his leaving the ship she fired a salute, and on his approach to the marine barracks, he was received with military honors by the marine corps under the command of Col. Wharton. Hence he proceeded with his two Turkish secretaries and two black domestics to the house provided for him on the Capitol Hill. After remaining there about an hour, he went with his attendants to the department of State, and had an audience of the secretary.

We understand that on this day he will be presented to the president.

We have on no similar occasion remarked the attendance of so many members of congress previous to the constitutional day of meeting. It is impracticable, from their dispersed situation, to ascertain their number; but we have little doubt of the representatives forming a quorum this day.

On the 18th ult. the legislature of N. Carolina assembled at Raleigh. Stephen Cabarrus, was elected speaker of the house of commons, and A. Martin speaker of the senate.

On the 20th a message was received from the governor, inclosing a memorial (accompanied with sundry documents) from Duncan M'Farland, the representative to congress of Fayetteville district, complaining that he was held in custody on criminal charges of which he was innocent, and praying for a court of oyer and terminer, that he might receive his trial in time to go to congress. The petition and papers were referred to a joint committee, composed of Messrs. J. Moore, Lowrie, Slade, Pearson and Phifer, in the commons; and Messrs. Wilbom, Franklin and Lee of Robinson, in the senate.

December 2.

Arrived, schr. Concord, Murphey, 32 days from New-Orleans, and 14 from Havana—ballast—Rutter and Pennington.—Left at New-Orleans, Nov. 1. ship Comet, Hart, of Baltimore, arrived 2 days before; schr. President, Jones, of do. for Havana, in 3 days; ship Governor Strong, of Alexandria, (capt. dead); Aurora, of N. York, taking in cargo, for Bordeaux; Robert Murray, of Norfolk, for do. Hampshire, Talbot, of Philadelphia, for Liverpool. November 18, off Orange Key, saw 10 sail of wreckers, was boarded by one of them, who informed us, that they were bound to New-Providence, with the cargo of the ship ——, Hill, from Jamaica, bound to Charleston, laden with rum, stranded on cape Florida. Passed in the bay, ship Comet, Hart, from New-Orleans, and a schooner that they took to be the Merchant, Hamilton, from Havana.

Below, ship Severn, Sinclair, from St. Petersburg—to Schultze and Vogeler.

DOVER Sept. 23.

The American schooner Eliza and Katy, of Philadelphia, which had been detained by the Polecat privateer, of this harbor, J. Thompson, master, about three weeks ago, along with an American ship (as mentioned in a former letter) left the harbor this tide, for Rotterdam, the place of her destination, having received her discharge and certificate of clearance from the court of admiralty.—She was laden with sugar and coffee said to be from Baltimore, but suspected of coming directly from some of the French West-India islands; the majority of her crew were native blacks; she had three whites on board except the captain. They had been imprisoned for some misdemeanor; upon their release, they entered into his majesty's service, and were carried on board the Ariadne. The schooner having cleared the inner harbor, and taken her pilot on board, had proceeded through the outward, to the Pier, when she gave three cheers, twice repeated, in exultation of her delivery; but this triumph was not of long duration.

Two lieutenants of the Ariadne, who had been on shore for the three men who had entered, immediately put off from the quay, in their jolly-boat, in pursuit of her; and at the same moment, the Puritan privateer, belonging to this port, William Guy, commander, got under way for the same purpose; the schooner being a remarkably fast sailer, kept to windward for near half a league, when the boat of the Ariadne fired four musket-shots at her, without bringing her to; when the Courier cutter, then in the roads, followed the boat's example, and fired two gun shots: she then hove to, and the Ariadne instantly weighed her anchor, and came up with her; and having sent a baving sent a boat on board of her, to overhaul her, both put about, and returned to those roads, where they still remain, being accompanied by the privateer during the whole time. It is generally understood, that some recent information had transpired through some of the men who entered on detention. Two thirds of the cargo of the ship which was sent in along with her, as already mentioned, have been condemned; and being from the same port, and for the same destination, some suspicion attaches to her.

LIGHT AND SOUND.

Those who are habituated to the use of artillery, are able to judge accurately of the direction in which a cannon is fired, by comparing with each other the first and second flashes of powder. The one from the muzzel, the other from the touch-hole. The ball always going on the contrary side from that on which the flash from the touch-hole is seen. They stand on a wall or fortification, and observing the fire of the distant cannon say, this ball goes to the right—that to the left. But that well pointed one (where the flashes are in a line with each other) strikes the spot, from which they take care to leap, as soon as they see the flash. The ball passes through the air at the rate of three miles in a second, but the light of the burning powder is conveyed to the eye at the rate of 198,000 miles in one second. Therefore they have time to see the flash, and to get out of the direction, before the arrival of the ball, which would kill them before they could hear the report of the gun; which report moves only at the rate of a quarter of a mile in one second. In thunder storms, the burning vapor, which constitutes the flash, explodes before the clap commences.

The flash is conveyed to us at the rate of 198,000 miles in a second, but the thunder clap creeps on at the rate of 13 miles in a minute. Hence when we hear the thunder, we know we are safe from that explosion of vapor, which must have passed off from us before the arrival of the thunder, and, by this comparative calculation of light and sound, the thunder clap is computed to be distant about one mile, when we see the lightning five seconds before we hear the thunder.

Notice to Tanners.

FOR SALE, a lot of ground containing 21 acres, through which passes a large run, situated in Bush Town, at the head of Bush River, 25 miles from the city of Baltimore. Also, within 1¼ miles of said town, about 400 acres of well timbered Land, principally of oak. The situation of this Lot, and the body of wood around, is a most beautiful situation for a Tan Yard; and from its proximity to the water, the small expence of procuring Bark, ought to be an object to some Tanner, that wishes to extend his business to advantage. The wood itself, after the bark was taken off, would more than treble pay for the land, if brought to Baltimore, and would only have to be hauled about two miles to the water. The said property will be exchanged for lots in or near the city, or would be sold on moderate terms, for bonds, with good security.—For further particulars apply to the printers hereof.

PROSPECTUS

PHILOSOPHICAL EXHIBITIONS

Intended to be displayed in the Octagon building below the court-house: To begin on Tuesday, the 3d December, at half past 6 o'clock, P. M and continue every Tuesday and Saturday, at the same hour.

THE spectacle proposed to be presented to the public consists altogether of Philosophical operations.

It will be a series of Phenomena, which will fix the attention by surprising effects, and exercise the genius for discovering the causes of action.

Even those persons who may be acquainted with the principles of the operations, will probably find something new and interesting in the application of them.

Fire will be seen glittering inside of glass vessels, and the same fire extinguishing in others, all of them clean and empty.

Artificial fountains will throw water, light, flame and fire under different forms.

Lamps will be seen fed by common water; others will burn at the top of vessels containing nothing.

Some of these lamps with a feint flame hardly giving any light at a few inches distance, will inflame and even fuse all combustible matters, metals, or vitrifiable bodies, and iron in an instant will become red hot.

A fine and hard white metal will be seen in full fusion coming out of water and taking any form in moulds.

Fire will burst out and loud reports will be heard, considerably stronger than what can be produced by gunpowder, without any application or use whatever of fire.

A light will be seen perhaps more dazzling than the sun at noon in a fine summer day, suddenly created, and visibly without any kind of fire.

Iron will be seen in full fusion in a glass vessel, filling its capacity with large shining sparkles, and going down to the bottom in red hot globular particles—this will be produced without any other fire than a little grain of sulphur lighted by a candle.

A child will be seen lifting considerable weights by no other action than his blowing; and many hundred pounds will be lifted by the power of only a few ounces of water.

The spectators will see the strange effects of a combination of metals (which is called Galvanism) upon the muscles and nerves of animals.

Many other operations will be exhibited, which are not present to the memory, or an enumeration of which would exceed the limits of this notice.

Thus will be employed the first part of every night in a selection of subjects always varied.

The second part will be of a quite different nature: it consists of optical illusions.

The spectators in the dark will see apparitions, spectres, and figures of various kinds; some appearing suddenly, others issuing gradually from luminous points and clouds; some advancing forward in a manner which would terrify such as could forget that they are at a public spectacle.

In these apparitions personages will be seen of every age and condition, figures in motion, shades of the dead coming out of graves, monsters of various shapes; and they will see a representation of the Elysian Feelds.

As a diversion to such doleful objects, figures will also be represented from fable, from history, inhabitants of different parts of the world in their natural dresses, the most remarkable species of wild animals, landscapes, herds of cattle, marine views, and many objects, which altogether, will, it is hoped, give satisfaction and pleasure to the lovers of the arts.

The present notice is only intended to give an idea of the nature of these exhibitions. No exaggeration is attempted; what is announced will be exhibited, and many other objects equally curious which are not mentioned.

By the new distribution of the hall in the Octagon, there are boxes of 12 seats each, where ladies, families or friends may unite if they chuse. The rest is in common rising seats; all very solidly fixed.

A new stairway and platform have been placed at the door; and the foot-way will be made easier and more secure along the damp place on coming to the Octagon.

Admittance One Dollar to the boxes—75 Cents to the back seats: The boxes may be hired separately for every night, or for the course, which will be of ten nights. Tickets may be had on application at Messrs. M & J. Conrad & Co's bookstore, Mr. Carr's music store, at the office of the Federal Gazette, at the Coffee-Room, and at the door of the Pantheon on the evenings of exhibition.
