REPORT.

BALTIMORE, JANUARY 4, 1866.

To the Honorable Mayor and City Council:

In compliance with an ordinance appointing a Board of Trustees of the McDonogh Educational Fund and Institute, the Trustees beg leave to make their annual report.

The principal part of the notes received for property sold by the agents for the city of Baltimore matured in the years 1861, 1862 and 1863; business being generally suspended during this period, but few payments were made, and no information was received from New Orleans from May, 1861, until January, 1863. Since the latter period two hundred and twenty thousand dollars have been received and invested mostly in Baltimore city stock.

Mr. Robert Mott, from whom no communication had been received for upwards of four years, has, within the past month, settled his account for notes placed in his hands for collection in 1861 and 1862, deducting therefrom twenty-four thousand, one hundred and fifty-nine dollars for fees for himself and C. Roselius, Esq., in the suit of Moses Fox against the McDonogh Estate for the sum of three hundred thousand dollars. This large sum for fees has not been admitted, but, in the settlement with Mr. Mott, has been left for future adjustment.
