Crothers and Gaither.

Judge Crothers was a poor boy on a farm. He has earned his living ever since he was ten years old. Whatever education he acquired was only by the hardest work and at great self-sacrifice. His rise has been entirely owing to his own exertions.

Mr. Gaither was born in luxury and wealth. He was educated at Princeton, and has never known what it was to want for any of the good things obtainable by money. He has inherited two fortunes, one from his father and another from his aunt. He has also made a fortune in his profession, notably in connection with the sale of the Western Maryland Railway, and he is a rich man today.

Judge Crothers is a poor man. He has devoted his life to the care and education of his brother's children, and has for years been a father to the fatherless.

Mr. Gaither has been President of the Second Branch of the City Council of Baltimore, and was for a short time Attorney General of the State during the administration of the late Governor Lowndes. If he did anything remarkable as an official, it has not been pointed out specifically to the public. He attended to his business, as his predecessors were accustomed to do, and that was all.

Judge Crothers was at one time State's Attorney for Cecil county, and during the sessions of the General Assembly of 1898 and 1900, was a member of the Senate. He was the leader of his party in that body, and won the praise of all, Republicans and Democrats, by his course. He took rank as one of the ablest men who had ever served in the State Senate and his services were especially commended by the press. He was appointed associate Judge of the Second Circuit by Governor Warfield nearly two years ago, and at once took rank as one of the best Judges in the State.

Mr. Gaither has been a Democrat, a Socialist, a Bellamyite, a Nationalist, an advocate of municipal ownership, and lastly a Republican. His political career has been erratic and full of changes.

Judge Crothers has always been an old-fashioned country Democrat. His political rise has been gradual, and the prominence he has attained was due entirely to his own exertions and his own ability. While he has always been a regular, he has never been a blind follower in the army, but has always expressed his views, even where they were at variance with those of the recognized leaders of his party. As such he has had the confidence and esteem of all who have come in contact with him.

The Democratic candidate for Governor is a typical American, who has risen from the ranks of the farmer boys of the State to his present position. His Republican opponent is exactly the opposite.

Should We Change Good Government For Mudd-Jackson Government.

Before any citizen of Maryland, be he Democrat of Republican, votes the Republican ticket on the 5th day of November, it may be well for him to make a careful estimate of all that is involved in this election. The conservative sentiment of Maryland is Democratic. About three-fourths of the substantial tax-paying population of the State hold to the principles of the Democratic party. They desire in national politics a revision of the tariff, so as to lighten the burden of taxation upon the plain people and to moderate the exactions of various trusts that operate behind the tariff wall.

The Democrat, be he regular or independent, who votes the Republican ticket this year in Maryland votes to send a high-tariff Republican to the United States Senate, and that Senator, instead of representing the conservative Democratic sentiment of our people, can be expected to vote against tariff revision.

Do the people of Maryland desire to be represented in the Senate by men who will sustain the present onerous Dingley bill, the fostering mother of the trusts? If so, let them vote for Mr. Gaither and the other Republican candidates. If Mr. Gaither should be elected Governor he will have a Republican Legislature behind him, and that Republican Legislature behind him, will elect a Republican to succeed Senator Whyte in the short term and a Republican Senator for the full term of six years, to begin at the conclusion of the short term.

What two Republicans would a Republican Legislature elect?

The answer to that question is on the lips of every citizen who is well advised as to the political condition of the State and the internal condition of the Republican party.

It is William Henry Jackson and Sydney Emanuel Mudd—"Sydney and Me." Do the conservative people of Maryland, irrespective of the national point involved in the matter of a high tariff, desire to be represented in the United States Senate by these statesmen? If so, vote the Republican ticket.

Fourteen State Senators are to be elected on November 5. These Senators will be in the Legislature in 1910, when the successor of Senator Rayner is to be appointed. Do the conservative people of the State desire to have a Republican—Mr. Mudd, for instance—succeed Mr. Rayner?—Sun.
