UNITED STATES BANK.—In conversation a few days since with a Philadelphian, an opponent of the present administration, and one who had at one time been a friend to the President, but deserted him in consequence of the course he thought proper to pursue in relation to the Bank of the United States,—he remarked that he was firmly of the opinion that that institution, at the time of the expiration of its charter was insolvent, and would have been unable to liquidate the claims against it, had it not obtained a recharter by the Legislature of Pennsylvania. The gentleman alluded to, is engaged in a bussiness in that city which requires that he should be well acquainted with money matters, and we have no doubt that in making the remark he was sincere, and well convinced of its truth. Under these circumstances, we cannot envy the feelings of the man who could desert the President for waging a war against an institution, which would have caused ruin and distress to thousands, were there no other inducement for him to pursue the course he did.—*Balt. By the arrival of the mail boat from Laguayra, letters and papers have been received in town, which states that General PAEZ had sent in a petition to Congress, begging the [illegible] concerned in the late rebellion, which was refused. President VARGAS has sent in his resignation, and the Senate had invited the Congress to unite together at six o'clock on the 15th April, to consider upon this important event. Every body was looking with anxiety for the result of the deliberation.

METHODIST CONFERENCE.

A general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church has been in session in this city, during the usual hours, since Monday last. We understand that the number of Delegates present is very large, and that they hail from all parts of the United States.

On Thursday last a committee of their number appointed for the purpose, made a very able report upon the subject of Abolitionism, in reply to some proceedings of the British Methodist Church recommending that doctrine. We are told that the report entirely dissents from the opinions of the English Methodists, and expresses a decided disapprobation of any interference upon that question.—The report was unanimously adopted.

In this the conference has undoubtedly acted wisely, and in a manner to command the approbation and respect both of Christians and patriots.

We perceive, by the English papers, that Mr. FEATHERSTONHAUGH, the United States Geologist has had the honor conferred on him of being elected a Fellow of the Royal Society. This distinction, emanating from the most celebrated body of learned men in Europe, and over which the great NEWTON presided; must be in every sense gratifying to the individual which is honored by it, for it is rarely conferred; and, as far as we recollect, of individuals now living in the United States, is only shared by our eminent fellow countryman Mr. BOWDITCH. We were confident, when we published Mr. F's. Geological Report for the past year, that it would be cordially received in Europe; and so it has turned out.—We are pleased always in the belief that the scientific men of Great Britian are glad of opportunities to honor those who are strengthening the interests of science and of mankind, in this country, with whom they have so many congenial relations.—Nat. DISREPUTABLE SCENES.—Wall street was disturbed yesterday forenoon, by an attack made by Mr. Webb, of the Courier and Enquirer, with a cowskin, on the person of Mr. Bennett, editor of the Morning Herald. It is high time that the strong arm of the law should step in and put an end to pistoling, dirking and cow-skinning, which has become quite fasionable of late.—N. Y. Daily Adv.

MADAM MALIBRAN.—From the London Public Ledger of the 2d April we have extracted the following article:

"On Sunday last Tamburini took his benefit at the Italian Opera in Paris, which has yielded him a sum of 10,000 francs. Madam Malibran was present, and delighted Mademoiselle Grisi by proceeding from her box to the stage, and warmly complimenting her rival in fame and beauty, upon her acting and singing. Malibran, whose first marriage has been annulled in the French Courts, yesterday bestowed her hand upon the celebrated violin player, M. Beriot, before the Mayor of the second municipal district of Paris. Her heart had long been delivered over to the same quarter. Among the persons who attended the civil nuptials were the Marquise de Louvois, Baron de Perignon, and the composer of the Muette de Portici. The bride leaves us to-morrow for England, but a few of her sweet notes are to be heard this evening, in the drawing rooms of either M. de Louvois or Madam Lagrange. It is said that besides her engagemen in London, Malibran has entered into one with the directors of the Scala Theatre, which will yield her 600,000f. in three years."

Mr. Editor:—

"CALHOUN'S WEASEL'S" compliments to "One of the People," and declines any farther correspondence on a subject, the important points of which he appears so desirous of dodging—and will leave him in the mire, out of which his own friends will not take him, not even to dodge him in the next Legislature of the state as a flouncing colt, but as he appears to have a peculiar itching to scribble and is resolved to have the last blow, for his amusement I will again propound three questions.

How many days, hours, and minutes will it annually occupy the treasurer to transact his legal duties?

How many sheets of paper will be required to make his annual report?

And is it requisite to have an Eastern Shore Treasurer? Now dodge again.

Talbot County, May 12, 1836.

The Washington correspondent of the U. S. Gazette, holds the following language in speaking of the State of affairs as they now stand between this and the Mexican Government.

The Boundary question as to the true line between the United States and Mexico, is still in such an undetermined state, that it is impossible to tell whether the territory of the United States has been violated or not, by the Mexicans, or the Indians in their service. I believe the United States claim on the Mexican side of Sabine river, even up to Natchegdoches where it is said the Mexican Indians have been committing outrages. It is generally believed that General Gaines has crossed the Sabine, and if so, there is scarcely a possibility that a meeting between him and the troops of Santa Anna can be avoided. If even General Gaines should transcend the precise line of boundary and duty, so that he gives a good account of St. Anna, by bringing him to a severe responsibility, he would not run any very imminent risk of being condemned for such a stretch of power. There is great anxiety for the next advices from the Mexican frontier. The impression is deep and general that we shall be, in some way, involved in difficulty respecting this matter; and I expect that some calls will shortly be made on the President for information whether there has been any communications between the President and the Mexican minister, in reference to the condition of things in Texas, and on our frontier. The letter published in the Intelligencer this morning, and discredited by the editors of that paper, finds a great many believers here, as the statements are confirmed principally by other letters which have been received in the city. The next mail may bring us intelligence of the actual commencement of hostilities between the troops of the United States, and the Mexicans and their allies. There are apprehensions that Houston and his men will not be able to maintain their position on the Brasso bottoms, until the reinforcements, which are so slowly moving, can reach him from the United States.

The account which we published a few days since of a case of Lynching which took place in St. Louis, derived from a young gentleman passenger from the West, is fully corroborated by the following statement comed from the St. Louis Republican of the 30th April.

TRAGEDY.—At no time, since the commencement of our editorial labours, have we been called upon to perform so unpleasant a duty as that which now devolves upon us.—The story, shocking as it is on account of the death of a most meritorious man, and the probable death of another, and revolting as was the spectacle afterwards exhibited, shall be briefly told. On Thursday evening last, about 7 o'clock, Mr. GEORGE HAMMOND, Deputy Sheriff, and Mr. WM MULL, Deputy Constable, in the execution of their official duty, left the Magistrate's office having in charge a free mullatto man named Francis L. M'Intosh, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The prisoner had, some time in the afternoon, interferred with the officers while engaged in arresting two sailors for a breach of the peace, by which means he effected the escape of the offenders. M'Intosh was then taken into custody, carried before Justice Walsh, and, the facts being proved, a warrant of commitment to jail was made out, and delivered to the officers.—On their way to the prison, and when they had reached the court house square, the prisoner inquired what would be his punishment? He was told; and at that moment he broke loose from them—drew a long knife and made a pass at Mull, but missed him.—His next stab was better aimed, inflicting a dangerous wound upon the right side. Mr. Hammond seized the miscreant by the shoulder; and the latter, turning round, gave him a dead blow. The blade of the knife struck the lower part of the chin, cutting all the large arteries of the neck; and passing downward. The victim turned, walked about twenty paces, and expired. The murderer then fled. Mr. M., although dangerously wounded, followed him until he was completely exhausted. His cries alarmed the neighborhood—the fellow was pursued, and, after some ineffectual resistance, taken and committed to jail.

The atrocious crime was known in a few minutes throughout the city; crowds of citizens gathered around the dead body of the victim. The murder in cold blood of an officer in the execution of his body—the universal respect in which that officer was held—the cries of his children, suddenly deprived of their protector—produced an instant and intense degree of excitement. Under the influence of these feelings, summary measures were resolved upon. The murderer was forced from the jail by the assembled multitude, carried to the border of the town and burned to death! It is said, that several thousand persons witnessed the revolting spectacle. There was no tumult, no disturbance of any kind: but the crowd retired quietly to their several homes.

We shall not pretend, that we do not exceedingly regret the sanguinary termination of the tragedy. For the fair fame of our town, we could wish that it had not been resorted to.—But, we believe, that if the same terrible scene had been enacted in any other town of the union, under the same sudden and tumultuous excitement, similar summary proceedings would have been adopted. Let the veil of oblivion be drawn over the fatal affair!

McIntosh came to this city, as cook on board the steamboat Flora. He was a most desperate villian. It is understood that he committed a murder in New Orleans less than a year since; and not long ago he stabbed the mate of the Steam boat Pawnee, while under weigh; for which act, he was put on shore and severely whipped.

Mr. Mull is yet living, though his recovery is scarcely hoped for. Mr. Hammond was a most worthy man, and an honest, capable and energetic officer. Possessed of sound judgement, a cool temperament, [illegible] he was never at a loss what [illegible] in the execution of his duty. [illegible] afflicted widow, several children [illegible] friends, to regret a dispensation [illegible] cut him off in the midst of his usefulness.

[BY AUTHORITY.]

LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES PASSED AT THE TWENTY-FOURTH CONGRESS FIRST SESSION.

By the President of the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, a Convention for a second additional article to the Treaty of Limits between the United States of America and the United Mexican States, the ratifications of which were exchanged in this city on the 5th day of April, 1832, was concluded and signed by their Plenipotentiaries in the city of Mexico, on the 3d day of April, 1835, which Convention is word for word as follows:

A Treaty having been concluded and signed in the city of Mexico on the 12th day of January, 1828, between the United States of America and the Mexican United States, for the purpose of establishing the true dividing line and boundary between the two nations, the third article of which treaty is as follows:—"To fix this line with more precision, and to place the land marks which shall designate exactly the limits of both nations, each of the contracting parties shall appoint a Commissioner and a Surveyor who shall meet before the termination of one year from the date of the ratification of this Treaty at Natchitoches, on the Red river, and proceed to run and mark said line from the mouth of the Sabine to the Red river, and from the Red river to the river Arkansas, and to ascertain the latitude of the source of said river Arkansas, in conformity to what is agreed upon and stipulated, and the line of latitude 42 degees to the South Sea. They shall make out plans, and keep journals of their proceedings, and the result agreed upon by them shall be considered as part of this treaty, and shall have the same force as if it were inserted therein. The two Governments will amicably agree respecting the necessary articles to be furnished to those persons, and also as to their respective escort, should such be deemed necessary."—And the ratifications of said treaty having been exchanged in the city of Washington, on the fifth day of April, in the year of 1832, but from various causes the contracting parties have been unable to perform the stipulations contained in the above mentioned third article and the period within which the said stipulations could have been executed, has elapsed;—and both republics being desirous that the said treaty should be carried into effect with all due solemnity, the President of the United States [illegible] for that purpose fully empowered [illegible] Anthony Butler, a citizen [illegible] d'Affaires of said States [illegible] acting President of the U[illegible] part their Excellencies J[illegible] de Estrada, Secretary of [illegible] Foreign Affairs, and Jose [illegible] Secretary of the Treasury; [illegible] potentiaries after having mutua[illegible] their full powers, found to be ample [illegible] form, they have agreed and do hereby agree to the following second additional article to the said Treaty.

Within the space of one year to be estimated from the date of the exchange of the ratifications of this said additional article, there shall be appointed by the Government of the United States of America and of the Mexican United States, each a commissioner and a surveyor, for the purpose of fixing with more precision the dividing line, and for establishing the land marks of boundary and limits between the two nations, with the exactness stipulated by the third article of the Treaty of limits, concluded and signed in Mexico, on the 12th day of January, 1828. And the present additional article shall have the same force and effect as if it had been inserted word for word in the above mentioned Treaty of the 12th of January, 1828, and shall be approved and ratified in the manner prescribed by the Constitutions of the respective States.

In faith of which the said Plenipotentiaries have hereunto set their hands and affixed their respective seals.

Done in the city of Mexico on the third day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-five, in the fifty-ninth of the Independence of the United States of America, and of the fifteenth of that of the United Mexican States.

A. BUTLER, [L. S.]
J. M. GUTIERREZ DE ESTRADA, [L. S.]
JOSE MARIANO BLASCO, [L. S.]

And whereas the said Convention has been duly ratified on both parts, and the respective ratifications of the same were exchanged at Washington, the twentieth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-six, by John Forsyth, Secretary of State of the United States of America, and J. M. de Castillo Y. Lanzas, Charge d'Affairs of the Mexican Republic, on the part of their respective Governments:

Now, therefore, be it known, that I, Andrew Jackson, President of the United States of America, have caused the said Convention to be made public, to the end that the same and every clause thereof, may be observed and fulfilled with good faith by the United States and the citizens thereof. In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and have caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington, this twenty first day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty six, and to the Independence of the United States the sixtieth.

ANDREW JACKSON.

By the President.
JOHN FORSYTH, Secretary of State.
