mum of iniquity, and will expose them under advantages which Maria Monk did not possess We formed our opinion of the "Awful Disclosures" from the internal evidence of the work, which we perceived to be beyond the reach of any ingenuity, and we know that it is true? The public, universally, will be of our opinion in a very short time, notwithstanding the temporary effect which may be produced by the refutations of it which Messrs. DEAF BURKE.—Though we are no advocates of pugilism, we approve the old English science of self-defence, if it were only to protect a gentleman from the assaults of a blackguard, and prevent in some deree the more sanguinary contest by the Dirk or Bowie knife. Pugilism also, is under proper management, healthy, manly exercise—gives vigor to the arms, and expands the chest in this climate of consumption, where these advantages are so much needed, while it strengthons the limbs and digestion.

Deaf Burke gave last night at the Howard House a touch of his quality by sparring with several amateurs who came into the ring. The first round commenced with Phecland whom he dispatched with great good humor in double quick time. Blackburn who was much taller than Burke, shared the same fate. Burke showed him how little formidable he thought his gaunt figuer, by receiving his blows calmly in the face and, returning him body hits with an electric velocity which soon did the business for him. But there was a young New Yorker named Vanderzee, a printer, who now came up at Burke's gentle invitation, having shown off to the company a little sparring with another a short time before—He seemed disposed to take the bull by the horns. Burke took his counters for some time very smilingly, but finding Vanderzee struck rather harder than he wished, he let it into him right and left, and about his mug and bread basket with such well directed hits in quick succession, that the contest was put an end to in no time. The company were numerous and highly respectable, and all enjoyed the sport. Fuller was there, and many of the elites of the sporting world. Burke is a curiosity—a perfect bull neck, square headed fellow—pluck and game to the last, but not deep in science. He wears out his adversary—nothing can kill him. He is only 26, thick set, rather short with small features and eyes, arms long and like a giant's. His face is slightly pitted. He makes no preiension to education, but speaks in a broad provincial dialect. He told the company he would fight an Irishman at Philadelphia named Aandrew McLane, who had challenged him, and that he would give him odds of $5000 to $4000, and meet half-way between the two cities.—N. CHAP LITRATURE.

A LIBERAL OFFER.

That it may be within the means of every person who wishes to subscribe to AN AMUSING AND USEFUL JOURNAL OF NEWS, and have it carefully and regularly forwarded to them by mail, or otherwise, we shall from the present time until the first of next January, receive orders FOR TEN COPIES OF THE SALMAGUNDI, AND NEWS OF THE DAY, AT THE RATE OF ONE DOLLAR PER ANNUM FOR EACH SUBSCRIPTION—that is, any person forwarding us a TEN DOLLAR NOTE, free of postage will be furnished with ten of our papers for a whole year, to be forwarded to any direction signated. The subscription price for a sinble name is two dollars. We make this offer, gelieving, as the pecuniary expense will be trifling that all who have the inclination to become acquainted with the character of a journal which has made such rapid progress in public estimation as this has, will take advantage of the proposition at once, and enroll their names on the list of its numerous patrons. It cannot be doubted that those who subscribe will receive the worth of their dollar, when we assure the public that each number contains, independent of its various amusing engravings, as much reading matter as many of the popular volumes which are sold in our bookstores at double the rates that we ask for a whole year's subscription.

500 ENGRAVINGS

Will be furnished in this journal in one year—these, in addition to a choice selection of Satire Criticism, and Wit, contained in its columns, will form a literary banquet of a superior and attractive order. ☞ Clubs of Four will be supplied with the paper for one yesr from the commencement, by forwarding a fiv dollar note, postage paid.

PREMIUMS.—The publisher prompted by the unexampled and unexpected patronag which this paper has received, offer the following premiums:—

For the best ORIGINAL COMIC TALE, FIFTY DOLLARS—for the best ORIGINAL COMIC SONG, TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS—for best collection of ORIGINAL ANECDOTES, JESTS, &c not less than fifty in number, TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS—for best ORIGINAL COMIC DESIGN, SKETCH, or DRAWING, TWENTY-FIVE DOLLAS; for the second best, FIFTEEN DOLLARS; and for the third best TEN DOLLARS.

Persons entering as competitors may not be kind their names, agreeably to their own wishes. The premiums will be awarded by competent judges. All communications to the subject must be addressed to the publisher, prior to the first of September, 1836 postage paid.
