GOWNS AT NEWPORT AND NARRAGANSETT.

The New Type of Tailored Coat—Grays, Greens and Plums—The Latest Touches in Trimmings And Accessories.

As the season here approaches its zenith, the various gaieties planned by smart hostesses overlap, and the popular man or woman needs careful study to avoid mistakes in acceptances. Dinners are as ever a favorite form of entertainment but there has beena notable lack of freak features. Monkey performances and outre costumes are decidedly tabooed and a more conservative tone is noticable almost everywhere. Narragansett which is just a pleasant sail or motor run down the harbor has had many attractions this year besides the inimitable scene on its glorious beach. When tumbling waves sport with lovely forms that must make any stray mermaid green with envy. At the Casino lunch after the bath there are always a number of notable people, and the costumes represent styles that will be more popularly exploited during the fall and winter.

LINEN, EMBROIDERY AND BRAIDING.

Linen and its allied corded reps, piques and voiles are the principal materials, and all sort of Princess and Empire models, are given a Directoire twist by clever manipulation of lines and accessories. It is only the few so far that have carried the vogue for clinging effects beyond the point where good taste calls a halt. While the general outline has shrunken toward classic models only the people who desire to be conspicuous wear anything approaching the costumes exploited by dressmaker's models at the Paris races.

The girls and younger women wear embroidered linen, one piece frocks, and the older women cool becoming costumes of cotton voile for the most part. The latter trimmed with dark silk embroidered in simple but effective stitches and soutache braidings.

TRIMMING DETAILS NOTED.

The lines of the gowns are simple with a considerable tendency toward redingotes, peplums and other tunic effects and trimmings are arranged to follow and emphasize the lines of the borders or hems. There will be no falling off in the demand for soutache braidings of intricole pattern usually in matching color tone, if one is to judge by the smart costumes worn here, and there is once more a decided fad for a touch of gold or silver in trimming, but it is just a touch, and a far cry from the hideous stamped gilded beltings sold in the shops.

The above designs are issued by The McCall Company, New York, Publishers of McCall's Magazine. Patterns for them may be obtained at any McCall Pattern Agency.

DINNER AND DANCE GOWNS.

All the lighter and more dainty silks—especially those with a satin finish are ahead in the running for dinner and dance frocks, and combinations of cotton and silk are as notable here as in less pretentious costumes. Silk joupes and lace coats, silk coats—particularly those of handsome stripes—with skirts of lace or mousselaine are leading combinations.

THE FASHIONABLE SASH.

Sashes are very fetchingly arranged to harmonize or contrast with the frock as the wearer is short or over tall. The style called Directoire that has the effect of a girdle tied at the front a little toward the left side is first favorite.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold.

A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted on Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." Sold by all druggists.
