This is a T.I. Swartz GRADE 4 SUIT.

Professional suit men classify suits according to the quality of the fabric used, and the amount of handwork that goes into the construction. There are 4 basic grades of suits: 1, 2, 4 and 6. The higher the grade, the better the quality . . . and the higher the price. A GRADE 4 SUIT normally sells from $225 to $275, depending on the maker and where you buy it.

Most suits on the market today are not GRADE 4 SUITS. They are only grade 1 or grade 2. Yet, many of these lower grade suits are surprisingly expensive. If you're paying GRADE 4 prices, you should be sure you're getting GRADE 4 quality.

T.I. Swartz makes a bonafide GRADE 4 SUIT. So do the other suit makers listed below. Ours sells for $75 to $125 less, because we're a factory-retail store. We make our own GRADE 4 SUITS in our Baltimore factory and sell them to you at the low factory price.

Compare Our GRADE 4 SUIT Construction and Prices with Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Greif & Co. and Southwick.

Christmas tree program

The Goodwill Industries, in cooperation with the school system, is sponsoring a Christmas Shoe program that aims at providing 640 pairs of new shoes for needy elementary school students from each region in the city.

The chairman of the program is former Colt Art Donovan.

Last month, regional home visitors and social workers began identifying children in need of shoes.

The list was submitted to the superintendent's administrative assistant, Earl Jones, in early November.

Jones announced that a "Christmas Shoe Party" sponsored by the Goodwill Industries for the youngsters identified to receive shoes will be held at Harford Heights Elementary School No. 36, 1901 N. Broadway, Dec. 10, beginning at 10:30 a.m.
