ROCK HALL NOTES.

The Odd Fellows are now talking up an evenings special entertainment for the near future.

Mr. William Keating is here extending the glad hand and happy laugh among old friends and neighbors.

The revival meetings are still in progress while the male attendance of members is small, the services are interesting to those who do attend. Several conversions have resulted. The pastor is not discouraged, he says the work is the Lords, and he is awaiting the Great Leaders own time and way.

Mr. A. Alexander is one of our happiest farmers. He is more than pleased with his crops, his present corn crop is the largest in his farming experience. One lot of land which yielded last year under a splendid clover sod, and plentiful supply of fertilizer and managed by a tenant, 15 barrels, has yielded this year under his own management 90 barrels.

In honor of the ladies, was given on Thursday evening the 12th inst. by the membership of Sitting Bull Tribe No. 130 Improved Order Red Men, one of the most brilliant and successful social events of recent years. Oratory, songs, music and refreshments were the features of the occasion. Past Grand Sachams Killam and Londenslager, of Baltimore, were present and charmed the audience which was an overflowing one, with their addresses. The former on the Rise and Progress of Redmenship and the latter on the Beauties and Teachings of the order. Mr. Londenslager is one of the most eloquent and wittiest speakers ever visiting the Fraternal Socities of this place. His witicism and ancedotes kept his hearers convulsed with side splitting laughter.

Mr. Max Alexander did the honors of Master of Ceremonies and did it so successfully as to not only do credit to himself and honor to his order but also to agreeably surprise his most intimate friends. Judefind's Orchestra furnished music for the evening and Misses Anna M. Ayres and Nannie Taylor presided at the piano with grace and skill. The following is the order of the evenings exercises most creditably rendered by all the participants: Prelude, Orchestra; address of welcome, M. Alexander; music, Orchestra; address, P. G. S. Killam, music, Orchestra; recitation, Miss Ethel Rodney; music, orchestra; address, P. G. S. Londenslager; duet, Miss Etta Durding and M. Alexander; music, Orchestra; recitation, Miss Bessie Wheat; recitation, Miss Fredya Kramer; selections, Orchestra; Refreshments. Then the order, "On with the dance that joy be unconfined" was given terminating at 12 o'clock with everybody pleased almost beyond expression.

Mr. Max Alexander the chairman of the committee of arrangements gave the audience to understand that in the near future Ladies Night would again be in order. The Red Men make it a point to cater to the pleasure of the ladies hence their success as an organization. The Tribe has between sixty and seventy members and still adding to their roster. They have a snug amount of funds in their treasury and they are dispensing in relief, not only within their membership but beyond as well large amount of money. The Order, according to the visitors from Baltimore numbers nearly 600,000 with about a $5,000,000 fund. They paid out for relief the past year $2,000,000. A bright future for "Liberty Friendship and Charity," looms up before them. The local tribe are endeavoring to reach the one hundred mark ere the year closes.

Fourteen Snows.—According to an old superstition there will be fourteen snows this winter. The date of the day on which the first snow falls is said to decide the number of snows throughout the winter. As the first snow fell November 14, there will be fourteen snows according to the popular theory.

Building Committee—The Kent County Savings Bank last year bought the eligible lot on High street and on Wednesday another step was taken toward getting better quarters by the appointment of the following building committee: John K. Aldridge, M. A. Toulson, John D. Urie, Fred. G. Usilton and William F. Russell.

Big Crop.—Mr. Walter Harris, of Still Pond Neck, delivered some fine apples in Chestertown this week. He has shipped about 100 barrels of firsts and double that amount of seconds, his receipts being $3 and $2.50 per barrel. Mr. Harris sprays his trees and cares for them as carefully as does Mr. Soper, the Delaware Apple King.

Plead Guilty.—Austin Dill, son of Mr. James Dill of near Church Hill, was charged with stealing a horse and carriage from a hitching rack in the town of Church Hill, said rig being the property of Mr. John McC. Rochester. Dill was arrested by Constable Dunn last month. He plead guilty before the court and was found guilty and sentenced to six months in the county jail, Centreville.

New Pavilion.—The Tolchester Company under Supt. Noland's direction have torn away the lower dairy lunch at shore end of wharf at Tolchester and have had plans prepared for a large refreshment pavilion with dance hall above. The new structure will be of Spanish Renaisance architecture, built of fancy cement building blocks with large artistic towers at each end. The towers will be lighted at night with varicolored electric bulbs.

A "Cinch" Occupation.—The Sun of Saturday says: "The Good Roads Commission received yesterday an application from a young man who wishes a place on the engineering force. His application was accompanied by an indorsement from Mr. Andrew J. Woodall, of Kent county, one of the delegates to the Democratic National Convention at Denver last summer. He filled out the blank required as follows:

Name—Andrew J. Woodall.
Residence—Chestertown, Md.
Occupation—Eastern Shoreman.

Gone South.—The oyster packing houses of the South seem to be able to entice many laboring men and women from this section. A large number left Baltimore Tuesday for Biloxi, Miss., among whom were Messrs. James Alfred Palmer, Spencer Robinson, Emmitt Smith, Capt. George Cadwalader, Robert Dunn and Raymond Chilcutt, of Chestertown.

LATER.—Messrs. Palmer and Cadwalder returned Thursday, while the others shipped on a dredge boat. Mr. Palmer says there were at least 2,000 people who wanted to go South and that they were crowded out.

Yale beat Princeton last Saturday before 30,000 people by score of 6 to 11. Princeton made 6 points the first half to Yale's 0, but Yale rallied in the second half.

The Yale-Harvard game today promises to be hard fought with chances in favor of the latter. Tickets are selling as high at $50 per seat.

Course of Lectures.—A commendable enterprise has been inaugurated by the authorities of Washington College looking to wise entertainments during the winter. Dr. Cain, the principal, with the full endorsement of the Board of Visitors has arranged for a course of six lectures—several of them illustrated—by distinguished men in their line and noted in the great Colleges of the land. This is not a money-making scheme; on the contrary it is expected to be a financial loss to the institution, but is of such direct intellectual benefit and genuine moral entertainment to the students of the College and our whole cultured community as to secure for it a prompt and hearty response. The entertainments will be given every alternate Friday evening during the months of January and February. The charge for admission to the course of six lectures will be one dollar and fifty cents; single admissions thirty-five cents.

MISS MARY VANDYKE.

Miss Mary Vandyke, eldest daughter of Mr. J. P. Vandyke, died at the Training Home for Infirm Children, at Elwyn, Pa., last Saturday afternoon of acute indigestion, aged 47 years. The remains were brought to Kennedyville and funeral services held Tuesday afternoon. The interment was in Chester cemetery. Undertaker W. H. Krusen had charge of arrangements. The floral offerings were beautiful. Not only in the home circle will our dear friend be sadly missed but her unselfish and sympathetic nature, her ever ready and loving hands drew all hearts that came in contact with her. Truly it can be said of her, she hath done what she could.

THE city of Annapolis will celebrate its bicentenary November 21-23, with appropriate exercises, including an address by Governor Crothers on Saturday afternoon. Annapolis was settled in 1740, but the city charter dates from November 22, 1708. An attractive program has been arranged for the three days, and visitors will be cordially welcomed.

Sporting Notes.—Deputy-Postmaster W. H. Lambert and Mr. Charles W. Kibler are enjoying a ten days hunt at Fairview, Va. "Harry" says he is preparing to accompany Teddy to Africa!

The gunning season opened in Queen Anne's Monday. Messrs. Ivanhoe Willis and party got 28 rabbits. Messrs. Jas. W. Lambert, D. A. Bacchus and S. L. Moody visited Mr. States and bagged 12 rabbits, the "young" man getting 8 rabbits and two birds! Messrs. Hodgkins, Lambert and others got 14 rabbits and several birds.

The first day of the gunning season in Delaware was marred by accidents, including one fatality. Joseph Rhodes, Jr., of Newport, was almost instantly killed by the accidental discharge of his gun while using the stock of the weapon to turn over a brush heap. The load entered the young man's abdomen, and he died as his companion, Charles J. McBride reached his side. Another victim of an accident was William Pinkerton, of Wilmington, who had a hand badly mangled by the explosion of his gun.

Mr. Charles L. Dodd, clerk to the County Commissioners, and the NEWS man got three dogs from a Worton hunter last Friday, on trial, and on Saturday drove to New Tolchester, anticipating a fine day's hunt. All went well until we reached the branch, when all the dogs deliberately trotted back toward the house! Mr. Dodd was too full for utterance as he stood and watched the dogs as they cantered over the field, and all he could say was, "Well I'll declare!" We spent an hour trying to find the dogs after which the weather got so disagreeable that we gave up and went home. But we got a fine dinner! Two of the dogs have been returned but the third one is still lost.

Mr. Yates, of Chestertown, is having fine sport gunning in St. Mary's.

Quite a sumptuous dinner was served at six o'clock, consisting of roast pig, turkey, swan, goose, oysters, bread, butter, pickles, slaw, hominy, jelly, tea, coffee and cocoa. The table was decorated with chrysanthemums and lighted by eleven wax candles. Refreshments were served at nine o'clock. Many very nice presents were received, among them an oxford-bound Bible from his pastor, also several post cards. The evening was spent in games by the little folks. AMBITIOUS young men and ladies should learn telegraphy; for, since the new 8 hour law became effective there is a shortage of many thousand telegraphers. Positions pay from $50 to $70 per month to beginners. The National Telegraph Institute, of Philadelphia, Pa., and five other cities is operated under supervision of R. R. officials and all students are placed when qualified. Write them for particulars.

OBITUARY.

In loving remembrance of Mrs. Rachel J. Hutchins, relict of P. O. Hutchins, a former resident of Kent county, entered into rest October 17, 1908, aged 75 years. She leaves a sister, a brother, and five children: Mamie, of Bristol, Clarence, of Nanticoke, Pa., Ellis wife of Dr. Wilson, Florence wife of J. R. Stafford, of Washington, D. C.; Samond, of New York, and a host of friends who will ever cherish her memory. She was one of the most patient sufferers, at all times ready with a smile to meet those who had the great comfort of waiting on her during her illness. It was indeed a pleasure to hear her talk of her home above, where so many of her loved ones had gone. May we all be as ready as she, when the summons comes to us, we can truly say

"This is not death," I said for see,
Those lips I love still smile on me,
And if her eyelids heavy be,
She sleeps—our loved one sleeps.

And if her hands be folded there,
It is because in dreams a prayer
Hath moved her poor heart lying where
She sleeps—my friend doth sleep.

Disturb her not, who would not be
So calm, so wrapped in peace as she?
When robed for life's eternity
She sleeps—our mother sleeps.

How smooth her brow, her face how fair,
Awake her not! Ah, leave her there
When free from pain, and safe from care
She sleeps—our friend and mother sleeps.
