Mr. Laurence Hall Fowler,
10 W. Highfield Road,
Baltimore-18, Maryland.

Dear Mr. Fowler:-

Mr. Liberti has examined the covering of the cushions on the chairs and windowseats in the Old Senate Chamber. He finds that the damage has been done by moths and he believes that all of the seats are impregnated. He thinks it is necessary to take out all of the seats and to supply new ones as he believes that it will only be a short time before the present ones will be ruined and that it is impossible to save them. I told him I would convey this information to you.

Sincerely yours,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read "Philip B. Perlman". The signature is fluid and cursive, with a long horizontal flourish extending from the end of the name.
