Household Talks

A FEW POINTS.

Some Advice For the Tidy Housekeeper to Follow.

After the dust has been beaten out carpets may be brightened by scattering upon them cornmeal mixed with salt and then sweeping it off. Mix salt and meal in equal proportions. Carpets should be thoroughly beaten on the wrong side first and then on the right side, after which spots may be removed by the use of ox gall or ammonia and water. Kerosene stains in carpets may be removed by sprinkling buckwheat flour over the spot. If one sprinkling is not enough, repeat. To preserve brooms dip them for a minute or two in a kettle of boiling suds once a week, and they will last much longer, making them tough and pliable. A carpet lasts much longer swept with a broom cared for in this manner.

Two pounds of alum dissolved in a gallon of boiling water, applied with a brush while nearly boiling hot to every joint and crevice in closets, bedsteads, pantry shelves, etc., will completely destroy all house insects, such as red and black ants, cockroaches, spiders and cinchbugs. If in whitewashing a ceiling plenty of alum is added to whitewash, it will keep off insects. Paint, mortar and whitewash may be taken off of windows with sharp, hot vinegar; if fresh, cold vinegar will do.

To free the pantry and closets from insects, try the following: Dissolve two pounds of alum in four quarts of hot water. Let it remain until alum is dissolved. With a brush apply boiling hot to joints and crevices in closets, on shelves, etc. Where croton bugs intrude, brush all cracks in floors. Keep boiling hot while using.

SUMMER CLOTHES.

SIMPLE WAYS OF KEEPING GARMENTS SWEET AND CLEAN.

The Great Secret Is to Change Frequently and Air Thoroughly—Adopt a System of Rotation For Fabrics Injurable By Perspiration.

How many women know how to preserve sweet and clean their summer dresses, shoes, corsets, and so on? Not many, I fancy?

As soon as the corset is taken off it should be sprinkled with peroxide of hydrogen and allowed to lie in the sun and air for several hours. Ribbed corsets are more difficult to manage, but at no time should they be rolled up, nor flung in a heap into some tight shut drawer.

There should be an alternation of corsets, to do away with the putting on of the same one each day, and two or three inexpensive ones treated this way will help to make the summer endurable in spite of the sun.

Shoes, if they are high, should, when taken off, be placed, inners out, on the window sill or in some breezy place to get the sun and air. The tops should be turned back, and the air allowed to circulate in the crevices and into the soles as far as it possibly can. This will not only preserve the shape and contour of the shoe, but it will help to keep it from getting "leathery." Shoes are porous skin themselves and wonderfully susceptible to influences of climate and heat.

Blouse waists should have the shields ripped out at once, after removing from the body, and they should be sponged with alcohol and water and hung in the air to dry. The sleeves of the waist should be turned wrong side out and allowed to air at some screen near a draught and not put on again for some days.

A system of rotation will be found convenient for such fabrics as are liable to be hurt by the absorption of perspiration and should be sparingly treated on particularly hot days.

A sprinkle of orris root in the lining of a dress, to be shaken out before the dress is worn again, will be found an excellent thing

Ribbons should be rolled up immediately when taken off the neck and waist, and if treated this way will last a great deal longer and look a great deal daintier.

Care of the skirt is most important. Skirts should have small loops sewed in under the ruffles, where the heels of the boots or slippers will not catch, and they should be hung up upside down every night, or as soon as they are taken off. If trimmed with long farthingale flounces, the flounces will have to be carefully pinned to the foundation and they will, by hanging twelve hours in the opposite direction from which they are worn, regain some of their original freshness and charm.

Hats will retain their spruceness and elegance if carefully placed in their own box, after blowing the chiffon and laying the feathers several times over the fingers in the direction they are disposed to lean. The ribbons' shafts can also be straightened and the hat will be ready for use at once.

Hose should be filled with crumpled tissue paper and hung in pairs in the most excluded window to let the air blow through them.

Gloves must be blown up by the breath immediately after stripping from the hand, then filled with a light shake of glove-powder and laid away unfolded, and not palm to palm, but separately, in tissue paper.

The WEEKLY SUN publishes all the news of each week, giving complete accounts of all events of interest throughout the world. The WEEKLY SUN is unsurpassed as an AGRICULTURAL PAPER.

It is edited by writers of practical experience, who know what farming means and what farmers want in an agricultural journal. It contains regular reports of the work of the Agricultural experiment stations throughout the country, of the proceedings of farmers' clubs and institutes, and the discussion of new methods and ideas in agriculture. Its Market Reports, Poultry Departmen, and Veterinary column are particularly valuable to country readers. The Poultry Department is edited by a well-known poultry expert, and every issue contains practical information of value for poultry-raisers. Poultry on many farms has become a great source of revenue, and those interested in this profitable industry will find the Poultry Department of the WEEKLY SUN invaluable in the way of suggestions, advice and information. Every issue contains Stories, Poems, Household and Puzzle Columns, a variety of interesting and instructive selected matter and other features, which make it a welcome visitor in city and country homes alike.
