Rochester, N. Y.—"I have a daughter 13 years old who has always been very healthy until recently when she complained of dizziness and cramps every month, so bad that I would have to keep her home from school and put her to bed to get relief.

"After giving her only two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound she is now enjoying the best of health. I cannot praise your Compound too highly. I want every good mother to read what your medicine has done for my child."—Mrs. RICHARD N. DUNHAM, 311 Exchange St., Rochester, N.Y.

Stoutsville, Ohio.—"I suffered from headaches, backache and was very irregular. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken the whole of two bottles I found relief. I am only sixteen years old, but I have better health than for two or three years. I cannot express my thanks for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had taken other medicines but did not find relief."—Miss CORA B. FOSNAUGH, Stoutsville, Ohio, R.F.D., No. 1.

Hundreds of such letters from mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for their daughters have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS
FOR RHEUMATISM KIDNEYS AND BLADDER

MONEY---YOURS AND MINE.

Mr. Robert E. Ireton, editor of "Financial America," Philadelphia, made a most masterful address at the Chautauqua last Friday afternoon, and while not agreeing with all he says, yet his argument is worth reading and food for thought. He says:

"In considering our currency and banking problem it would pay the whole country to recognize and take to heart the following clear and simple propositions:

First: All classes of our people—rich and poor, laborer and employer—would fare better under a safe, sound and scientific system of finance than they do under the present system.

Second: Since the bulk of the business of the country is transacted upon credit, anything which constricts or cripples credit demoralizes business.

Third: In every disturbance in the financial world—for example, 1893 and 1907—the principal sufferers are always those who can least afford it; artisans, laborers, small traders and wage-earners generally. These are invariably powerless to protect themselves against the threatened upheaval. Hence, upon their shoulders the burdens fall most heavily.

When these simple truths are once understood by the people the erroneous idea that the currency and banking issue is a banker's, or a capitalist's, or a rich man's problem and not a people's problem will be dissipated. That question, in reality is far more vital to the wage-earner, the farmer and the small business man, because they have more at stake.

Let us turn to the panic of 1893 for an illustration of how important a bank is to one and all. When the banks of the country, during that upheaval, were unable to comply with their customers' requests for loans, upwards of two million laborers were thrown out of employment and rendered powerless find a market for their labor. And several millons more only managed to dispose of their labor at a reduced price.

These examples show that the wage-earner has a vital interest in the introduction of a sound banking system in this country.

Again, the three classes of property which have intrinsic value, and which, by reason of their prime necessity, should maintain fairly uniform and normal values are (1) homes, (2) farms and (3) manufacturing and allied plants.

What was the position of the owners of these properties when the banks ceased lending in 1893? It was practical ruination. There was no market for these properties and the equities of their owners had practically no realizable value.

The Panic of 1907.

In 1907 we had the worst panic in our history. When the banks suspended currency payments and money was selling at a premium, what was the discovery made by the wage-earner, the farmer and the small business man?

The wage-earner found himself out of employment through no fault of his; the farmer found his country bank unable to give him his own deposit in currency, and emphatic in its refusal to give him credit in the form of a loan. Consequently he could not move or dispose of his crops, and his cotton and wheat did not reach market.

The small business man found his credit utterly ruined. Unable to meet his obligations when they matured, because bank accommodation was denied him, his bankruptcy speedily followed.

A Southern cotton planter, with ripening acres, lacks the means to pick, clean, pack and ship the crop to market; or a Chicago elevator owner wants to purchase grain for export; or a Pittsburg coal operator desires to ship fuel to southern or northern markets; or a merchant wishes to enlarge his stock.

In each case the bank can furnish the needed assistance by "swapping" its credit against an individual note, the loan being paid when the opportunity it financed has been realized. By this accommodation production and distribution are stimulated and human effort is rewarded.

This function of the bank must be continuous; under our system it is not.

This arises from a defectively organized banking system and from the scattering of the reserves—proportions of deposits which a bank must keep on hand in cash—among more than 7,000 national banks. This reserve, by the National Banking laws, must not be impaired; if it is, the bank must stop lending.

Thereupon, it "calls" its loans and refuses credit to its customers. Its debtors go to other banks for the money to pay their loans, which, in turn, puts a strain on these banks and raises interest rates to the embarrassment of the small merchant or trader.

The main changes needed in our present system are so obvious that there can be no sensible opposition to them.

First, we must have co-operation between our banks. At present there is no system of co-operation. Every bank is a unit, independent, detached and selfish. In times of trouble, instead of co-operating with other banks for the common welfare, it fights alone for itself. Instead of being forced back upon its own restricted reserves, it should have the bulwark of a co-operative system back of it.

Second, our banking currency should not be based upon government bonds as at present, but upon the day to day business of the country. Government bonds bear no relation to our business needs. Therefore, money based in this way is rigid and unresponsive. If based upon business paper it would increase or decrease as business moves either way. Under such a system we would not have had too little money as in 1907, nor would we have too much as to-day."

DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATORS

More Than 1,375,000 Now In Use

Those Who KNOW Buy De Laval Separators

Creamerymen—Because they are experts in the handling of cream and know by long experience that the De Laval skims cleanest and wears longest. That is why 98% of the World's creameries use the De Laval exclusively.

Experienced Dairymen—The De Laval is the universal favorite among big dairymen. They know that no other separator will give them such satisfactory service.

Old De Laval Users—Whenever a man who has used an old model De Laval decides to purchase a later style machine he invariably buys another De Laval.

Men Who Investigate — If anyone takes the time to investigate the merits of the various cream separators, either by finding out from other users what kind of service their machines have given or by testing other machines out against the De Laval, the chances are a hundred to one that his choice will be the De Laval.

More De Laval machines are in use than any other make. There is a reason. Come in and we will tell you why.

Easiest to turn, easiest to wash, skims the cleanest lasts the longest.

SOONER OR LATER YOU WILL BUY A DE LAVAL
