SPLENDID GRANGE MEETING.

A Fine Address by Mr. A. M. Kendall—Readings and Music—Other Grange Notes.

Fairlee Grange held a very enthusiastic special meeting on Wednesday afternoon and evening. About 150 persons were present. The hall was decorated with bunting, evergreen and festoons of red hearts, presenting a real valentine effect, while everyone wore a heart upon the breast. The Garner was edited by Miss Violet R. Beck in a clear and comprehensive manner. It was full of wisdan, wit, and humor. The grange choir scored a degree higher with music. The solo by Mrs. Thos. Davis and duet by Mrs. Tilman Hudson and Miss Cattie Kendall, was especially pleasing. The theory of the Ground hog was taken up by Messrs. Lewin W. Skirvin and Geo. W. Randall. The latter while knowing nothing of their tricks and manners had shot several, Mr. Stockton Startt was asked to tell "The funniest thing he ever saw," all enjoyed his experience.

Mr. Page Gale was requested to tell "What conveniences a farmer should furnish his wife to enable her to make good butter.

Rev. S. S. Hepbron to tell something of Lincoln's birthday, after some brief remarks he told how he and others had felt during that serious period but had changed his views, he was a great man and thinks he was the one man power that held our country together.

To what extent should agriculture be taught in the public schools by Mr. A. M. Kendall. He said: I am of the opinion that agriculture shonld be taught in the public schools of the county, not those in the city, however, to the extent of thorough botanical and chemical courses. Laboratories should be provided and the studies properly taken up. Thus the pupils will be enabled to obtain rudimental or elementary knowledge of present life. They will be made familiar with the elements that are necessary for the proper development of that life. The knowledge thus obtained may be somewhat theoretical and perhaps not very practical. To equalize this there should be an agricultural college in every state, distinctly a state institution. Those intending to follow the vocation of a farmer, should finish their agricultural there, where means should be provided to make practical as well as theoretical agriculturists. A manuel training department has been granted our country high schools, teaching almost exclusively the use of mechanical tools. In our country schools, perhaps, two-thirds of the children when grown become farmers, so an education pertaining to agriculture should certainly be obtainable rather than that pertaining to the use of tools. My solution of the problem, is drop the manual training department in the country schools, append chemical laboratories and other necessary agricultural appurtenances in place thereof. Manual training as taught in the County now, would be a better adjunct to the city school and alright for the County School too, but in the event of not having each, use the Agricultural Courses suggested in the Country Schools where there are so many more prospective farmers than mechanics and the manual training courses in the cities where mechanical industries predominate.

Messrs. Bordley and Hurlock accompanied by Mrs. Geo. Hatcherson gave several violin selections which delighted the audience. A supper was served in the usual Fairlee Grange style, and a good social evening followed. Four applications for membership were received.

DIED.

MEEKS—In Norwich, February 9, 1913, Mrs. Mary B. Meeks, sister of Charles Bard. Funeral at the home of Charles Bard, 241 Broadway, at 2.30 o'clock, Wednesday afternoon, February 12. Please omit flowers.

MRS. MARY B. MEEKS.

Mrs. Mary B. Meeks, of Maryland, died at 11 o'clock Sunday evening at the home of her brother, Charles Bard, at No. 241 Broadway, following a brief illness with pneumonia. Her home was in Maryland, but she had been spending the winter in this city.

She was born in Canterbury 82 years ago. She is survived by two brothers, J. Sprague Bard of Brooklyn, Conn., and Charles Bard of this city, Mrs. Thos. W. Skirven and other nieces and nephews.

MRS. MARY B. MEEKS,
(Contributed)

Mrs. Mary Bard Meeks, of Chestertown, Maryland, died very suddenly at the home of her brother, Charles Bard, Sunday evening at about half past ten o'clock. Mrs. Meeks was born in Canterbury, Connecticut, November 19, 1830, the daughter of John Bard and Mary Foster Bard.

Although Mrs. Meeks had been ailing slightly for some days, her sudden death was most unexpected. Her natural frailness had blinded all but those nearest to her to the fact that her endurance was failing, and until the sharp and unexpected shortening of her strength early in the evening, she had disclosed few indications of precarious health.

From her earliest years of widowhood, Mrs. Meeks' sympathies have reached beyond the range of her own interests, and there has been no decade of her long and unusually varied life that she has not ministered to all with whom her fine loyalty has kept her in close touch. Accepting her repeated bereavements with unselfish fortitude, she has entered into the griefs and carried the burdens of others with womanly sweetness. She was winning and gracious in manner, charming in presence and tact, and possessed of a rare combination of sensitiveness and strength. Her latter years have been full of quiet content. The constant and happy guest of her brother, she had won the affection of all who have known her, and by her gentle sagacity and sympathy has made herself an endearing and helpful companion.

MRS. MARY B. MEEKS.

At 2.30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the funeral of Mrs. Mary B. Meeks was held from the home of her brother, Charles Bard. The services were conducted by Rev. Samuel Howe, pastor of Park Congregational church. The honorary bearers were Charles W. Gale, Charles L. Hubbard, Charles R. Butts and C. Leslie Hopkins. Burial was in Yantic cemetery and a committal service was conducted at the grave by Rev. Dr. Howe. There were beautiful flowers.

Light Your Kitchen with a Rayo Bracket Lamp

Sometimes in the kitchen or elsewhere you need a lamp held high, where it will light the whole room, and be out of the reach of children.

The Rayo Bracket Lamp is made for exactly this purpose. It is one of the famous Rayo Family—the best kerosene lamps made. A clear, white light, steady, diffused. A strong, substantial bracket, easily affixed to the wall. The lamp is inexpensive. Economical. Lighted without removing chimney or shade. Rayo Lamps are made in various styles and for all purposes.

In the above statement charged to the use of pump house is one item of $215.34 which was for material furnished in 1911 but no bill was presented until 1912, deducting this from the amount charged Pump House and we have the sum of $1,756.57 which is the amount actually expended in 1912 for use at Pump House, as all invoices for the year are in.

We have examined the books of the Supt. and Treas. and find that the above is a true statement of the condition of the water department as shown by them.
