Washington College Board Abolishes Tuition Fees.

At the recent meeting of the visitors and governors of Washington College it was decided that hereafter any boy who is a resident of Maryland and who has completed the course of study in his home school district will be received as a student of the college free of tuition, provided he is sufficiently advanced to enter any of these classes maintained at the college and is known to be of good character.

This regulation has been under consideration by the board for some time. Its adoption will, of course, deprive the college of some revenue from tuition fees, but it is the belief of the college authorities that this sacrifice should be made by any college which receives a considerable part of its revenue from the State.

The new provision will in no way duplicate the work of the public schools, as no boy will be permitted to take advantage of it until he can show that he has gone as far as the public schools in his district affords him an opportunity and will have to go away from home to continue his studies.

It merely relates the college in a definite way to the public school system and gives assurance to every ambitious boy that he can pursue his studies through the public school and the college without tuition charge.

NEW ROAD FOR KENT.

Meeting Held At Betterton At Which Project Is Discussed.

Sentiment was crystallized Saturday night at a meeting in the Betterton Hotel, when measures were adopted which will lead probably to the building of a State road from Still Pond to Betterton.

W. B. Miller, of the State Road Commission was present at the invitation of County Commissioner T. B. Crew and the meeting was presided over by C. D. Wood, president of the board of County Commissioners. The object desired explained by counsel to the County Commissioners, and a petition soliciting subscriptions from residents of this section has already resulted in 10 per cent of the cost of the improvement being assured. The total cost will be about $26,000 the State to pay half, the county 40 per cent and the residents the remainder.

Mr. Miller promised to advertise for bids at once and to get the road graded and one coat of material at least put on this year; of course if a satisfactory bid is received at the first date mentioned in adv. the road may be completed this year.

Laundry Sold.—Mr. R. G. Nicholson, having sold his ice plant, did not feel justified in holding the Laundry and on Monday sold it to Mr. J. Waters Russell. The latter will take active charge of the needful industry at once and will retain the services of the expert superintendent Mr. Heller, and his corps of faithful helpers. Mr. Nicholson will devote his whole attention to his farming and nursery business.

Thrown From Carriage.—Hon. James S. Harris and wife met with an accident Sunday while driving to Still Pond church. When near the church the horse took fright at a motorcycle, bolted to the side of the road upsetting the carriage and dragging the occupants some yards. E. M. Taylor and son, Carson Harris and Leonard J. Price were standing in front of the church and witnessed the accident. They went quickly to the assistance of Mr. Harris and soon stopped the horse otherwise we believe the result would have been serious. Mr. and Mrs. Harris were thrown with great force to the ground. Both occupants were severely bruised and Mrs. Harris sustained a painful cut on the face necessitating the taking of several stitches. The cyclist, after assisting Mr. and Mrs. Harris to a position of safety and comfort, hurried to Betterton and returned with Dr. Nurkin who rendered surgical attention. At last reports the unfortunate victims of the accident were recovering from the shock and no ill effects are apprehended.

Fertilizer Fishermen.—Complaint has been lodged with Talbott Denmead president of the State Game and Fish protection Association, by fishermen of Kent and of other Eastern Shore counties that the fishing industry of the Chesapeake Bay being seriously impaired by seines, gillnets and pound net used by men taking fish for fetilizer factories of Virginia. The complaint is that perch, herring, shad and other ediable fish are caught with fertilizer fish. Mr. Denmead has investigated the subject and has found that the mouths of the rivers and creeks are vitually choked with nets, which prevent brood fish from reaching their spawning grounds. "It is an outrage," that such conditions should exist in a state like Maryland. There is no law in this state that prohibits fish from being uged for fertilizer. consequently the fertilizer people of Virginia, in which state there is no law prohibiting the pratice, come over and rob the fishing industry of this state to the advantage of their fertilizer factories."

New Railroad.—Kent county has a family of Stewart's who are making their mark in the business world. The following from the American of Thursday will be read with interest by our readers:

Officers and directors for the Baltimore and Virginia Railroad were elected yesterday at a meeting of stockholders of the road in the office of Hyland P. Stewart, attorney. Col. Jacob W. Hook was elected president of the new road by the newly elected directors. The capital of the new company is $2,000,000, 10 per cent. of which, or $200,000, has already been subscribed and 10 per cent. of which amount, or $20,000, has actually been paid in cash. About 40 stockholders of the company attended yesterday's meeting in person and about 60 were represented by proxy.

The following directors were chosen: Col. Jacob W. Hook, Hyland C. Stewart, David B. Stewart, J. C. Leib, J. Cook Webster, of Calvert county; Benjamin Watkins, of Anne Arundel county, and William H. Stewart, of New York. The directors immediately organized by electing the following officers: Col. Jacob W. Hook, president; David B. Stewart, vice-president; J. C. Leib, secretary; James Cheston, of West River, treasurer, and Hyland P. Stewart, attorney.

The project to build a railroad from Baltimore to Drum Point has been under consideration for at least 45 years. The project was revived about 18 months ago when a charter was obtained, incorporating the Baltimore and Virginia Railroad, with a capital of $2,000,000. About 57 miles have already been graded and a few tracks have been laid near Millersville. The road has been graded to meet the tracks of the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis Electric Railway at Millersville, whose tracks, it is anticipated, will be used to reach Baltimore. It is expected that unit gasoline cars will be used for passenger and express service on the new road, while freight will be hauled by steam.
