John Sorrowful—"Howd'ye do, Anty Drudge? I'm waiting for Mary to hand me out a bite of cold lunch. I never go in the house on washday."

Anty Drudge—"Nonsense. Your wife washed with Fels-Naptha Soap today, and it was all done two hours ago. She has a nice hot lunch for you and had time to read and play the piano besides."

There was a woman who made a prayer to be saved from washday with all its care. Then she tried Fels-Naptha Soap. It wasn't exactly washday that she meant, but the hard rubbing, hot, steam-filled kitchens—all the disagreeable part of washday.

Fels-Naptha Soap answers that wish. Soap the clothes, roll and let them soak in cool or lukewarm water for 30 minutes, rub lightly, then rinse.

You'll find directions on the red and green wrapper.

A PACK OF CARDS AS A BIBLE.

A private soldier of the name of Richard Lee was taken before the magistrate of Glasgow, Scotland, for playing cards during divine service. The account of it is thus given in an English Journal.

A sergeant commanded the soldiers at the church, and when the parson had read the prayers he took the text. Those who had Bibles took them out, but this soldier had neither Bible nor Common Prayer Book, and pulling out a pack of cards he spread them before him. He first looked at one card and then at another. The sergeant of the company saw him and said: "Richard, put up the cards this is no place for them." "Never mind that," said Richard. When the services were over the constable took Richard prisoner and brought him before the mayor. "Well," said the mayor, "what have you brought the soldier here for?" "For playing cads in church." "Well, soldier, what have you to say foa yourself?" "Much sir, I hope." "Very good; if not I will punish you severely." "I have been," said the soldier, "about six weeks on the march. I have nothing but a pack of cards, and I hope to satisfy your worship of the purity of my intentions." Then spreading the card before the mayor, he began with the ace: "When I see the ace it reminds me that there is but one God; when I see the deuce it reminds me of the Father and Son; when I see the tray it reminds me of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost; when I see the four it reminds of the four evangelists that preached, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John; when I see the five it reminds me of the wise virgins that trimmed their lamps; there were ten, but five of them were wise and five of them were foolish, and were shut out; when I see the six it reminds me that in six days the Lord made Heaven and earth; when I see the seven it reminds me that on the seventh day God rested from the great work he had made and hallowed it; when I see the eight it reminds me of the eight religious persons who were saved when God destroyed the world, viz, Noah and his wife, his three sons and their wives; when I see the nine it reminds me of the nine lepers that were cleansed by our Saviour there were nine out of ten that never returned thanks; when I see the ten it reminds me of the Ten Commandments which God handed down to Moses on the tables of stone; when I see the king it reminds me of the great King of Heaven—this God Almighty; when I see the queen it reminds me of the Queen of Sheba, who visited Solomon, for she was as wise a woman as he was a man. She brought with her fifty boys and fifty girls all dressed in boys' apparel, for King Solomon to tell which were boys and which were girls. The king sent for water for them to wash. The girls washed to the elbows and the boys to the wrists, so King Solomon told by that. "Well," said the mayor, "you have described every card in the pack except one." "What is that?" "The knave," said the mayor. "I will give Your Honor a description of that, too, if you will not be angry." "I will not," said the mayor, "if you do hot term me to be the knave." The greatest knave I know of is the canstable who brought me here." "I do not know," said the mayor, if he is the greatest knave, but I know he is the greatest fool."

"When I count the number of spots in a pack of cards I find 365, as many days as there are in a year; when I count the number of cards in the pack I find fifty-two, the number of weeks in a year; I find there are twelve pictures in a pack, the number of months in a year: and on counting tricks I find thirteen the number of weeks in a quarter.

"So you see a pack of cards serves as a Bible, an almanac and a Common Prayer Book."

THE effects of smoke on Cattle was the subject of an inquiry addressed to farmers in the vicinity of Leeds, in connection with the investigations being carried out at Leeds University concerning the effects of atmospheric pollution on vegetation. It was learned that the effects of a smoky atmosphere on both cattle and horses are marked; young stock do not thrive, while older animals require more food and greater care than those living in a less contaminated atmosphere. The effects are partly due to the respiration of the smoke-laden air, and partly to the inferior quality of the grass growing under such conditions. The raising of sheep is even more difficult, because of the depreciation in value of the wool due to the smoke, and is rarely attempted near Leeds.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of my dear husband, LEMONT THOMPSON, who departed this life two years ago.

Call not back the dear departed,
Anchored safe where storms are o'er;
On the border land we left him,
Soon to meet to part no more.
HIS LOVING WIFE.

Two long years, dear father,
Since you were called away;
And our hearts are still aching
Just as they did that day.
DAUGHTER ALICE.
