ATHLETICS ARE BEATTEN

The Best Team Wins—A Fine Series of Ball Games In Boston And Philadelphia.

Boston, Oct. 13.—The Boston National League club completed the most sensational record in modern professional baseball by defeating the Philadelphia Americans in the fourth and final game of the world's series at Fenway Park today, 3 to 1.

Beginning with their rush from last place in the senior league in the middle of July, the Braves have broken traditions and records in the National sport with speed during the last three months. They emerged late this afternoon champions of the universe, leaving a trail of startling surprises and upsets in their wake which it will be hard to duplicate in years to come.

Last, and far from the least of their accomplishments, was the overthrow in four consecutive games of the world-famous baseball machine of Connie Mack, with its $100,000 infield, home-run heroes and corps of skillfully blended veteran and youthful pitching stars. Tonight the new champions, gathered under the management of George Stallings, are celebrating their ascent to the championship throne, while the wreck of the Athletics' baseball Juggernaut is bound for the home of William Penn, stunned and stupified by the unlooked for calamity which, temporarily at least racked it to the smallest cog.

Mackmen Are Sportsmen.

To the victors belong the spoils and credit, and unexpected as was the crushing defeat, the Mackmen took it in sportmanlike spirit, praising the winners and offering no excuses for their failure to hold their National League rivals in check. In fact, none are available, for the Bostonians outplayed and outgamed their more experienced opponents in every game and every department of play.

The best that could be said of the Athletics by their warm admirers was that the team, neither collectively nor as individuals, appeared to get along in the manner shown in previous world's series.

They put up a fine game of ball and gave the public a sample of thrilling plays and of clean sport. The first game resulted 7 to 1, second game 1 to 0, while the third went 12 innings and resulted in the score of 5 to 4 The interesting figures are as follows:

Grand Total (Four Games.)

Attendance	111,009 00

DEATHS.

Carroll Elburn, aged 22, of near Rock Hall, died of acute indigestion while on the bay fishing Monday night. He leaves a wife and infant child.

Henry W. Davis, a former resident of Rock Hall, died at his home in Baltimore, last Saturday, of typhoid fever after an illness lasting only five days. Mr. Davis was born near Locust Grove, this county, 58 years ago, and in early life removed to Rock Hall where he lived until 1905 when he removed to Baltimore and accepted employment as night watchman with the State Bank of Maryland. He served in that capacity until he became ill about ten days ago. He is survived by one son, Edgar S. Davis, of Rock Hall. The remains were brought to Rock Hall on Monday and funeral took place Tuesday.

War Prices.—Nearly every commodity sold here has advanced in price because of the European War. The firm of Bordley & Sons, The Men's Store, wish to take this opportunity to announce to the trade that because of the fact that their Fall and Winter stock was bought several months before war was declared, regular prices will prevail throughout their business the coming season, and they will guarantee against any advance of prices during that time. Why not see their advertisement this week on page 5 and select your suit or overcoat from the store that does not use the war scare to get better profits. You can certainly save money.
