THOUGHT SHE COULD NOT LIVE

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Unionville, Mo.—"I suffered from a female trouble and I got so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without holding on to something. I had nervous spells and my fingers would cramp and my face would draw, and I could not speak, nor sleep to do any good, had no appetite, and everyone thought I would not live.

Some one advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had taken so much medicine and my doctor said he could do me no good so I told my husband he might get me a bottle and I would try it. By the time I had taken it I felt better. I continued its use, and now I am well and strong.

"I have always recommended your medicine ever since I was so wonderfully benefitted by it and I hope this letter will be the means of saving some other poor woman from suffering."—Mrs. MARTHA SEAVEY, Box 1144, Unionville, Missouri.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as that above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for years.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Improve Your Strain of Tomato Seed

Make Selections From Your Own Stock For Higher Production.

J. F. MONROE.
Maryland Agricultural College.

Study your tomato plants while working among them, with a view to selecting several for seed purposes. Set a stake beside those plants, which growing under normal field conditions, you consider ideal as to type. When the fruit on the these plants is fully ripe, pick it for seed. There may be a few of the plants, that have not developed as you expected. Discard these from the seed lot, sending the fruit to the factory.

Crush the ripe tomatoes in a barrel or bucket until it is two-thirds full, then let the pulp stand until it ferments. This will take from 24 to 72 hours, depending upon the temperature obtained. As soon as the mass has fermented, fill the receptacle with water. Let this settle for an hour or so; the pulp will rise and the seed sink. Dip the pulp and water off, and fill the barrel a second time with water. Let this settle for a short time and pour off. The seed will be clean. Pour it out on a screen to permit the surplus water to drain off. Place this in a dry room, where birds and mice cannot reach it. Leave it for some time to dry thoroughly. The seed can then be put in cotton bags, and stored in some dry room over winter. Continue this selection and you will increase the profits from the tomato crop. There is nothing finer than clean, home-grown tomato seed.

FIGHTING IT OUT.

ROY H. WAITE.
Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

Anyone having a little nerve and some mechanical ability can quite easily learn to caponize well enough to operate on the males of small flocks. The operation looks difficult but really it is a very simple one. It is simple because of the nature resistance birds have to the attacks of bacteria. It seems strange that the intestinal cavity of birds can be opened up in so crude a manner without disastrous results but such seems to be the case. Antiseptics are not even used as a rule because they would taint the flesh and if the bird happened to be killed during the operation, it would not be so good for food.

THESE DON'T FIGHT.

The advantages of caponizing are that the birds become more docile and can be managed easier, their flesh is of better quality and they can be raised to a given weight on less feed than can cockerels. They also bring a higher price on the market than most any other fowl.

Simple though explicit instructions for performing the operation accompany the caponizing instruments sold on the market.

RURAL MINISTERS CONFERENCE AT AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

Will Meet Early In August For the Discusison Of Country Life Problems.

B. H. DARROW.
Maryland Agricultural College.

The country church is continually under fire by critics who declare that it is not fulfilling its function, that it does not stand for something vital to the needs of the average man and woman. If this be true, it is a serious condition indeed.

That there is some truth in the statement is now admitted by any minister who has studied the problem, but the fact remains that the rural church has done a wonderful work in the past and should be sparingly criticised except where criticism may bring about constructive effort toward betterment. Country life has changed, rural institutions have weakened and some have disappeared entirely. Here and there we find a flourishing country church, alive to the needs of its neighbor house and recognized as the most necessary organization in the community. However, in many places may be found "churches" which are but names, buildings, "shells,"—which if not abandoned utterly have but little influence on the people in their neighborhood.

The country minister of Maryland is awake, as is demonstrated by the Rural Life Conference for Ministers which will be held at the Maryland Agricultural College, August 4, 5. 6. Every minister in the State is being urged to attend and should receive a program of this conference.

THE CABBAGE WORMS.—Three or four species of moth or butterfly larvae are annual pests of cabbages, but their ravages are easily controlled by a thorough spraying with arsenate of lead, 2 lbs. to a barrel of soap suds made with one pound of laundry soap to 50 gallons of water. Use a nozzle that will give a fine mist.

Country boys need rotation of experience as fields need rotation of crops.
