THE EIGHTH DECADE OF A WANDERING BOY

(Written especially for the KENT NEWS.)

November, 1874.—Some have said that it is not the business of private men to meddle with government, a bold and dishonest saying, which is fit to come from no mouth but that of a tyrant or a slave. To say that private men have nothing to do with government is to say that private men have nothing to do with their own happiness or misery; that people ought not to conceru themselves wether they be naked or clothed, fed or starved, deceived or instructed, protected or destroyed.

At this time perhaps we are entering into one of the greatest campaigns in the county and State that has been witnessed here for many years. The present governor who is a candidate for governor, the Hon. John Lee Carroll, who has just served as senator from his county, having been president of the Senate. The other Senator, Wm. T. Hamilton, one of the ablest men in the State, if indeed not in the country. Perhaps he was one of the greatest orators our State has ever known. Now the lines are being made for the coming primaries of next year.

The various candidates in the different counties and particularly those for the Legislature are looming up. Unasked for, a delegation from my district called to know if I would be a candidate for Senator. I told them I could not give them an answer as I was never in Annapolis but once and I shall never forget that day. I went on an excursion on the steamer Trumpeter with my wife and children, thinking ourselves perfectly safe, the Captain, Martin Deming, considered one of the best mariners on the bay. We got to the town without any mishap and started home. About the middle part of the bay we were overcome by a terrific storm. The boat was damaged and the Captain ran into Worton Creek where we remained all night. The next morning it was lined with boats. We got to Turner's Creek that day about 10 o'clock, the boat in a disabled condition.

My experience and the condition and looks of the old town did not make me feel anxious to spend a winter at Annapolis. I was unable to give them an answer. The following week my young friend from Churn Creek and some of his friends came in and insisted that I should be a candidate. I will say truly that I had no great inkling to go to the Capitol of the State. A few days afterward one of my boyhood friends at Galena, who carried on a large machine manufacturing business there invited some of his friends and myself to take dinner with him. We talked the matter over and the prospect in their District.

Between that and the first of the year my old friend, who never deserted me, who had a large harness establishment there invited my young friends and I to dinner. We talked it over and I told them I would give them an answer early in January. I made up my mind and told my friends that I would go to see our venerable Captain at Georgetown and ask for his advice. I did so and his reply was, "Go ahead, if it is possible it shall be well with you here."

I went to see my friend, the Doctor, who lived at Georgetown, and talked with him. He assured me that he would do all he could for me. I talked to my wife and family about it. She seemed to assent on certain conditions. So finally I made arrangements with my young friends at Galena and in the First and Second District and we had a caucus at Galena. I knew very well that if I undertook it I would have a hard fight. I told them that they had three large hotels in the First District, one at Galena, one at Massey and one at Millington, and I am satisfied that some of the most prominent men with the hotels would oppose me. I said, "If you can give me any assurance that we can carry the districts I am willing to risk the trial. They assured me that they would do all they could and I was convinced that they would. I knew I had some opposition at home, but I was assured by one of my best friends in Kent, that he and his friends could carry the Third district for me. About the 1st of January, as I remember, with three candidates for the Senate, things began to get lively. A state committee who were opposed to me who had the settling of the time and place and how the primaries should be conducted, and it was reported that they advocated our holding the primaries in May and you can readily see that it made us a very quick campaign because they did hold the primaries about the 3rd of June.

In the next issue will give you the whole campaign.

Foot Ball.—With 7 days before the first game, the Washington College football squad is getting down to hard work. The first practice of the season was held Wednesday and only men who played in any of last season's games were present.

The squad is large and there is but little doubt that there is some excellent material among them. Several promising candidates, a guard from Charlotte Hall, a half-back from Fort Worth, Texas, and an end from Easton, Md., are available. The schedule:

October 3—Haverford College. at Haverford Pa.

October 10—Mount St. Mary's College at Emmitsburg, Md.

October 17—Johns Hopkins University, at Baltimore.

October 24—Western Maryland College, at Chestertown, Md.

October 31—Lebanon Valley College, at Annville, Pa.

November 6—Maryland Agricultural College, at Chestertown, Md.

November 14—Pending.

November 21—St. John's College, at Baltimore pending.

SEVERAL negroes with revolvers broke up the camp meeting at Davis' Hill Sunday evening, by firing into space and then hiding. The church officials, in their effort to preserve peace, notified Sheriff Brown, who, accompained by Constable Jester, made an arrest.

WAS MISERABLE COULDN'T STAND

Testifies She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lackawanna, N. Y.—"After my first child was born I felt very miserable and could not stand on my feet. My sister-in-law wished me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and my nerves became firm, appetite good, step elastic, and I lost that weak, tired feeling. That was six years ago and I have had three fine healthy children since. For female troubles I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it works like a charm. I do all my own work."—Mrs. A. F. KREAMER, 1574 Electric Avenue, Lackawanna, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.
