AUCTION SALE

On Saturday, January 23rd, 1915, we will have a genuine Auction Sale at which everything offered will positively be sold to the highest bidder, terms cash.

This will not be a sale at which we will ask 19c for a 25c article, but our auctioneer, Jack Jester, will sell to the one offering the most money, no matter how much.

For the week following the Auction Sale we have selected quite a few rare bargains.

Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Montpelier, Vt. — "We have great faith in your remedies. I was very irregular and was tired and sleepy all the time, would have cold chills, and my hands and feet would bloat. My stomach bothered me, I had pain in my side and a bad headache most of the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me lots of good and I now feel fine. I am regular, my stomach is better and my pains have all left me. You can use my name if you like. I am proud of what your remedies have done for me." — Mrs. MARY GAUTHIER, 21 Ridge St., Montpelier, Vt.

An Honest Dependable Medicine

It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for nearly forty years, and to-day hold a record for thousands upon thousands of actual cures, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

MILLINGTON

Mr. Earle A. Stafford spent a few days last week in Baltimore.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of Asbury M. E Church met on Thursday afternoon of last week at the home of Mrs. J. P. Ahern and the following officers were elected for the year:

President—Mrs. J. L. Smith.
Vice-President—Mrs. J. P. Ahern.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. Joseph Mallalieu.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. W. T. Mallalieu.
Treasurer—Mrs. H. L. Disharoon.
Committee on Local Work—Mrs. J. E. Woodall, Mrs. J. W. Higman, Mrs. Ella White and R. E. Porter.

Mrs. Gove Everett attended the funeral of her uncle, Mr. John Mason, who died at the home of his daughter Mrs. John Roe, near Chester, Md., and whose funeral took place in the M. E. Church, Centreville, Md., on Friday, January 22nd, at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Merritt Brice entertained at cards on Thursday afternoon of last week at her home on N. Sassafras street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Ahern spent a couple of days last week with friends in Philadelphia.

Services to-morrow, Jan. 31st, at Asbury M. E. Church will be as follows: 10.30 a. m., preaching by the pastor, Rev. G. P. Smith; 2.30 p. m., Sunday school, subject, "The Birth of Sampson," Temperance lesson; 7.30 p. m. revival service.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Mr. W. I. Jarvis, of this town, to Miss Bertha Phillips, of Sudlersville, which will take place in the M. E. Church, Sudlersville, on Saturday, Feb. 5th, at 3 p. m.

Miss Susie Jones, of near town, was the guest last week of Miss Marguerite Ahern.

Mr. William Price, of Philadelphia, visited his sister-in-law, Mrs. T. A. Godwin, last week.

PINEY NECK

Mrs. Carrie McClements and daughter Kina, who have been visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Capel, have returned to their home in Queen Anne.

Mrs. Mollie Crouch spent a couple of days last week in Baltimore visiting her daughter, Mrs. Nora Price.

Miss Mary Richardson and Mr. Tilden Wilson spent the week-end with the latter's aunt, Mrs. Jas. Wood.

The Knights of Pythias had an enjoyable time at their weekly meeting on last Saturday evening. Pie and coffee were served in abundance.

Rev. Alonzo Travers occupied the pulpit at Rock Hall M. E. Church last Sunday morning.

Quite a large crowd attended the party given at the home of Mrs. Mark Taylor, on Tuesday evening of last week in honor of Mr. Romie Crouch.

Mr. Jas. Beck, who has been to the Maryland University, has returned home and is improving at this writing.

We are also glad to report Mrs. Marie Shriver and Mr. Richard, Sr., better at this writing.

Mr. Richard Grant, Jr., of New Jersey, formerly U. S. Navy, is visiting his relatives here. Richie was called here by the sudden illness of his grandfather, Mr. Richard Grant, Sr.

Miss Clyda Ashley is also on the sick list, but we hope to see her out again soon.

Mr. Cleveland Ashley is also sick.

BOLGIANO'S Perfect Seed Potatoes

The United States Agricultural Department places their Tag of Inspection and Approval on every sack of SEED POTATOES Purchased From J. BOLGIANO & SON.

CERTIFICATE OF QUALITY.

This is to certify that I have had charge of all the Seed Potatoes grown for J. Bolgiano & Son, during this growing season. I have been with them since April 15th; looked after the selecting of their seed and the treating of the same, have also had charge of the spraying during the growing season. There was nothing planted but the very best selected seed, and nothing has been left undone to have them right. The crop is now being harvested, and the results of my work are most satisfactory. We are harvesting one of the largest crops ever grown in Aroostook County, Maine, and of the finest quality, free from any disease and true to name. I spent some time in Washington, D. C., with the Horticultural Board before coming here and their ideas of producing FIRST CLASS SEED have been carried out to the letter for J. Bolgiano & Son.

WHO WAS THE GOAT?

By DOROTHY BLACKMORE.

"If you put it in water on your desk it will keep fresh for days," said Dorine Fable as she pinned a marigold on the coat lapel of young Doctor Hanscom.

"I'll do it and you'll see me wear it home every night while it lives," replied the doctor. "And for good behavior perhaps you'll do me the honor of pinning on another?"

Dorine nodded. Her dimples played about her mouth when she smiled and the sight of them had become a very interesting part of Doctor Hanscom's summer sojourn at the Laketon hotel. He was a young veterinary surgeon and his office and visiting hours were not long, so that he had had the advantage over many of the summer men at the hotel by getting home early. And it seemed almost as if Dorine waited for him on the tennis court or on the veranda.

Several times on the suburban train that took him to the city he thought of the girl's face as she had reached up to put the little flower on his coat.

That evening while he was at dinner Dorine came into the dining room with her mother, and they both wore automobile costumes.

Dorine gave him her usual bright smile and nod, and then her eyes fell on his coat lapel, which was guiltless of adornment. A slight flush burned her cheeks and after that she gave him only cursory glances, and when he asked her to walk with him as he passed her in the corridor she declined almost frigidly.

For three days he did not have conversation with her. He saw her across the dining room with her father, mother and brother, and he received each time a cool little nod from Dorine. It was Saturday night at the weekly dance that he determined to talk with her.

He waited for her at the big double door leading into the ballroom. He had fully decided to force her to listen to him. As she came downstairs, lovely in a white dancing dress, he met her face to face.

"This has been our dance all summer, Dorine. Have it with me now." He put his arm about her and they stepped off together in the hesitation waltz they had learned to dance so well as partners.

When the dance was over he led her out through the French windows that opened onto a secluded veranda.

"Sit down," Joe said, drawing up a chair. Himself, he sat on the railing facing her.

"Now," he began, "what is the matter? Why have you deliberately avoided me for days?" He paused. "I know—it was because you thought I was careless about your flower—that I had forgotten it."

"You were—you did," said Dorine with asperity. "And I know very well why it was—"

"Dorine—" began Joe, but she interrupted him.

"Wait—let me tell you! Let me show you that I realize all about it before you tell me your excuse." She laid emphasis on the last word.

"George—my brother—told me when he saw me pinning it on you that you would never be seen wearing a yellow flower—that it was the emblem of the suffragist! So you let some one ridicule you out of it. I did not pin it on you because of my views on this woman question—though they are very strongly in favor of it—but because I was beginning to—well, to like you, and I always give father and George a buttonhole bouquet when they leave in the morning. I—I was very foolish to do it," she said.

"Dorine Fable, listen to me," the young man said, earnestly. "This sounds so funny I can hardly tell you, though I assure you it isn't funny to me. The morning you gave me that flower I was called out to the estate of Mr. Phillips to see what was the matter with the foot of a very fine goat. While I was looking at its foot the animal chewed my flower off and the stable man who was with us roared with laughter. If you doubt this, I will show you the withered stem still pinned to the under side of my coat lapel. I had not put it in water on my desk, but was still wearing it. Now, do you see how badly you have treated me? Do you, Dorine?"

"And—and it wasn't because it was yellow, then?" she asked.

"Search me! Maybe the goat was an antisuffragist, but I'm not responsible for his views. Seriously, Dorine aren't you sorry?"

Dorine nodded.

And then Doctor Hanscom whispered three little words in Dorine's ear.

Found Worms for Her to Eat.

African jungle people are not very particular concerning their food, says the Christian Herald. One of our missionary ladies was down with an attack of fever some time ago. This was a source of sorrow to the poor, unlearned, yet sympathetic natives, who in their own way are really compassionate and want to help. One of these "bush mammies" tried to express her sorrow because the "white mammy missionary" was so ill. After a time she left the station with a bright idea in her head, and started for the jungle. A little later she returned with a large tropical leaf from one of the trees. Upon it were several big crawling green worms, which she had caught and brought to the sick missionary. She thought they would be nice and tender for her to eat during her illness.
