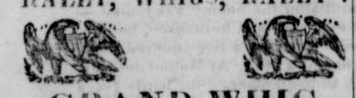
SATURDAY, SEPT. 18, 1852.

RALLY, WHIGS, RALLY!



GRAND WHIG MASS MEETING.

THE WHIGS OF KENT COUNTY, and ALL who favor the elevation of

GENERAL WINFIELD SCOTT

to the Presidency, are invited to attend a

Grand Mass Meeting

o be held at CHESTER TOWN on TUESDAY 21st September.

The following eloquent speakers will be present and address the meeting:

GEN. THOMPSON, of Ind.,
GEN T. F. BOWIE,
AUGUSTUS R. SOLLERS,
H. WINTER DAVIS,
RICHARD T. MERRICK

And other distinguished friends of the cause.

The speaking will commence at 11 o'clock. A Steam Boat, from Baltimore, will be here with a full Band of Music.

COM. OF ARRANGEMENTS.
Sept. 11, 1852.—2t.

Small Note Law.

After next Tuesday week, the 1st day of October, it will not be lawful for "any person or persons, to pay out circulate or receive in payment of any debt, any bank note of a less denomination than Five Dollars," which is issued by any bank out of the State of Maryland, under a penalty of five dollars for each and every offence.

This law is intended to exclude the one, two and three dollar notes of the Delaware banks, as well as other States, and we caution our readers in time. Those who have those notes had better dispose or exchange them previous to the 1st of the ensuing month.

The small notes of the Maryland Banks are permitted, by the same law, to circulate until the 1st day of March next.

The Whig Meeting.

The Whig Mass Meeting on Tuesday next, will be a grand affair. A large dinner will be provided, and we hope to see as many present as can attend.

POLE RAISING.—The Young Whigs of Kent intend raising a pole this afternoon at 3 o'clk.

MAINE ELECTION.—Hubbard, the Democratic candidate for Governor, is defeated by about 7000 votes. The Congressional ticket is divided.

MASS MEETING IN MONUMENT SQUARE.

This demonstration, which came off last night, far exceeded anything of the kind it has ever been our lot to witness in Monumeat square. Long before the appointed time for the organization of the meeting, the entire square was filled almost, as it were, to its utmost capacity Lest we may err, we will not specify the number present Previous to the appearance there of the different wards with their banners, transparencies, &c, the meeting was called to order, about 8 o'clock, by Richard T. Merrick, Esq; who nominated the following gentlemen as officers of the meeting, who were unanimously chosen:

President—His Honor the Mayor, J. H. T. Jerome, Esq.

Vice Presidents.—Col Samuel Moale, Maj. Joseph K. Stapleton, Andrew E Warner, Jr., Sam'l Childs, Dr Ashton Alexander, Clement Carter, James H Luckett, Abraham G. Coale, Col James C. Ninde, Major John R. Kenly, David Maulsby, Asa Needham, Tho. Mules, John Colston, James McNeal, Isaac Bull, Jas L. Parr, Charles G. Ridgely, Sam'l C. Bordly, Christopher Rabourg, Sr., Samuel McCubbin, Richard Pouder, Dr. Wm S McPherson, Jno. R Kelso, Capt James Frazier, Jas B George, Sterling Thomas, Dr. M. S Bear, Col John Pickell, Alexander Gould, Sr, Henry Trayers, Andrew Flanegan, John Dunlap, Wm. Thomas John Norwood, George Lowry, James T. Randolph, Zenos Barnum, David Pollard, Charles Webb, Jas. P. Williamson, Jr., J. J Parrott, John Ensey, C. Merritt.

Secretaries.—H. Leon Bond., Michael Warner, Jr., Wm. S. Gross, Howell Downing, H. L. Montague, Tos Wheelan, Jr., Thomas B. Hamilton, R. B. Clark, Sheppard A. Leakin, Wm. McKinly, Robert A. McAllister.

Henry Winter Davis, Esq., was first introduced to the meeting, who had not proceeded far before he was compelled to give way on the appearance of the various wards.

A handsome and substantial staging had been erected in front of the immense stone foundation of the court house where the officers, speakers, reporters and others were seated, amply sufficient in dimension for all. Running the full length of the foundation in front was the inscription of "Scott Graham and the Union," with the name of 'Captain Richard France," the candidate of the party for Mayor. These were illuminated, and presented a bold and beautiful sight to the spectator.

On the elevation, a fine display of lights, in an octagon form, was elegantly arranged, while the Battle Monument formed no inconsiderable attraction to the surrounding multitude, by the brilliant lights encircling it. Rockets were occasionally sent up from the elevation, and the firing of cannon at intervals served to excite all present To describe the various banners, transparancies, &c. which were brought up with the wards would be a work of mush labor, and we should consume rather more space than our columns at present will allow. Let a few suffice.

The first Ward brought a fine rigged schooner, with canvass, flags, and was well manned with a joyous crew. It was drawn by four milk white horses—A firing was kept up from her deck.

A handsome painting of the Battle scene at Lundy's Lane and Chepultepec was born in the 10th ward procession, being an illuminated transparancy.

The Fourth Ward carried a beautiful monument, with various mottoes, and inscriptions upon it, and having a representation of a bowl with which Scott was taking a "hasty plate of soup."

The Ninth Ward bore a large transparancy of an engine, with various appropriate instructions upon it.

The Sixth Ward bore a representation of a steamboat, with flags flying from it, and a monument with suitable inscriptions upon it.

Mr. Davis resumed his speech in reference to the superior claims he contended Scott possessed over Pierce for the Presidency He was greatly cheered in his remarks.

He was followed by the Hon. R. W Thompson, of Indiana, who entertained his hearers at great length.

The band of the Independent Blues, Captain Holland, played appropriate airs at intervals during the meeting upon the stand.

While the speaking was progressing at this stand, a number of distinguished gentlemen addressad the assemblage from a platform near the Battle Monument, among whom was the Hon. Nelson Barrere, of Ohio, Hon. Richard I. Bowie, of Maryland, and Gen Thomas F Bowie, one of the Whig electors of Maryland. Coleman Yellott, Esq, likewise addressed the meeting in a spirited manner.

Governor Call, of Florida, was next introduced, and delivered an able speech.

Previous to which, there was a brilliant display of fireworks at either side of the stand—one displaying, in dazzling letters, the name of "Scott," and the other, in equally bright letters, "The Union," while the most beautiful rockets were sent up from the elevation, amid the firing of cannon from various points

Richard T. Merrick, Esq., closed the meeting in an animated speech.

Incidental to the gathering, in the afternoon, at the Lyre Buildings the delegation from the city of Washington was welcomed by George S. Allan, Esq on the part of the city, who was replied to on behalf of the delegation by Walter Lenox, Esq, Ex-Mayor of Washington city, and Gen Bowie, in happy addresses.—Sun of Tuesday.

☞The following letter, from our distinguished Senator, was read:

CHESTERTOWN, Sept. 10, 1852.

SIR—I acknowledged the receipt of your letter of the 1st inst., inviting me on behalf of the Whig City Convention, to participate in the celebration of the battles of North point and Chepultepec, on the 13th of this month. The condition of my health will not at present allow me to participate in any public celebration, where I should be expected to speak. It is with unfeigned regret, therefore, that I am compelled to forego the pleasure of uniting with you, on an occasion so full of stirring recollections, and so grateful to the pride of an American citizen.

No Marylander can look back to the battle of North Point without emotions of exultation The galantry with which our citizen soldiers repulsed the veterans of England, not only saved our noble city from pillage, but earned unfading honor for its patriotic defenders The memory of their services cannot be too warmly cherished. The 12th of Sept., memorable for the bombardent of Fort McHenry, is again illustrious as the day when the noble Scott and his gallant army crowned a long course of splended victories, by storming Chepultepec, and sweeping away the last barriers which opposed their entrance into the "Halls of the Montezumas." Nothing could be more glorious to the American arms than this series of operations markes from begining to end by patient courage bold daring, and consummate skill—graced as they were, too by the milder virtues of generous forbearance and compassionate magnanimity. The leader of this gallant army has earned a historic name, which can never fade from the annals of American glory. In his long public career of forty years, no spot can be found upon his fair escutcheon. To his unsurpassed military skill he adds the merit of a pure and admirable private character. Thoroughly read in history well acquainted with natural and constitutional law, an industrious student in all that relates to his country's welfare, devoted to our constitutional union, and faithful to the rights of each of its members, marked by the highest sense of honor and the most generous benevolence, what more can the country require in the man who is to preside over its Government? It happened to me to know at an early day, that General Scott was a decided advocate of the measures commonly called the Compromise acts which passed Congress in 1850. I had an interview with him on the evening of the day when the Texas boundary bill passed the Senate, and I can never forget the exultation with which he hailed the passage of that bill, which he declared to be the necessary forrunner of all the other measures of the series. The passage of the one bill he considered as the guarantee of the success of all the rest; and he expressd to me the liveliest gratification at the prospect of satisfying the just demands of every section of the Union, and restoring that harmony among all, which was so essential to the peace and prosperity of the whole country,—These opinions he has repeatedly expressed with the franknes which belongs to his nature, and he has accepted fully and unreservedly the resolutions adopted by the Convention which nominated him for the Presidency. How any candid and unprejudiced man can distrust his fidelity, it is difficult for me to conceive.

Of that I am sure, that if the people should honor him and themselves, by calling him to the Chief Magistracy they will find him faithful to every guarantee of the Constitution, earnest and honest in the endeavor to execute all the laws of the land ever mindful of the honor of the country and true to its best interests, just to his friends, forbearing and generous to his opponents, scorning all improper influences and yielding to the counsels of his personal and political friends just such weight as a sound, honest, impartial judgment should allow to them.

Believing this, I shall feel it my duty to unite in all proper efforts to secure General Scott's election to the Presidency. I beg leave, sir, to repeat my regret that my health will not allow me to be present at your celebration of the 13th, to bear my testimony publicly in favor of the patriot and hero whom you delight to honor. Very respectfully, sir, your friend and fellow citizen,

JAS. ALFRED PEARCE.

Dr. YEATES, President Whig City Convention.

Some of the Democrats are ever ready to quote the New York Herald, whenever they find any thing in it against Gen. Scott. What do they say to the following remarks of that paper?

"It is charged against Gen. Pierce that last January, at a place in New Hampshire called New Boston, in the course of a public speech, on being interrogated directly to the point, he replied that he 'loathed the fugitive slave law,' had 'a revolting feeling at the giving up of slave,' and that the law was 'opposed to moral right,' but that it was constitutional, &c. This charge we find sustained by the affidavit of Mr Foss, a reporter who reported the speech on the spot; and from our experience and observation, we have learned, in the matter of a disputed speech to trust the reporter, if honest, as the most reliable witness that can be produced.

It is a reporter's duty, and it soon becomes his habit, unless he is a deliberate knave, to report the speech as he hears it, and to hear it all. Mere spectators seldom hear correctly a tenth part of the stump speech, and their testimony, or even the testimony of the speaker himself, in frequent cases, is not strictly reliable for accuracy as the evidence of the reporter Members of Congres frequently correct mistakes of the reporters or deny the accuracy of certain remarks charged upon them, when, we have no doubt in the world, the truth is oftenest on the reporter's side.

Such being our opinion of the merits of the witnesses, and taking into consideration, also, the strong temptations of General Pierce on the occasion in question, to conciliate the democratic free-soilers, we must conclude that the case is proved against the democratic nominee"

JUDGE DOUGLASS.—Prentice has discovered why the "Little Giant" proposes to canvass 28 States out of the 31, and declines visiting three. He says the Maine Liquor law is in operation in 3 and concludes that they are the States that the Judge will pass by.

☞The Boston Post speaks of Gen. Pierce as "the Democratic War Horse." He has one attribute of the Scriptural war horse at all events:

"He smelleth the battle afar off."
