Some Farmers Still Use Oil Lanterns to Light Their Barns

Of course — back in the old days — 30 years ago — you couldn't get anything better. But—these last few years have so changed living conditions that up-to-date farm families won't be satisfied any longer—with poor light.

The modern farmer is quick to see the value of good light—its safety and the convenience it brings him and his family. There are now hundreds of thousands of farmers who have chosen the for it gives them not only all the fine, bright, inexpensive light they can use—but cooking fuel as well.

This wonderful machine stands out of doors—on top of the ground, anywhere. It has totally changed the old-fashioned methods of barn and house lighting.

You can now flood your barn with safe brilliant light—instantly. No matches needed. No dangerous lanterns to tip over or upset.

Think what this means to you! Think how much better and quicker you can work, with plenty of good bright light in place of a smoky, dim oil lantern.

You will find the barn lighting feature alone worth the entire investment for the PILOT. And its use in the house, as well, means added happiness—safety—comfort and convenience for your whole family.

Just because your father and grandfather used oil lamps and lanterns is no reason why you should, any longer, put up with their danger and poor light. Light the modern way, the safe way, with the PILOT.

Find out today about this modern light plant. You owe it to yourself. You owe it to your good wife and to your children. You can well afford the little it will cost.
