Its rich, uniform cod liver oil gets into their blood and gives them vim, snap and zest. It creates strength to resist school sicknesses, overcome pinched faces, sallow complexions and dull eyes.

High authorities have established again and again that cod liver oil promotes growth and energizes the body and brain.

The imported Norwegian cod liver oil always used in Scott's Emulsion is now refined in our own American laboratories which guarantees it free from impurities.

YOU COOK YOUR FOOD—WHY NOT YOUR TOBACCO?

YOU know what broiling does to steak, baking to a potato—and toasting to bread.

In each case flavor is brought out by cooking—by "toasting."

So you can imagine how toasting improves the flavor of the Burley tobacco used in the Lucky Strike Cigarette.

ENGLAND NOW CHEWING GUM

Foreigners for Years Refused to Adopt American Product, but Situation Suddenly Has Changed.

For a great many years American chewing gum manufacturers have endeavored to teach foreign countries to appreciate their product. The stuff that wags the American jaw has been advertised assiduously in France, England and Germany, but with small success. The non-American couldn't understand it. He tried to swallow it, and when he couldn't he gave it up as incomprehensible nonsense. Over in London, where it was called "American Chewing Candy," many shops called attention to it, but the Britishers passed it by and went on buying toffee and lollipops and Turkish delight.

Suddenly, and without warning, the situation has changed. Remarkable figures recently published appear to indicate that England has incontinently become a nation of gum chewers. Manufacturers report that within six months they have increased their monthly sales from 3,000,000 to 20,000,000 sticks. And the English newspapers cannot understand it.

The explanation seems simple. It is said that the largest amount of chewing gum is used in the army, and the next largest amount in the navy. During the last great advance, it was issued as an army ration. Somehow or other the soldiers discovered that it steadied their nerves to have something to chew on in time of stress; and of course it has the effect of keeping the parched throat moist. It is more than probable that the Canadian soldier imparted this information to the English Tommies—and experience did the rest.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

PREDICTED TIMES OF DEATH

University of Pennsylvania Provost Forecast Month and Year of His Demise Two Years in Advance.

I heard a regular army officer who saw much of General Funston in the Philippines say half a dozen years ago that the general was a fatalist to this extent—he expected to die the death of a civilian and never be killed in action, says a newspaper writer.

The most peculiar prediction about one's own death that I have heard concerned Dr. William Pepper, provost of the University of Pennsylvania. Frederick Fraley, who lived to be nearly a century old and who as a young man transacted business with Stephen Girard and Nicholas Biddle, and entertained Daniel Webster, related the incident.

A couple of years before Pepper's death Mr. Fraley asked the famous doctor to perform some service in connection with the American Philosophical society.

"Can't do it," replied Doctor Pepper, "because I expect to die before then." He then specified the month and year in which he expected his life to end.

"But," added the doctor after a pause, "you will live until September, 1901."

Both men died in the month and year predicted by Doctor Pepper.

Curing By Electric Shocks.

From time to time news has come of a new electrical treatment in use in the French army by which men, apparently hopeless cripples, have been cured by giving them very powerful shocks of electricity. The details of this treatment came out in a recent military trial. So painful are the shocks used in the cure that many of the soldiers refused to submit to the treatment, preferring to remain crippled. At the trial of these men it developed that the new treatment is being used in cases of psychic shock, where the chief injury is to the nervous system or to the will power. Men may be partially paralyzed from such purely nervous shocks, and in such cases the new treatment has restored the use of the affected limbs. Its acceptance has now been made compulsory in some of the military hospitals, a commission of physicians having vouched for its harmlessness, in spite of its unpleasant nature.

Woman Landscape Gardener Succeeds.

Miss Mabel Keyes Babcock, for four years in charge of the department of horticulture and landscape architecture at Wellesley college, has been chosen to design the great formal garden which is to be a feature of the new residence of the president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Boston, and which is to be an impressive detail of the magnificent new installation of that institution. Miss Babcock is one of the most distinguished landscape gardeners of her sex in the country, and she has done notable work in landscape effects for the Wellesley grounds, for several great estates in Chicago and also in greater Boston.

War Reduces Insanity.

War as a palliative of insanity is a theory unfamiliar to most people, but we have no reason to doubt the conclusions of Doctor Oswald of Glasgow Lunatic asylum on the matter, says the London Globe. One phase of the subject is instructive and significant. This is "the removal of the powerful effect of poverty on the mind, and its replacement by the higher standard of living and remunerative employment." Poverty and unemployment are thus by medical testimony fore fertile causes of insanity than war. This is a lesson to be borne in mind when the war is over.
