Our Ticket.

We publish to-day a list of the Whig Ticket complete, and in so doing cannot forbear to congratulate the Convention and the party upon the selections which have been made. They are, one and all, good and true men well fitted for respective posts to which they have been assigned.

This ticket cannot fail to command a united and energetic support, and although in the nominations many of them were opposed by competitors as worthy and well fitted as themselves, yet we feel assured that all, animated by a spirit of good will, harmony and attachment to the cause, will unite in securing an old fashioned Whig victory.

STEAMER BURNED.—The Steamer Cambridge, was destroyed by fire on Saturday last.

Whig County Meetings.

Pursuant to public notice, the Delegates selected by the different Districts, met in County Convention for the purpose of nominating a County Ticket, &c. On motion, George W. Spencer, Esq., was called to the Chair, and Wm. B Wilmer and John Lee, Esqs., appointed Secretaries.

The Convention then selected the ticket which may be found in another part of the "News."

The following gentlemen were selected Delegates to represent Kent County in the Whig Congressional Convention, which meets at Havre de Grace on Tuesday next:

Jno. E. Cacy, J. Leeds Barroll,
Abel J. Rees.

Delegates to the Convention which meets in Cambridge on Wednesday the 5th of October next to nominate a Commissioner of Public Works:

Isaac Gale, jr., G. W. T. Perkins,
Dr. B. C. H. Massey.

The following gentlemen were appointed a Committee of Arrangements for the county:

Jas. B. Ricaud,	Chas. H. Baker,
Isaac Gale, jr.,	E. Hadaway, jr.,
R. C. Smyth,	George Copper,
Jas. Beck (of Geo)	Dan'l Jones,
Wm. B. Wilmer,	Hugh Wallis,
Geo. W. Spencer,	L. S. Vansant,
E. H Boyer,	David Clements,

Wm. Moffett.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That this Convention recommend to the Whigs of Kent County to stand by the party and support the Ticket as now presented to them.

On motion the Convention adjourned.

GEO. W. SPENCER, Chairman.

WM B. WILMER, } Secretaries.
JOHN LEE, }

(From the Patriot of Monday.)

The next Election in Maryland.

This is to take place on the first Wednesday (the 2d) of November next, when a Governor, members of the Legislature, and other State officers, and members of Congress are to be chosen. The election is, therefore, in every way, important, and every voter should take it home to his heart, as involving a duty which demands of him the faithful and discriminating exercise of the right of elective franchise that belongs to him as a citizen of the State.

The great duty which the Constitution devolves upon the citizens, in the selection of the men who are to be charged with the administration of the government of the State, is to vote—and to do this with reference only to public good. The time is now approaching when this duty is to be performed—and is there a man entitled to the exercise of the elective franchise who will not vote? We trust not, we must believe not, because, if for no other reason, there is that in the character and qualifications of the candidate for Governor, nominated by the Whig State Convention, which should, and we therefore must believe will, awaken an enthusiasm in his behalf that ought to make all voters proud of the opportunity of voting for him.

And every Whig in the State will vote! We say it with confidence; we announce it with pride, as evidence that the whigs of Maryland are worthy of the great cause, with which their party name associates them; and we record it with heartfelt pleasure as leaving no room for doubt that Richard J. Bowie, of Montgomery county, is to be the next Governor of Maryland.

The responsibility, Whigs of Maryland, of seeing that this confidence is not disappointed, is upon you. "A full vote and a fair vote, is certain to bring a Whig victory," is an adage which time and every election has demonstrated to be true. See to it, then, that at the election next November, no whig will have to reproach himself with having failed to vote, and the government of the State of Maryland, executive and legislative, will then pass to the care of Whigs, who know their duty and will do it.

We may mention here, what we know will give the whigs of the State great pleasure, that Mr. Bowie is making arrangements to visit the different counties of the State, and that he will gladly address them, in public meeting, on the affairs of the State, and the duties of the Governor of Maryland. He is now in Baltimore, but will leave this afternoon. We had the pleasure of seeing him this morning, for the first time for many years; and we cannot be mistaken in saying, that wherever he may go, and the more familiar the people may become with him, he will be sure to make friends, for in the noble and frank spirit which beams from his face, and which shows itself in all his thoughts and words, there will be recognized a man, whom to know is to love and respect.

In saying this, we speak not only for ourselves, but for all who know him, and as evidence we refer to the subjoined remarks of the National Intelligencer, made by the editor in publishing the letter of Col. Hambleton, President of the State Convention, advising him of his nomination for Governor, and the letter of Mr. Bowie in reply, accepting the nomination. This testimony of the venerable editor of the Intelligencer whose position in Washington has made him familiar with all the great men of the country, for the past fifty years, must carry conviction to every mind, that the election of Mr Bowie to the office of Governor, would be something for every true Marylander to boast of. The Intelligencer says:

All of our readers in this city and the surrounding country who have had the advantage of a personal acquaintance with the Hon. Richard J. Bowie, as well as those from all parts of the Union who have been associated with him in Congress, will deem it fortunate that the Whig party of Maryland have selected that gentleman as their candidate for Governor of the State. His gentlemanly bearing, his experience in public affairs, the steadfastness of his political faith, and, above, all, the entire soundness of his principles, as evidenced in his public career and confirmed by his letter of acceptance, strongly recommend him to the cordial and united support of the people of Maryland for the high station in connexion with which his name has been placed before them. The compliment bestowed on the political character of Mr. Bowie in the second paragraph of the letter of the President of the late State Convention, informing him of his nomination, is both felicitious and just:

Here is the paragraph noted in Mr. Hambleton's letter.

In the full conviction that no Whig of Maryland possessed more of that genuine fire and spirit, as manifested in your whole political course, and that no son of hers also possessed more power or willingness to communicate them by his energy and eloquence, that body recently assembled has confided to you the banner of that party, and, with the worthy associates assigned you, bids you and them an onward and it trusts a triumphant race in the approaching contest.

Case of Bishop Doane.

The case of Bishop Doane, before the Court of Bishops at Camden, was finally dispose of on Thursday.

It appears that on Tuesday before the Court adjourned, a committee of seven Bishops was appointed to confer with the prosecutors and the respondent.—The conference took place on the following day, (Wednesday,) when Bishop Doane, at the suggestion of several members of the court, made a statement in writing, in which he denied all evil motives or intentions on his part, and at the same time acknowledged that amidst his perplexities he had committed indiscretions which he deeply regretted. He further expressed the opinion that the Presenting Bishops had not been actuated by any improper motives, but had only discharged what they considered their duty.

This paper was submitted to the court on Thursday morning, when, after a long and dispassionate debate, in which all the facts of the case were recapitulated, the presentment against Bishop Doane was dismissed by a unanimous vote.

A resolution was then unanimously passed declaring that the presenting Bishops, in their presentment to the court were not moved by any improper or vindictive motives, but solely actuated by a conscientious sense of duty.

After prayers, the Apostolic Benediction having been pronounced by Bishop Brownell, the court adjourned sine die.

MR. BOWIE AT HOME.—The best evidence of the personal merit of a public man may often be found by the estimation in which he is held by his neighbors. In the election returns of 1851, we have strong testimony on this point in favor of our Gubernatorial candidate. His opponent, at that election, was a talented, eloquent and popular Whig, General Thomas F. Bowie The following was the vote in Montgomery:

	R. J. Bowie.	T. F. Bowie.
Cracklin district,	165	49
Clarksburg,	149	42
Medley's	165	14
Rockville,	261*	14
Berry's,	173	20
	913	139
	139
Majority	774

*His own residence. It thus appears that in his own election district, Mr Bowie got all the votes but 14.

DIED.

Departed this life at his residence in Chester Neck, on the 12th ultimo, JOHN PECKENHOPS, a native of Germany, for the last eleven months and a half a resident of this Neck.

It has long been the custom of mankind to eulogize the rich and the great of the land, too often for mercenary views; not from the veneration of the sacred dead—but to gain the favour and the influence of the living. Whilst too often the worthy but humble dead, are suffered to pass from time to Eternity, as it were, "uncoffined and unknelled," with scarce a land mark to point where their bones repose—there being none so lowly as to do them homage.

Be mine the feeble hand to record the virtues of this humble-minded man.—The subject of this obituary had the attention of one of the most skillful physicians of this county, whose visits were as regular as the revolution of the great luminary of day. But alas! all his skill, all his learned art, and that which is still more commendable in the sight of the King of kings, his profound sympathy for the lone exile stranger in a strange land:—But it availed nought "The reaper was in the field, and the harvest was ripe." A few fleeting months ago, and he hailed with rapture the land of Columbia; with high hopes and a throbbing heart, to achieve upon her soil, a home, surrounded by the cornucopia. Alas! those high hopes are blasted—that throbbing heart has ceased to beat—those warm aspirations are cold—that much desired home, 'that bourne from whence no traveller e'er returns." He has passed through that dark "valley of the shadow of death," yet not dark to him, for doubtless, rays of divine light illuminated his pathway to the realms of eternal rest. There were no satellites surrounding this poor man's couch. There was no mother's lamentation. There was no fraternal wail to disturb the solemnity of the midnight hour, save the throbbing pulse of one lone sentinel. Truly might the epithet be applyed to him, "The noblest work of God's creation, an honest man." His characteristics were benevolence, humanity, and a child-like innocence.

Adieu—adieu, thou stranger friend—
Too soon, alas! we met to part:—
A little of thy sainted spirit send,
To heal a wounded heart.
The raging storm the oak may bow,
The lightnings plough the air—
Thy spirit dwells in heaven now,
And will reign forever there.
