NO. 322 FIRST IN NEW DRAFT

Nineteen Registrants From Kent In First Hundred Numbers Drawn

Standing blindfolded, in the presence of a great crowd which thronged the huge marble "caucus room" of the Senate office building, President Wilson, on Monday afternoon, drew the first capsule, No. 322, in the nation's third great draft lottery, thereby selecting hundreds af men to go to the front from those registered September 12th.

Of the first 100 numbers drawn but 19 apply to Kent county the others being numerically higher than the total registration, which was 1680.

The numbers applying to Kent, in the order in which they were drawn, with the names of the registrants are as follows:

322 William Hart, Millington, w
1027 S. C. Whaland, Rock Hall, w
438 Arthur Leon Brown, Chest'n, w
904 U. W. Jones, Lynch, c
1240 Wm. A. Wilson, Golts, w
20 Noah G. Phillips, Worton, c
1255 Geo. V. Hatcherson, Chest'n, w
739 W. W. Thompson, Ches. 3., c
535 Jas. S. Moffett, Rock Hall, w
219 Samuel H. Beaston, Blacks, w
625 J. S. Wilmer, Betterton, w
72 Willie Doman, Millington, c
832 G. A. Tiller, Worton, c
964 Perry M. Hepbron, Rock Hall, w
348 Willis C. Gould, Millington, c
4 Eugene Brown, Worton, c
134 Harry Clark, Worton, w
395 John R. Goodman, Worton, w
657 N. T. Brice, Betterton, w

Only draft registrants between the ages of nineteen and twenty-one, and thirty-two and thirty-six have so far received their questionnaires, as it is the purpose of the Government to call these first. Registrants eighteen years old and those names appear in foregoing list will not be called at this time.

Every registrant of this county may learn his serial number by going to the Court House in Chestertown where the complete list is posted. Those who have received their questionnaires already know their number which is entered therein. The complete list of registrants with their numbers have been published in former issues of the News, and those who have copies of these issues available may learn their number by referring thereto.

MANY ENJOYED CIRCUS AT DOVER YESTERDAY

Yesterday was "circus day" in Dover, with ideal circus weather prevailing, and hundreds of residents of the community enjoyed the afternoon and evening performances of the big Walter L. Main's Fashion Plate shows.

The crowds who attended the two performances were loud in ther praise of the high-class entertainment rendered, all of the acts being unusually big features. The courtesy of the management and the clean, pleasing character of the various attractions, were also warmly commended. Owing to a delay in transportation, the circus arrived too late to hold the parade, but this disappointment was more than offset by the enjoyment derived "under the big tent."—Del. State News.

This circus will be in Chestertown, on Thursday, October 10.

QUESTIONNAIRE FOR THE LIBERTY LOAN

An Oral Examination Which Cannot Be Answered With "No"

MARYLAND'S FINE START

Great Expectations of the Start Setting a Warm Pace for Our Whole Nation.

The Fourth Liberty Loan Campaign, which was inaugurated in Maryland with such gratifying enthusiasm last Saturday, today enters the "Questionnaire" stage.

Every man eligible for military service knows all about questionnaires. The younger boys, the older men, the women and girls, probably know less, but this Liberty Loan "questionnaire" is to be something that every one can participate in and every one is expected to lend his hand to.

It is an oral questionnaire and is to be used upon every person you meet. Here it is. Memorize it and get to work.

"I've bought Fourth Liberty Loan bonds; have you?"

"Where's your button?"

"Can't you afford to buy more bonds?"

That's not a very formidable questionnaire, but if the whole population of the state gets down to work with it there will be great results, and the workers will have the satisfaction of having done a great deal toward promoting the success of the campaign.

No county, town or district wants any other to be ahead of it in raising its quota and as much more as possible. No individual can afford to answer the "no" to your Liberty Loan "questionnaire."

With such a running start as the Fourth Liberty Loan made throughout the state last Saturday, and with the force of the drive that has continued since then it is evident that Maryland is not going to be satisfied until she has pushed her subscription up to her quota and beyond, setting a warm pace for her sister commonwealth.

That the patriotic zeal of the folks at home is as unfailing as the devotion of the boys across seas is apparent by the tremendous interest in the present loan.

Cities, towns, counties, communities, organizations, families and individuals are vying with each other in the promotion of the success of the Fourth Government loan for war purposes.

No one wants to be left out of the grand accounting when the sum total of the subscriptions is tallied. Everybody wants to have a bond, and as many bonds as possible.

The Central Committee, while recognizing that every section is working hard, has sent out a request that no efforts be relaxed until the state has rolled up such a handsome contribution to the nation's war fund as to excite the admiration of the whole land.

JUST FAILS TO COOK THE SQUEAL OF A PIG

Toronto.—No exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition was more interesting to women visitors than the cooking demonstration of Leony Deronet, who is chef of the great hotel system presided over by John Bowman, the chief of the Hotel and Restaurant Division of the U. S. Food Administration. Since the war began, he has gone in for elimination of waste with a vengeance and it is now said that he could serve pig's squeal on toast—except that he is using rye bread and corn muffins this season to save wheat.

Leony says the housewife has to be educated not to throw away certain parts of the turkey, lamb and pig, which she now discards. For instance, he says, a very excellent dish can be made from the head of a codfish, that fried bluefish cheek is palatable, and an excellent dish can be made from sheep's trotters, as well as geese and duck feet; also ox feet. A very popular dish, he says, among the laboring class in France, is goose blood with onions, and that the lung of a healthy calf or pig will make a very excellent stew. Blood pudding is another, while still another is pig's skin in jelly.

Some items on that thrifty menu do not sound very tempting, but a number of newspaper women who attended in fear and trembling a typical Leony luncheon emerged smacking their lips. Some of them positively rhapsodized over the result of the following recipe:

"Take one dozen feet of geese or duck; blanch them and take the epidermis out; cut the nails out; boil them in two quarts of water for two or three hours; well season and serve with Poulette sauce or cream sauce; with the broth you will be able to make a good soup."

When a famous chef will stake his reputation on the palatability of these weird-sounding dishes, it shows that this kitchen saving is no mere fad. Real economy is practicable. Not every cook, of course, is a Leony Deronet, but all can follow his example if only a long way off.

One ounce a day the sugar rules say.

How would you like to have to send your meat card ahead before visiting friends? That is the rule in England.

WHY PRICE OF BEEF VARIES.

Export beeves for army and navy as well as for export run over 475 pounds dressed weight. Lighter weight beef does not keep well enough for prolonged holding, but for domestic consumption it is earnestly recommended by the Maryland Food Administration. Owing to drought in certain sections of the U. S. A. an unusual amount of this lighter grade meat has found its way to market.

The butchers, who usually bought the heavy grade article, now pay less and this should be reflected in the retail price. A dealer who used to pay, say, $26 the hundred and now purchases light cattle at $16 should certainly make some difference in his price to the housewife. Where, however, the normal call was for light weight beef the saving will not be manifest. Local conditions govern the meat situation. Every housewife should see that she gets a fair share of any benefits that may arise in her community from this season of abnormal marketing of light weight beef.

Until a reasonable reserve has been accumulated, the opinion of the men who know most and who are responsible is that there should be no slowing down of the efforts to save and to produce.

MAKE USE OF FAIR PRICE LIST.

Hoover helps those who help themselves. The way for the American people to wipe out excess profits on foodstuffs is to keep tab on the Fair Price List and report to the Food Administration cases where extortionate prices are demanded. Offenders can then be brought to book.

The retailer too who only wants fair profits should welcome the official price list because if he sticks to the figures there set down, he is safeguarded from any allegations of profiteering or unfair dealing.

The Food Administration's list now includes staple food products, which constitute about 80 per cent. of the average grocers' sales.

CAULIFLOWER AU GRATIN.

(Official recipe.)

Place a whole cooked cauliflower in a dish for serving, cover with crumbs and butter or butter substitute, and place on an oven grate to brown the crumbs. Remove from the oven and pour one cup of thin white sauce around the cauliflower.

SALTING VEGETABLES.

"Salting" is a method of keeping vegetables which bears the endorsement of the U. S. Food Administration. Here is the method recommended for beans:

Use only fresh, tender beans of green or wax-pod varieties. Snip off the ends, wash the beans and pack them in an earthenware jar with alternate layers of salt, using one part salt to ten parts beans by weight. Weight the beans down, and two days later add enough ten per cent. salt solution (about 1¾ ounces salt to 1 gallon water) to fill the jar. When removed from the solution the beans should be firm, although slightly darkened in color.

Salted vegetables should in general be well rinsed in cold water, then removed from the brine and then soaked in three or four times their measure of cold water to draw out the excess salt. The time necessary for soaking varies with the kind of vegetables. If the water is changed occasionally less time will be required for soaking. They should then be drained, rinsed well, put on to cook in cold water, and brought slowly to the boiling point, after which they should be cooked until they are tender, the time required being practically the same as for fresh vegetables.
