CHESTER TOWN, Md.

SATURDAY MORNING, SEPT. 13, 1856.

AMERICAN NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENT,

MILLARD FILLMORE,

OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

Andrew Jackson Donelson,

OF TENNESSEE.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS.

Eastern Shore.—Col. JAMES WALLACE,
Western Shore.—Hon. J. DIXON ROMAN,
1st. Cong. Dist.—Dr. R. GOLDSBOROUGH,
2nd. Cong. Dist.—EDWIN H. WEBSTER
3r Cong. Dist.—CORNELIUS L. L. LEARY.
4th Cong. Dist.—THOMAS SWANN,
5th Cong. Dist.—FRED'K A. SCHLEY,
th Cong. Dist.—Hon. AUG. R. SOLLERS,

"If there be those, North or South, who desire an administration for the North as against the South, or for the South as against the North, they are not the men who should give their suffrages to me. For my own part, I know only my country, my whole country, and nothing but my country."—Millard Fillmore's Address on his landing at New York.

"I bequeath to my well beloved nephew, ANDREW J. DONELSON, son of Samuel Donelson, deceased, the elegant sword presented to me by the State of Tennessee, with this injunction, that he fail not to use it when necessary in support and protection of our glorious Union and for the protection of the constitutional rights of our beloved country, should they be assailed by foreign, or domestic traitors. This bequeath is made as a memento of my high regard, affection and esteem which I bear to him as a HIGH-MINDED, HONEST and HONORABLE MAN."—ANDREW JACKSON.

"The foundation of my preference is that Mr. Fillmore has administered the Executive Government with signal success and ability. He has been tried and found true, faithful, honest and conscientious."—Henry Clay.

Mr. Schley and the Senator's Letters.

We briefly adverted, last week, to a portion of Mr. Schley's speech, in the recent Convention held in Baltimore, in which he spoke of having been in the North for a month, and ascertained that the effect, in that section, of the Letters of Senators Pratt and Pearce, were pernicious—not advancing Mr. Buchanan's interest, but strengthening and promoting Mr Fremonts!! The reason that operated upon Northern minds, was the apparent sectional character given to the support of Mr. Buchanan. When gentlemen, in high political stations, could forget their antecedents and unite with former opponents with whom they had no sympathies, to supercede such a man as Mr. Fillmore, the conservative, tried public servant, reliable at all times and in all emergencies, national in his principles, feelings, and avowals; for the purpose of supporting Mr. Buchanan; the contest seemed to assume a geographical, rather than national aspect, and produced a northern as distinguished from a Union feeling. We were struck with the novelty of Mr. Schley's position and it startled us! but reflection and subsequent events, have convinced us of its truth. The recent elections in Vermont and Maine corroborate his views. The majorities are large in those States for the so-called "Republicans," proving that former party ties have been abandoned, and large masses of the old parties have opposed the Democratic candidate! In Maine, the Gubernatlonal Republican candidate, is United States Senator; who changed his course from Democratic to Free Soil, within the last few months.

When such combinations can be formed in the North under such circumstances, the premature and impolitic course of the Senators becomes apparent. They designed to aid the election of Mr. Buchanan, the effect has been to strengthen Mr. Fremont, and now every true hearted Southerner, is palpitating with apprehensions at the strength of Fremont! If the Maryland Senators had "held their peace" then the alarm might not have been taken in the North, and the cause of Fremont have remained weak and less flattering to his friends. The result shows that public men with all their advantages for foreseeing future events, and forming opinions upon them, are sometimes, egregiously mistaken, and seem to have less prescience than the masses, they seek to instruct.

Mr. Schley, in his speech, contended, substantially that, although Northern sentiment was thus perverted by the addresses of the Maryland Senators, it could be restored to its original healthy tone by prompt and efficient action in the South. By a cordial and vigorous support of Mr. Fillmore, a National candidate, who repudiates sectionalism, hugs the whole Union to his embrace, and would preserve protect and defend that Union, with all the energies of the Nation.

It must have become obvious to all reading men, that the North is embittered against President Pierce, for the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, and his course in regard to Kansas. The political sympathies of Mr. Buchanan and his original supporters are with President Pierce and his policy—the endorsement of his administration by the Cincinnati National Democratic Convention, have identified Mr. Buchanan, their nominee, with President Pierce and his administration. The hostility in the North to President P., has been transferred to Mr. Buchanan, and an impassible gulf has thus been made between an immense Northern population and him. While the contest for the Presidency, was conducted as a national one, a consiiderable portion of this Northern sentiment was in opposition to Fremont—they tried to discard the sectional aspect, attempted to be given to the canvass—bnt, when they saw the attempts made in the South to draw Mr. Fillmore's strength to Mr. Buchanan, and some of the promi ent Southern men abandoning Mr. Fillmore, and endeavoring to change southern sentiment these Northern conservatives yielded to the influence of the sectional agument, and arrayed themselves, for the present, with the supportess of Fremont, or became neutral. Mr. Schley was confident that they could be brought back to the support of Mr. Fillmore, if the South would be true to him and itself. As the Maryland Senators have thus been instrumental in producing such a disastrous condition of things, so alarming to every southern mind, when they designed to strengthen the Democratic candidate.—Why should they not be among the first to retrace their steps, and take a position for the National Candidate?

It is now apparent that Mr. Buchanan cannot be elected by the people! that the North will not support him! Why then, should not the South rally to the support of Mr. Fillmore, who has Northern strength who can command Northern votes? The South cannot elect Mr. Buchanan,—but the South may elect Mr. Fillmore! The North has no fear of Mr. Fillmore's becoming a sectional President—they know he cannot—they respect and admire him! but they have not confidence in Mr. B., and will not be drawn into his support. Why not therefore, unite Southern sentiment on Mr. Fillmoae? It may yet save the Union;—but for the course of certain public men in the South, we believe it would have done so.

If any have laid the "flattering unction to their souls," that by abandoning Mr. Fillmore, they have added strength to Mr. Buchanan and tho Union, let them cast aside such dulusions, for indications at the North have served to enlighten the mind of the South, and to force upon it the conclusion, that the only mode of savfng the Union, is by supporting Mr. Fillmore.

☞The advertisement in last week's paper of the sale of Mr. Geo. Gale's property. was inserted without his knowledge—a message which was sent to him by the officer not having been delivered in time; Mr. G. having transmitted the money to one of the Plaintiffs by mail some months ago, which he since understands was not received and which was promptly settled with the officer a as soon as he was apprised of circumstances.—Whlie we regret the publication under the peculiar circumstances, justice to ourselves and the parties implicated, it is our duty to state that this article is published at the request of Mr. Gale.

What Mr. Clay Thought of Mr. Buchanan.—The Sag-Nicht papers are constantly repeating the falsehood that Mr. Clay was the friend of Mr. Buchanan.—We can produce a letter from Mr. Clay to a venerable citizen of Shelby county, saying of Mr. Buchanan that he was "never either his political or his personal friend."

It is well known that Mr. Clay was very far from being an admirer of Gen. Cass. Nevertheless, in a letter to Daniel Ullman, dated Ashland, June 14, 1851, he said:

"Gen. Cass has qnite as much ability, quite as much firmness, 'and much more honesty and sincerity than Mr. Buchanan."

So Mr. Clay deemed Mr. Buchanan dishonest and insincere, and he would have disdained to be the friend of a man or call a man friend, of whom he had such an opinion. No man ever lived who had a lofier and a deeper scorn of dishonesty and insincerity than Henry Clay. And now we challenge James B. Clay or any one else, to show that Henry Clay even spoke to James Buchanan during the last nine years of his life. He tolerated him up to 1844, but, in the political canvass of that year in Pennsylvania, Mr. Buchanan was guilty of a deliberate fraud upon Mr. Clay, which that great man, noble and generous and magnanimious as he was, never did and never did forgive. Mr. Clay had in a measure pardened his disgraceful conduct toward him in 1826 and subsequently; he had, at Mr. Buchanan's earnest and pitiful entreaties, consented for years to suffer wrong and to let his party suffer wrong rather than expose the shame and ignomy of the miserable intriguer to the public gaze; but when he found in 1844, that the political miscreant whom he had pardoned and spared, was guilty of rewarding all his forbearance and mercy with treachery of the deepest and most infernal dye, he at once broke off all intercourse with him, and, at the first convenient opportunity afterwards, made the startling revelation so long withheld by him, and so abjectly deprecated by its victim.—Lou. Jonrnal.
