"LIFE SAVING CREWS" WILL FIGHT DISEASE

Red Cross Christmas Seals Will Finance Campaign To Save Lives Sacrificed To Tuberculosis.

Buy Seals—And Save Lives.

"Life Saving Crews" are now being organized in every county of Maryland. They are the committees of men and women being formed to conduct this year's extra big Red Cross Christmas Seal campaign.

It is to be the biggest drive of its kind that the state has ever seen. It will differ from many money campaigns waged in recent months in that practically all of the money subscribed will be expended in the communities in which the funds are raised. And the money is to be expended in that greatest of all causes—the saving of human lives and the promotion of health and happiness.

Incidentally and indirectly, it is to be a drive to help reduce the high cost of living since it aims at protecting the health of the producers—and everybody admits that one of the most potent causes of the present high prices is the deficit in the amount of production of every-day necessities.

All the funds derived through the sale of seals is used in the fight against tuberculosis and is expended in various ways—educational work, nursing and medical service, sanatorium care for the tuberculous and in other ways suggested by the American Red Cross and the National Tuberculosis Association.

In addition to the seals which sell for a penny a-piece, Red Cross seal campaigners this year will have for sale Health Bonds ranging in denominations from $5 to $500 which will be offered to purchasers who would like to contribute more to the tuberculosis campaign than the price of the number of seals they would be able actually to use.

Maryland is one of the states that will have to put up a strong fight to keep pace with other states in anti-tuberculosis work. In the state 2914 persons died of tuberculosis last year—the death rate for Maryland being nearly 44 per cent greater than that for the nation as a whole. This is not a record to be proud of and every effort will be made to provide the nurses, sanatoria, clinics and medical service, as well as the educational work needed to cure and prevent the disease. The little Red Cross Christmas Seals will finance this work.

Here are the numbers of people who died needlessly from the disease in the counties of Maryland last year: Allegany, 58; Anne Arundel, 96; Baltimore, 532 (only 263 of these being actual residents of the county); Calvert, 22; Caroline, 42; Carroll, 44; Cecil, 26; Charles, 28; Dorchester, 65; Frederick, 183; Garrett, 9; Harford, 55; Howard, 21; Kent, 37; Montgomery, 47; Prince George, 63; Queen Anne, 32; Somerset, 39; St. Mary's, 47; Talbot, 31; Washington, 73; Wicomico, 63; Worcester, 28; Baltimore City, 1373.

The country as a whole will be asked to buy $6,500,000 worth of the little Red Cross Christmas Seals. Maryland's quota is $125,000 worth. "Each Seal is a Penny's Worth of Cure and Prevention."

TO TRAIN THE TUBERCULOUS

Vocational Work To Make Discharged Patients Self-Supporting.

"It has been repeatedly demonstrated to us," says Dr. Martin F. Sloan, of Eudowood Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Towson, Md. "that patients are able to work sooner and more comfortably and hold up better at the Sanatorium under medical supervision than when they return to the city either to an old or to a new position, and our experience convinces us more and more that the problem of employment of the disabled consumptive has not been solved, and never will be until institutions are equipped with vocational training industries that will find something suitable and profitable for every patient even to do and at the same time keep him more or less under medical supervision in a community like country."

The National Tuberculosis Association is laying special emphasis on this very question of vocational training for the tuberculosis patient. It has just appointed specialists in vocational work to cooperate with the army doctors in training soldiers and sailors disabled by tuberculosis and now under treatment in government hospitals. This work is financed largely through the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals. Everyone is urged to help by buying seals. It is planned to sell 12,500,000 of them in Maryland.

Healthy homes in Maryland depend upon one thing: An intelligent educational campaign throughout the State. Buy Red Cross Christmas Seals and an educational campaign is assured.
