Chestertown, Sept. 29, 1866—3t.

A Farmer Boy's Education.

He should learn the habit of early rising, and when up, he should, from a very early age, be taught entire independence in dressing himself and keeping his person and clothes neat. Let him learn and practice blacking his own shoes, and make it his business regularly to wind the family clock or watch. He should also learn how to make a bed, so that he can assist his mother. He should also learn the art of cutting hair, so that he can keep his brother's head in trim, and, if need be, act the barber for his father. It is of the utmost importance that he should learn the art of making a good fire, whether of wood or coal, in a grate or stove, on the hearth or in the oven. And it is very essential that he should know how to cook a plain meal and set a neat table. Then, in case of sickness of his mother, how happy he might make her by taking a great burden off her hands and heart. At all events, your son should learn how to carve and how to serve guests at the table in a pleasant, easy manner. It is one of the greatest accomplishments, in a boy's education, to be master of arts at the table.

In his school education do not neglect to teach him to keep accurate accounts. There is no better habit that he can learn than keeping an account of all his own expenditures; and for that purpose furnish him a little memorandum book in which he can not only keep a cash account, but a little diary of everything interesting to him. The plain rules of book keeping he must learn, and he should be taught the value of money and how it accumulates upon interest. How to write, fold and direct a letter in a neat business-like manner should be a part of the education of every farmer's son. So it should be how to do up a parcel, pack a trunk or carpet bag, and he should early learn not to be ashamed to carry his own bundle.

How to make a broom, basket, ax-helve or ox-bow, and to mend broken tools, is an actual accomplishment. We know one farmer's boy, who made this part of his education, that for twenty years of his married life never paid a cent to a tinker for mending tinware, nor to a smith for bailing a pot or hooping a bucket. He made ax-helves and bee-hives, wash-benches, stools and kitchen tables, and other things almost innumerable, which make up the comforts of housekeeping, and saved a great outlay of money simply because he had learned. There is one more thing that every boy should never fail to learn—that is, how to nurse the sick. It may enable him at some time to save the life of a friend, dearer to him than all else on earth.

A PERFECT ANTIDOTE FOR ALL POISONS.—A plain farmer says, "It is now over twenty years since I learned that sweet oil would cure the bite of a rattle snake, not knowing it would cure other kinds of poison. Practice, observation, and experience have tought me that it will cure poison of any kind, both on man and beast. I think no farmer should be without a bottle of it in his house. The patient must take a spoonful of it internally, and bathe the wound for a cure. To cure a horse it requires eight times as much as it does for a man. Here let me say of one of the most extreme cases of snake bites in this neighborhood: Eleven years ago this summer, where the case had been thirty days' standing, and the patient had been given up by his physicians, I heard of it, carried the oil and gave him one spoonful, which effected a cure. It is an antidote for arsenic and strychnine. It will cure bloat in cattle by eating too freely of fresh clover; it will cure the sting of bees, spiders or other insects; and will cure persons who have been poisoned by a low running vine growing in the meadows, called ivy."

HOW THE MONEY GOES.—A gambling house reporter of a New York paper gives a faro record thus:

"A well-known newspaper publisher and politician has lost over a quarter of a million of dollars A paymaster in the army was a defaulter of $42,000, lost in the same way. A well-known Californian has lost about $60,000. A well-known citizen of Jersey city, doing a large manufacturing business, was completely ruined within a short time at the faro table. A young man, keeping books in Williamsburg, became a defaulter of $12,000.—He was the only support of an aged mother, and was obliged to flee his home. A man, for over twenty years in the employ of an express company, and having the unbounded confidence of his employers, took to gambling, and, in an evil hour, to get money to play with, robbed his employers, was detected, and sent to the State prison for a term of years. A young man came into possession, on the 12th of May last, of $56,000, and to-day he has not got a dollar, having lost it all at the gambling table."

SOFT SOAP FOR ALL.—For a lieutenant, call him captain; for a middle-aged lady, kiss her, and say that you mistook her for her daughter; for a young gentleman rising fifteen, ask his opinion respecting the comparative merits of a razor; for young ladies, if you know their color to be natural, accuse them of painting.

A MAN who was on a journey, said he never liked to see the table full of books and newspapers where he stopped at night. 'For,' said he, 'I can never find any whiskey at such places.'
