SCHOOL FOR BLIND SOLDIERS

Prof. Daniel Hall, Formerly Of Chestertown, One Of The Instructors

Prof. Daniel Hall, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. S. Hall, of Chestertown, is one of the instructors in the Red Cross Institute For The Blind, near Baltimore City.

The Red Cross Institute for the Blind at Evergreen is the most advanced school for the war blind that has been established by any Allied country, in the opinion of Capt. Geo. Delvaux, head of Queen Elizabeth's Inst. for the War Blind in Belgium. Capt. Delvaux, who is studying methods at Evergreen, has visited schools for civilian and war blind in Italy, France and England. He came to Evergreen at the suggestion of Queen Elizabeth, to whom he is directly responsible for the administration of the school for the blind established by her eight months ago.

"American people do not know enough of Evergreen," Capt. Delvaux said. "They do not realize what a wonderful school it is. I was interested, of course, because Queen Elizabeth spoke of it so often, but in the two days since I arrived that interest has grown. I hope to have a school something like it on a smaller scale in Belgium. I have started some of the work that I see used here, such as the basket-making, poultry raising and academic study. I have been struck particularly with the motor-machine shop and the training in salesmanship.

"England has a remarkable school for war blind, which was begun in 1915 and increased in size."

Cletrac
TANK-TYPE TRACTOR

Wheels on a track—the Cletrac way—take less power

GET BETTER SEED BEDS

After plowing, the speedy Cletrac fleet prepares the seed bed, in the fast, thorough way that means more wheat.

Riding lightly over the soft ground with heavy loads of discs, harrows, drills and seeders—each Cletrac fits from 25 to 35 acres a day without "packing" or digging in.

Progressive grain growers are turning to the Cletrac—they know it's dependable. It keeps ahead of the work all through the short season—can be pushed to the limit, does all the drawbar and belt jobs—goes anywhere, anytime—burns "gas," kerosene or distillate and a boy can run it. And if one Cletrac is "off" it doesn't mean a tie-up—only a little more work for the others.

Come in and look this tractor over. See for yourself its sturdy construction. Let us show you what it will do for you on your own farm or ranch.
