THE colored schools in Somerset will close for the term February 28th.

A NEGRO postmistress was ousted at Parole, Anne Arundel county, and a white appointed.

COUNTY health officer Dr. H. G. Simpers says there has been no cases of diphtheria in Chestertown reported to him.

A READING ROOM for Chestertown is an assured fact. Now let every parent and lover of good morals give their influence and aid to make it a success.

NAN PATTERSON is to be given a new trial March 6th. It is hoped she will get a jury of men who will give a verdict to the Court and not wait until they are discharged.

FIFTY vessels are reported overdue on both sides of the Atlantic. This breaks all records for many years. A large proportion are schooners destined for New York port.

WE will have to remind our readers what we have had occasion to do several times before that anonymous communications can not be published in the KENT NEWS. Among the recent ones we have received is a fine piece of political poetry. We must have the names of all correspondents, not for publication, but as a token of good faith.

J. T. SAULSBURY, of Ridgely, Caroline county, says that peaches are killed! Of course they are, but he means the old ones that were left on the trees last year. The new buds are sleeping warm and healthy under the protection nature gives them and just as soon as spring comes they will burst forth into bloom and fruitage. Peaches are all right up to this time.

KENT COUNTY has lost in Josiah Lusby an influential, high minded, conservative, and honest citizen. He was an advocate of "Simple Life" and by this life honored all with whom he was associated. The county has also lost a beloved and highly respected citizen in the death of John P. Vandyke. He raised a family each of whom is an honor to him.

THE Kent county schools were kept open with remarkable regularity during the past month. There were a few schools that had to be closed for a few days because of snow blockades and because of only two or more scholars being present but the schools generally were kept open. The Board of Commissioners are to be commended for not deducting anything from the salaries because of absence during such weather.

ILLINOIS certainly did herself honor in erecting a statue to the late Miss Frances E. Willard in Washington. This statue is given to the nation by the State of Illinois and is the only statue of a woman that has yet been erected in Washington.

The exercises and ceremonies in connection with its unveiling and acceptance took precedence over legislation. After three o'clock in the afternoon the law-making machinery was temporarily stopped and the Swayne impeachment trial was brought to an abrupt conclusion, in order to carry out the special order of business, which included eulogies of Miss Willard in the Senate and the House.

REPUBLICAN politicians are discussing the latest order of the President directing officials holding federal positions who are also identified with the party organizations in the state to either surrender the government or the political office. It is generally acknowledged that this is far-reaching, not only in this but all other states in the Union. In Maryland it may result in almost a reorganization of the party management, as not only most of the heads but quite a number of the subordinates are connected with the state central committee. The internal revenue department is loaded with such officials.

"IF Providence don't help us I don't know how we'll ever get over the roads," was the exclamation of a doctor in Chestertown this week.

THE Kansas plan of fighting the Standard Oil Company is to be followed by Texas, Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin, Oklahoma and other States. It is evident that there is to be a concerted effort to clip the wings of the oil monopoly and the individual states are setting about to find a way. Certainly public opinion is in accord with the latest Kansas idea.

STOCK quails can be ordered through Mr. Wm. E. Moody or this office.

CAROLINE farmers are preparing to grow tomatoes on a large scale. Geo. T. Redden & Co., and H. A. Roe will pay their growers, for tomatoes, seven dollars per ton the coming season.

SOME farmers object to throwing snow from the roads into their fields for fear they will not be able to plow for corn! Mr. Webb Hill, of Kennedyville, thinks he will have to cart away the snow from his yard before he can do any gardening!

THE NEWS has received reports from various sections of Kent to the effect that farmers generally are feeding the birds and get a great deal of pleasure in doing so. The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Klinefelter, near Chester bridge, has become a bird heaven. Scores of all kinds of birds may be seen every day eating the food that is spread for them under the old apple tree. Mr. Edward Wilkins has a covey of partridges which he is feeding every day and which have become very tame.

Feed the birds.

Great Plans for the Inauguration.

Four hundred thousand persons are expected to witness the inauguration of Theodore Roosevelt as President of the United States on March 4th next in the city of Washington. Two hundred thousand of these, it is estimated, will be visitors, and Washington is expected to turn out the other 200,000.

This will be the largest crowd which has ever witnessed such an event. Tangible preparations for the great event are now in evidence on every hand in Washington. The great grand stand across the front of Lafayette Park, facing the reviewing stand of the President, is far along in construction. It will seat 6,000 persons. The President's stand, which will seat 1,000 persons, has been begun. Timbers are being scattered all along Pennsylvania avenue at points where room can be found for observation stands. Windows fronting on the great thoroughfare are bringing hundreds of dollars for a single day.

In the great procession which will follow President Roosevelt from the Capitol to the White House on the day of his inauguration there will be about 35,000 persons. Seven thousand of these will be regular United States troops, marines, midshipmen from Annapolis and cadets from West Point. Fifteen thousand militia will be in line. The other twelve or fourteen thousand will consist of political and civic organizations—rough riders, cowboys, Indians, etc. There will be bands in plenty, a great multitude of them.

Mr. Rasin's Deed.—By a deed recorded Monday, Mr. Robert W. L. Rasin conveys to Mr. Thomas A. Godey $60,000 par value of the capital stock of the Palmetto Phospate Company, of Florida and $24,000 par value of the bonds of the United Railways and Electric Company of Baltimore and all other stocks and bonds belonging to Mr. Rasin, in trust for Mr. Rasin and his children.

Mr. Godey is to collect the income from the securities and after deducting the costs, including a commission of 5 per cent. for himself, the net income is to be paid to Mr. Rasin as long as he lives.

Upon the death of Mr. Rasin the net income is to be divided into 70 equal parts and paid to his children for life in the following proportions:

Mrs. Mary R. Godey, ten-seventieths; Robert C. Rasin, twelve-seventieths; Mrs. Grace R. Ashbridge, sixteen-seventieths; Mrs. Bessie R. Cole, sixteen-seventieths, and Mrs. Viola R. McKenna, sixteen-seventieths. The net income is not to be liable for any debts or contracts of Mr. Rasin's children. Up on the death of each of the children the principal of his or her share is to pass to his or her descendants. The share of any child dying without descendants is to pass to his or her brother or sisters surviving.

The trustee is empowered to make any investments or reinvestments of the principal.

THE decision of the circuit Court for Worcester County, ruling that County Commissioners have no legal authority to offer or pay any reward for the apprehension or conviction of criminals, is an important one to the whole state, and of especial interest to Cecil county just at this time, inasmuch as the reward offered by the County Commissioners for the arrest and conviction of the Constable assassin has been earned by those who fixed the crime upon Simpers and forced his confession.

It will be remembered that the State offered a reward of $1000, in this case and the county $500, and this without doubt stimulated the detectives and others in their efforts to find the murderer. As they were not local people they had no personal interest in the matter and were in all probability actuated by ambition and the prospect of reward. By this ruling of the Court they will be deprived of the $500, offered by the county although they have certainly earned it, and if the law would permit, the taxpayers of the county would gladly have it paid to them.

In the future, as the County Commissioners will be restrained from offering rewards for the apprehension of criminals, might it not be well to adopt our suggestion and provide the sheriff with a brace of trained dogs, that could be put upon the trail of a criminal and locate him speedily without necessity of recourse to detectives and rewards. It would not only be more speedy and certain but very much cheaper.—Democrat

Just try "Pepsimint," the new grandular, effervescent remedy for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Mental Exhaustion Stomach Disorders; Guaranteed harmless. Pleasant to take 10 and 25c.

Tomatoes $6.00 Per Ton.—It looks as if it will rest with neigboring farmers whether the Elkton cannery will be run or not during the coming season. H. L. Arthur, of Baker & Arthur, the operators, was in conference with Manager M. F. Magnaw on Monday. The former says that $6 per ton will be the firm's best offer at present and prospective prices would not justify higher figures to planters. The demand for canned tomatoes is slack and most canners still hold last season's pack. The outlook is not at all promising.

Snow Shoveler's Claims Barred.—Hereafter no claims made for removing snow from the public roads will be allowed by the Cecil County Commissioners in accordance with an order passed at Tuesday's session. It is said Harford farmers are trying the cooperative volunteer plan of opening roads after snows as being more prompt and, in the end cheaper, from the taxpayers' standpoint.

Cannot Remove Fences.—The Postoffice Department has issued instructions to Rural Carriers that they are not to tear down fences or open roads through private property in order to deliver mail on their routes when the roads are drifted shut. They are simply required to go as far as they can, but when the roads are not open, and it is not possible for them to continue without throwing down fences, they will return to the postoffice from which they started where the mail will be held until called for, or until the roads are opened. Patrons must also clear away the snow to their boxes, so as to permit the cariers to deposit mail without leaving his vehicle; otherwise, mail matter will be held at the postoffice until called for.

Rabbits Cause Damage.—The nurseries of J. G. Harrison & Sons, of Berlin, Worcester county, have been damaged to the extent at least $300 by rabbits within the last week. The field in which young fruit trees have been attacked lies close to the woods, and the protracted cold weather has driven the rabbits to foraging for food. During the open-game season hunters thoroughly hunted these woods, and it was thought that every rabbit in the neighborhood was killed or driven far away, but the raid on the nurseries shows that there are scores there yet.

The rabbits have become so famished that they come out in the open fields even in the daytime and gnaw the young trees. Apple trees are the ones that they have damaged most. It seems that the skin of certain shoots is more palatable than others, for there is one variety which is only nibbled here and there and of another variety whole rows together are killed entirely. The young trees are nibbled clear around close to the ground.

Unfortunately for the Messrs. Harrison the nursery stock thus killed was sold by them and resold by their customers. If the rabbits cannot find food somewhere else soon Mr. Harrison's "grub" bill for them will be a considerable item in his expense account. The season now is closed and there is a fine of $5 for each rabbit killed. It is suggested that the best thing to be done for the rabbits is to feed them as the birds are being fed.

Lawson Told The Truth.—During the month of January last, George M Willson, proprietor of the Phœnix Roller Flouring Mill, Easton, who is a great admirer of Thos. W. Lawson, being a reader of his articles called, "Frenzied Finance," wrote to him just out of mere curiosity and told him he was a young man and had by hard work accumulated the sum of $1000 after a struggle of several years, and he wished to invest the money, and asked his advice. Mr. Willson received a reply from the great financier on January 28th, telling him to invest immediately in Copper Range Stock and sell when it reached a certain point. The stock was then valued at $63 per share. Mr. Willson did not do as authorized and on February 3rd it had reached $69, which would have made a profit to Mr. Willson of nearly $4,000.

He is now regretting that he did not do as advised.

Want New Iceboat.—The State's ice boats have not been able to cope with the demands of this winter. This winter has been a very severe one, but with able boats the commerce of the bay and port would not have been crippled to such a serious extent as is now the case. There will be other voices heard to join in with Mr. W. C. Eliason, president of the Tolchester Steamboat Company, who last week said:

"Times are not like they used to be. The burning question now should be, 'Give us another iceboat.' With our new docks and our deeper channel, larger boats and ships, we need more of them. Colder winters and zero weather are now common things. Commerce will be transferred in the near future, unless some move in this line is made at once.

"It used to be that one iceboat had nothing to do, only run for excursions. Now we have two, and they are not able to keep the channel open. Accidents happen and always will, but just at this time should a slight accident occur to any of our iceboats our commerce would be shamefully hampered.

"I am not speaking in the interest of some bay boats, for they could not get up the rivers they ply, granting they could get through the bay. Old-time people tell me and, in fact, until last winter, after a boat got by Sandy Point or Annapolis the captain was happy.

"We hope the Council or some of our leading branches of trade will take this matter up. We do not want the large ships that come to this port to stop at Norfolk because they cannot reach Baltimore.

"Let us be ready by next winter to keep the river open, and all the bay, if need be."

Those present were Mrs. W. C. Matthews, Mrs. J. T. Matthews, Misses Julia Brinsfield, Addie Ford and Our Sunny Smile, Messrs W. E. Matthews, Roscoe Worton, E L. Davis and C. W. Spry. CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

A Letter To The People Of Kent

It is far beneath me to notice anything coming from persons who are ashamed to sign their names to what they write, but try to stab a man from behind "A Democrat from the fifth district." But my letter in the KENT NEWS of the 11th, though fired with little aim, must have squarely struck the sore-head of the anonymous letter on his sorest spot. It seems to have hurt his feelings that the editors of the NEWS placed my letter in such an out-of-the-way place, but he was fortunate they did so for if they had given it a more prominent place I am afraid the blow would have been more than he could have stood for if it took him a whole column of space to pour out his vindictive abuse of me, in answer to an insignificant letter in an out of the way place in the NEWS, what would he have done had they put it on the front page! Why they would have had to brought out an extra edition to have held his tirade.

There are a few things my anonymous friend got wrong and others on which he kept quiet. He says I made a plea to the watermen or oystermen of this District. I go further than that—I make the plea to the watermen, oystermen and fishermen of the whole county, from Crumpton to Georgetown, to be wary and keep your weather eye on the Haman Bill and a sharp lookout on the game and fish protective association. My friend, "the Democrat from the fifth" hardly thinks the fishermen worthy of mention in his tirade against me, but the fishermen are the men to be looked after and I advise them to be on guard for the enemy is after them. I will correct my anonymous friend as to his charges against me while in command of the Anna B. Smith. I never was in command of the Smith, never had anything to do with her. I was in command of the Helen M. Baughman from Jan 1st to Sept. 1889, and as for my record during that time I will leave it with the people. They all know me. When I left the Baughman I left her in command of Capt. Joseph Horney and he served the people so well they conferred the greatest honor on him by presenting him a gold watch and chain as a memento of their appreciation of his service. As for my voting for Lowndes, the man who says I ever voted for Lowndes must be crooked himself and thinks everybody else is. I do not write letters to the editors of the NEWS, but to the whole people of Kent, and if my anonymous friend will come out and show his colors people will take more stock in him, for if there is any one thing people hate more than another it is the anonymous letter writer who takes advantage of the newspaper columns to blackguard his fellow man over some signature other than his own. Some people seem to be in doubt as to where I stand, to satisfy them all I will tell them—I stand square and flatfooted with the old Democratic organization, sink or swim, and we are going to swim.
