ROCK HALL ITEMS

Yes, on deck again! Thanks to the dexterous use of the knife in the hands of Dr. Selby, backed up by a kind Providence.

Why that broad smile worn these days by Tom L. Maslin? Why, he is just the happiest man in the lower county. For many days he has deplored his lonesomeness on the oyster bars—no culler to cheer him and help swell his pile of bivalves. Now the future looks more bright. A few days ago the stork made a call and upon leaving a little son was presented to Tom. Hence the broad smile. But say, Tom, for heaven's sake don't let that boy ever stand behind a culling board. Far better let him be a "clodhopper," for then his bread and butter will be sure, whereas nothing is sure in the oyster business but hard work, intense exposure and an empty money purse and constant fear that worse is near at hand. Big sister Mary's countenance does not wear the pleasing smile like papa's. She would prefer a continuation of sisters in that interesting family.

A new rule has been formulated at Leary's factory. All employes in the basket department, for using profane or vulgar language, are subject to a fine for each offense. As a consequence the moral tone of that department is much improved. If this rule was carried to and enforced on the oyster bars, oyster boats and some of our stores, the moral tone of our boyhood and young manhood would be greatly uplifted.

Our people generally lament the sudden demise of two of our former citizens, Capt, Thomas Kendall and Mr. J. T. Arthur. Both gentlemen were highly esteemed for their neighborly and brotherly character.

Miss Daisy M. Ryan and and brother, Mac, spent Sunday in Quaker Neck visiting sick relatives.

For the development of the race, Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Carter stand in line for the Roosevelt commendation. Twins, a boy and girl, were born to them on Sunday evening.

Mr. G. S. Porter has returned to his home here after a pleasurable visit with relatives and friends in Queen Anne's county. He reports everything over the river in a flourishing condition, big crops harvested, and a splendid outlook for the growing crops and everybody happy.

"All that are born must die." As a consequence, one by one, our fellow travelers drop by the wayside. The latest to fall was the genial Thomas J. Fletcher. He was a whole-souled fellow, one whom we all dearly loved; it was a pleasure to meet with him and converse on any subject, whether we agreed or not, we shall miss him.

Miss Dorothy Kenney is being entertained this week by Miss Nannie Ryan at the latter's home.

Encouraging reports are coming in from the Chester river oyster bars. Up the river bars, where a big day's work for a tonger last spring was three bushels, half that many now can be caught in an hour or so. All merchantable oysters on the lower bars where five bushels was all a man and culler could catch late in the spring, as many can now be caught in two or three hours.

The M. E. Sunday School held their annual picnic on Wednesday. It was very largely attended and it was exceedingly enjoyed. It was an all day affair. Every body took their luncheon along and besides, the school furnished ice cream and lemonade and the teachers furnished the cake, enough and to spare for all. A song service was a feature; games, boating, bathing and other pastimes were indulged in. Now boys and girls, let's keep the get-together spirit up and stay together, in line for the next feast of good things, the Christmas entertainment. Let's see to it that our teachers are at their post of duty every Sunday and instruct us in the way of right living, and let us show our appreciation by our faithful attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Stowman, of Baltimore, have spent an enjoyable week with Mrs. Alice Sanford. Mr. Stowman and wife will go from Rock Hall to Cordova, Talbot county, to stay a few weeks. They will return in about a month.
