ENORMOUS DAMAGE BY RATS

Loss by Rodents to Produce and Property in United States Amounts to $200,000,000 Annually.

Rats affect a larger percentage of the population than any other pest in existence. Infesting almost the entire world, they carry on unceasingly their work of destruction, of transmitting disease, and of inspiring repugnance or dread where they are present or threaten invasion of the home.

Damage by rats to produce and property in the United States amounts to about $200,000,000 annually. Injury to farm produce starts when the seed is first planted and continues through the growing season and harvest, in the wholesale and retail markets, and often in the home of the consumer. Such losses in the aggregate so affect the ultimate price of foodstuffs that everyone shares them, whether he maintains rats on his premises or not.

For information regarding the relation of the rat to the public health, address the surgeon general, United States Public Health Service, Washington, D. C. For information relative to the habits, life history, and economic status of the rat and for additional information in regard to anti-rat campaigns and methods of control, address the bureau of biological survey, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. NEW USE FOR ALUMINUM Metal Being Used for Making Stage Scenery in Place of Canvas-Covered Wood Frames.

From Chemnitz, in Saxony, comes the news of the use of aluminum as a substitute for wood in a truly novel manner. Sheets of thin aluminum are being used for stage scenery in place of the usual canvas-covered wood frames.

This innovation was originally introduced on account of the exceedingly high price of wood at that time; but repeated trials have convinced the management of the Chemnitz opera house, where the experiment was first introduced, that saving in expense is not the only advantage.

The scenery, in the first place, is lighter even than the old-style frames; it is not subject to danger from fire, and scenery may be painted on both sides of it, an impossibility in the days of the old-style sets. Moreover, painted scenes can easily be erased and new ones substituted.

The acoustic properties of the new material seem to be as good as those of the old scenery.

The aluminum is delivered at the theater in roughly rolled sheets of the size and form of the original wooden sections of scenery. Its thickness is from 5 to 8 millimetres (0.2 to 0.3 inch).—Scientific American.

Musings of a Heretic.

Careful driving won't do much good unless it is supplemented by careful walking.

Pedestrians seeking a chance to cross traffic can see it just as well from the sidewalk as from the middle of the street.

Pedestrians prefering to be hit by slow-moving cars will cross in front of traffic just as it has been released by the traffic cop's whistle. But those wishing to be killed at high speed will dodge around the rear of a street car.

A hick town is one in which the inhabitants cross the street in the middle of the block. Let us all, ladies and gentlemen, do our best to keep our city in the hick class by cutting across at any point where the danger is greatest.

Seat of Trouble.

Dave Thompson has a veritable flock of youngsters who suddenly developed a mania for continually blowing the horn of daddy's auto, to the distraction of the neighbors—so Dave finally took one of the youngsters in hand.

After it was over, one of the brothers asked the lad, "Where did daddy paddle you?"

"On the back of the stomach," was the naive reply.

Too Much Muscle.
