STILL POND, - - MARYLAND

ROCK HALL ITEMS

Truck and garden stuff seems to be somewhat injured in this section by the rains. Potatoes are rottening in the ground with some, and it is too wet to dig them.

The closed season is on the last stretch and the sound of the blacksmith's anvil, together with the many implements in the several shops here, denote the near approach of the oyster season. Many oystermen, however, are in the dumps because the juicy weather prevents them making as rapid headway in their work of overhauling and painting their boats.

The sickening reports from the meat packing establishments and stock yards is having its effect here, many having concluded to steer shy of any prepared meats, &c. Guess we will have to include all bacon, shoulders, hams, &c., as they are all smeared with the same mop; in fact, all we eat, unless produced by ourselves, is more or less doctored, and prices are soaring among the clouds as a further inducement to change our politics in the coming campaign. Will we? Nit! So many of us want to be on the winning side, and as the others have the money they can get the votes.

After a long illness, Mr. George W. Moffett succumbed to the ravages of the "white plague" Saturday. The funeral services over his remains took place on Monday, conducted by Rev. Warren Burr and the Jr. Order United American Mechanics, of which order the pallbearers, by request, were selected as follows: Wm. W. Clayton, Thomas E. Joiner, Chas. S. Porter, C. E. Moffett, Jos. R. Ryan, Jr., and Harry C. Lake. Casey Bros. had charge of the funeral and interment was in Wesleyan cemetery. Mr. Moffett was an estimable young man of about 31 years of age. He was one of the charter members of Rock Hall Council No. 149, Jr. O. U. A. M., and while he never held an official position therein he was always a loyal member and worker. A widow and two children are left to mourn the loss of a true husband and fond father. The deceased also left two brothers, Messrs. Simon and Edward Moffett.
