HUNTING AND FISHING IN THE AUTUMN.

By JESSE MEDDERS, OF KENT

When the Summer is about to disappear,
And signs of Fall draw very near,
The Gun, Rifle, Traps and all,
Are placed in action to make the game fall.
First on the list is the playful squirrel,
And at them, many a shot they do hurl.
For he jumps and dodges among the trees,
As much as to say "shoot if you please."
And whereas quite a few with aim so true,
Hit their mark and don't get blue,
The majority go day after day
And come back home, no game to display,
The Plover being practically the first is a cunning bird,
And then the Bob-White's sweet whistle is heard,
Next is the Rabbit, who raises his ear,
One minute you see him, but he soon disappears,
For when it comes to genuine fun,
You certainly have it, when the dogs start to run,
To hear them bark, howl and whine,
Is what makes the sport so wonderfully fine,
And as we pass over the hill, locating the trail,
You can see the old dog, standing aflock of quail,
The next thing you know, like an auto running on high,
They are off with a flop, to escape you they try.
The next in rotation and doubtless give you more luck,
Is possible the Wild Goose or else the Wild Duck
And to be a member of a Ducking Club and enjoy the sport,
And to see the game fall after the gun's report,
Is enjoyed by many not withstanding the bad weather,
Although most of them shoot right off together,
Not knowing of course, who hit or who missed,
But all explaining their efficiency with a tongue they can twist.
If half of the game that is shot on the street,
Was killed in the blind when the hunter meet,
The butchers would close up and their business quit,
And try something else to make a go of it.
For every Saturday night a certain group of men,
Gather together and Oh, the tales they do spin
Each one of course, try to outdo the other,
And even get so serious as to call each "dear brother."
But whether it is fishing, or gunning all the week long,
One man is right there and his name is Walter B. Strong,
And his side pard is always there ready for the fun,
Whose name is well known, which is Edmund B. Pennington,
But when it comes to killing rabbits and hitting the fur,
They all take off their hats to Capt. Jack Jester,
Who with his partner, Edward Robin- Sr., as he is known,
Certainly can make the Jack Rabbit groan,
Joseph Brice seems to think he can make the partridge drop,
And hates to admit, when licked by Chas. Jessop,
However, when Ed. Wilkins takes aim and pulls the trigger,
The number of ducks that fall, it is impossible to figure.
George French enjoys fishing, like a lady loves flowers,
And catches lots on the street corner in company with Thos. Bowers.
Ernest Strong is some hunter especially after squirrels,
As they just run from him like he ran after the girls,
S. W. Granberry for sometime has been fishing, but in vain.
So I think he has decided to try off the coast of Maine,
W. H. Elliott is another, whose catches are terrific,
As he has enough bait to catch all in the Atlantic and Pacific,
Capt. W. C. A. Thompson, afishing, seems never to get tired,
And the tales if he'd tell them, would beat the Bentztown Bard.
Icould name scores of others, who are great at their favorite sport.
But I expect I had better close and seek another port.

MRS. YOUNG ENTHUSIASTIC

Cannot Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Enough. Sick Women Read This Letter

Charleston, S. C.—"I was completely run-down and not able to do my housework. I just dragged myself around and did not have energy enough to get up when I sat down. I read advertisements of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in your books and learned about it. I got benefit from the very first bottle. I continued to take it for some time, and now I am doing all my own work, even washing and ironing, and never felt better in my life. I tell all my friends that the change in my health is due to but one thing and that is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. ANNIE YOUNG, 16 Amherst St., Charleston, S.C.

The reason for such a letter from Mrs. Young is apparent. She got well and is grateful. Recently a nation-wide canvass of women purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was made, and 98 out of 100 reported that they received benefit from taking it.

Just because the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women is a good reason why it should help you. For sale by druggists everywhere.
