AFTER SUFFERING ONE YEAR

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Milwaukee, Wis.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman, and I would like to tell the whole world of it. I suffered from female trouble and fearful pains in my back. I had the best doctors and they all decided that I had a tumor in addition to my female trouble, and advised an operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman and I have no more backache. I hope I can help others by telling them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—MRS. EMMA IMSE, 833 First St., Milwaukee, Wis.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

WEALTH IN OLD KENT

Great Eastern Shore County In The Bloom of Beauty.

CHESTERTOWN IS WIDE AWAKE

Residents Friendly to Bigger Representation From Baltimore in Legislature—Money in Banks.

The Baltimore Sun, of Wednesday, has the following column in reference to Kent county:

"That fair land on the margin of the Chesapeake, whose wide plains and gentle hills are set amid vistas of summer seas and silvery sails, is now in its heyday of beauty.

Not alone is beauty here, but thrift and culture mark its homes and towns and never before was the Eastern Shore of Maryland so prosperous as today. In this ancient college seat of Chestertown, some two and a half centuries old, a wonderful progress is noted by its dwellers, and what is true of the town is also fact concerning all of the good old county of Kent in which Chestertown is the center of local government.

The wealth of Kent is not merely that of her landscapes. She is fair indeed to look upon, but her face is not her fortune. She is clad in rich raiment of verdure, but much of that dress will not become worn and threadbare, for it will turn soon from green to gold, and when the pregnant fields wave to the warm zephyrs of summer they will bend with a weight of grain, and, in the language of the old song, 'That's as good as gold.' Indeed there seems much more truth than poetry in this with wheat at a dollar and a half a bushel. Keep it up, Mr. Patten, of Chicago; keep it up, kind sir.

FROM THE GROUND UP.

"Our prosperity," said a well-known citizen "is remarkable from the fact that Chestertown is not a manufacturing place. Whence comes the wealth? How is it that we have a million and a half of deposits in our Chestertown banks? Why, even the bank in the smaller place of Millington, 14 miles away, has $50,000 of deposits.

"It is purely an agricultural and fishing prosperity. I have sought to analyze the conditions and I believe I am right. Call to mind the fact that we have gone largely into sheep-raising in Kent. We have 10,000 sheep in the county and are getting 30 cents a pound for wool, the fleece averaging 8 to 10 pounds per animal. Then the propuce from these is from 12,000 to 15,000 lambs annually at something like $4.50 apiece for the lambs.

"I am also in favor of a fairer representation in the Legislature for Baltimore city. A representation, however, that would be based purely on population I would oppose strenuously. In a congested territory, like that of Baltimore, it would be easy to build up a powerful political machine and Baltimore would practically become the State."

VOICE FROM KENNEDYVILLE.

Mr. Tilghman Shafer, of Kennedyville, merchant, shipper and a bank director in Chestertown, is probably the best-known business man in Kent. Said he:

"I want to be fairer to Baltimore than the State has yet been. The Sun has made it plain to me that Baltimore has not a just representation. I am heartily for a larger one, but I want no chance of the city getting a full and perhaps lasting control of the State.

"As to the amendment, I now speak as one who opposed some features of the former one offered. This one suits me and I shall vote for it. There are many like myself, who feel that the objections to the Poe amendment have been eliminated. There is no doubt as to how Kent will go."

Mr. Wilbur W. Hubbard is a banker and a manufacturer, the half of whose time is spent in Baltimore, since he is half owner of the fertilizer works in Baltimore that bear his name. He said:

"I shall vote for the amendment and do what I can to increase Baltimore's representation in the Legislature. That both of these movements will culminate in success I have not the slightest doubt. I also fear that too great a delegation from Baltimore might result in the building up of a State political machine with headquarters in Baltimore. That would mean, of course, that in case a bad political boss were on top there he would run the whole State. This must not be. I have sufficient confidence in the voters of Kent county to believe they will be just and at the same time guarded as to the interests of the counties."

A REAL ESTATE VIEW.

Mr. J. Waters Russell, the largest real estate broker of Kent, also was opposed to the Poe amendment. He will vote for the present one and he says his county will certainly carry it. Said Mr. Russell:

"We cannot afford to risk our present prosperity by indifference to our business and political affairs. That we are in fine shape may be judged by the fact that our farms are selling up to their full investment value. I do not mean by this to say land is too dear here, for it is not. Those persons who wish to establish homes in Kent county can still find beautiful and profitable places.

"As to greater representation for Baltimore city, I think you will find every fair-minded man with The Sun on this proposition, and I have no doubt that Baltimore will gain something like four Senators and eight Delegates. A straight population representation is out of the question, however. Some event or series of events might crowd Baltimore unduly and later the population might fall off and she would have a top-heavy power.

"Next to us is Queen Anne's county. Our interests as parts of Maryland are nearly identical. Now suppose Queen Anne's population were three times as great as that of Kent, it would by no means follow that she should have three times as much power in the Legislature. It would be plain that she would have an undue advantage in any legislative controversy or rivalry that might spring up between the two counties."

SCENE FROM HANDY POINT, KENT COUNTY.

"Chestertown was credited with a population of 3005 in the last census. Now the five comes next after the 3, for there are certainly 3,500 here. Building goes on steadily, and the latest development of it appears as something of a calamity in certain quarters, for the baseball grounds have been taken up for building lots, but all Chestertown is congratulating itself that there will always be a ball ground, one of the best in the contry, they say, on the grounds of old Washington College. Among the buildings soon to be erected will be a fine structure for the savings bank, to cost $20,000."

TRANSPORTATION AND POLITICS.

Two subjects are uppermost in the minds of Kent countains. One is transportation and the other is politics. It seems a certainty that Kent county will support the new suffrage amendment.

"We have 4,000 voters," said one resident, and of these 1,500 are colored men, mostly ignorant. We can not and will not jeopardize our welfare or our present prosperity by the mistakes of a class that follows a blind fetich as our sheep follow their leader. Put it down as a fact that Kent's majority will be for the amendment."

This was the sentiment of everybody who was questioned. Even Republicans seemed to give a silent assent when declining to be interviewed.

There is a general willingness in Kent county to give a greater legislative representation to Baltimore than it has, but on no question is the Eastern Shoremax more careful in expressing his views. Everywhere the strongest argument that has convinced him that more Senators and Delegates ought to come from the big city was that which showed there were not enough to consider legislature bills in committees. At the same time there was found a general guardedness against letting Baltimore get so strong a hold as to build up a machine that might swing the State and keep it swung.

WHAT THEY'RE AFTER.

Mr. Joseph W. Howard, a prosperous farmer of Worton district, was especially emphatic and spoke with the voice of an educated young American farmer. Said he:

"Our district has two precincts—Worton and Betterton. In it are 500 voters, and of these 190, or nearly two-fifths, are negroes. Of these 75 per cent. are practically illiterate. To be sure, they can do the mechanical writing of their names on the registration books after some drilling by their leaders, but otherwise they are densely ignorant and cannot understand the problems of our State. I and many other residents of this county want the amendment to protect ourselves from such persons. The Poe Amendment reached farther, I think, than does the one now proposed, and I was for that one. Still, I know that the new amendment has been divested of some features that made the Poe amendment objectionable and many men who opposed the Poe amendment will vote for this one, and our county majority will surely be for it.

TOLCHESTER COMPANY BUYS WHARF.

Charles McH. Howard, W. Calvin Chestnut and Talbott Denmead, trustees of the estates of the late Capt. Levin Jones and the late Mrs. Zeanett Jones, his widow and Levin T. Jones and Talbott Denmead, administrators of Mrs. Zeanett Jones, have just closed a sale with the Baltimore Steam Packet Company, John R. Snerwood, president, and the Tolchester Beach Improvement Company, Capt. William C. Eliason, president, for 102 feet of the wharves on Light street opposite 500 to 512 Light street, belonging to the said estate, at and for the price of $750 per front foot.

The Baltimore Steam Packet Company takes 75 6 feet of the wharf as now occupied by them, part of which is subject to a ground rent of $175, which is assumed by them, making a total consideration for the part of the Steam Packet Company of $53,875.

The Tolchester Improvement Company takes the remaining 25.6 feet, also occupied by them, in fee simple, at the total price of $19,125, making a total consideration for the entire transaction of $73,000.

This property, along with the lots on the west side of Light street, has been in the possession of the late Capt. Levin Jones and his descendants for about 60 years, being partly used by Captain Jones during his lifetime for his large ship chandlery business and also in his trading with the West Indies with his own fleet of six Baltimore clippers, the then famous style of boat which made Baltimore known throughout the world, trading in coffee, pineapples and other products of that country.

The property was sold under an order of the Circuit Court of Baltimore City in two suits filed for a partition of the estates by one of the heirs.
