WIVES OF STINGY HUSBANDS.

I wonder in how many households this scene takes place as "he" is leaving the breakfast table.

She—I'll have to ask you for a little money before you go, dear. There are some things I've got to buy today.

He—Why didn't you speak about it before? You know I'm always short at the end of the month.

She (tearfully)—I put off asking you just as long as I could, Henry, but now I really can't wait any longer.

He (looking at the clock and pulling out his pocketbook)—How much do you want?

She (nervously)—I—I don't exactly know. I have to get a pair of shoes—my feet are on the ground—and a hat for Mary and a toothbrush, and—

He (on edge)—I've got to work. How much do you want? Five dollars?

She (hastily)—Oh, more than that.

He (savagely)—Fifty?

She (flushing and confused)—Oh, no, no.

He (taking a bill from his pocketbook)—Well, here's ten: you'll have to make that do this time.

He grabs his hat and goes while she sits there trying to overcome the trembling that always makes her feel sick after she has nerved herself up to ask Henry for money. She really needed twenty-five but she could not have said it if her life had depended on it. She will go still longer before she asks for money again, because he always acts as if he hated to give it to her.—Harper's Bazar.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY REMEDY
Makes Kidneys and Bladder Right

Of Interest To Women.

To such women as are not seriously out of health, but who have exacting duties to perform, either in the way of household cares or in social duties and functions which seriously tax their strength, as well as to nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proved a most valuable supporting tonic and invigorating nervine. By its timely use, much serious sickness and suffering may be avoided. The operating table and the surgeons' knife, would, it is believed, seldom have to be employed if this most valuable woman's remedy were resorted to in good time. The "Favorite Prescription" has proven a great boon to expectant mothers by preparing the system for the coming of baby, thereby rendering childbirth safe, easy, and almost painless.

Bear in mind, please that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a secret or patent medicine, against which the most intelligent people are quite naturally averse, because of the uncertainty as to their composition and harmless character, but is a MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, a full list of all its ingredients being printed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper. An examination of this list of ingredients will disclose the fact that it is non-alcoholic in its composition, chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine taking the place of the commonly used alcohol, in its make-up. In this connection it may not be out of place to state that the "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. Pierce is the only medicine put up for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, and sold through druggists, all the ingredients of which have the unanimous endorsement of all the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice, and that too as remedies for the ailments for which "Favorite Prescription" is recommended.

A little book of these endorsements will be sent to any address, post-paid, and absolutely free if you request same by postal card, or letter, of Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

BANKERS TO AID

Eastern Shore Official Talks About Getting Trade.

NEW STATE TAX LAW READ

Assessment On Actual Book Value Of Stock Instead Of Market Price Wil Be Asked.

Blue Mountain House, Md., June 23—A strong and logical appeal to the Baltimore banking and commercial interests to pay more heed to the Eastern Shore trade, made by Mr. W. B. Copper, president of the association and a banker of Chestertown, and the presentation to the convention for consideration the new Bank Stock Taxation bill was the most interesting of work of the Maryland Banker's Association opening session today. The fourteenth annual convention began at the Blue Mountain House this morning.

As the consideration of the new bill, which is of vital interest to the banking interests of the State, was expected that Mr. Copper's address was received with uncommon interest, which was not eclipsed by the presentation of the bill.

Mr. Copper opened the convention with his address after an invocation by Rev. E. T. Mowbray, of Hagerstown. He spoke of banking questions in a general way, but that part of his address that received the most attention—that about the Eastern Shore—came near the last. About these conditions he said:

"As bankers, we know that the business of the Eastern Shore, which at present is controlled by Baltimore, is greatly reduced as compared with that section 20 years ago. I feel satisfied that every banker who knows the true conditions will bear me out when I make the statement that in that section of the State—while there is a remarkable pride in the prosperity of our metropolis and its control of our State's commerce—the loss of it is viewed by all our good citizens with regret and alarm. It is not difficult to state the cause of this decadence and loss of prestige by Baltimore.

Explains About Business.

"Kent county, in which I live, lies on the bay nearly opposite Baltimore city. From the exchanges of the bank in which I am interested I believe that it is a conservative statement to say that three-fourths of the grain raised in Kent county goes to Philadelphia or Northern markets. These cities have representatives on the spot to buy the grain at the railroad station, and they pay from 1 to 5 cents a bushel more than a farmer realizes when he sends his wheat to Baltimore by water.

"Not only this, but every Eastern Shoreman whose time is valuable leaves his home at 7.30 o'clock in the morning and reaches Philadelphia at 10.45 o'clock and the same train does not land him in Baltimore until an hour later. For many towns our people have to leave Baltimore at 4.30 P. M., while in Philadelphia he can leave at 3 or 4 o'clock and get home at the same time. Every man who is in Baltimore, winter or summer, has to catch a milk train at 6.30 A. M., often having to walk to Union Station because of the uncertainty of street car service.

"Such railroad facilities often make him determined never to visit Baltimore again unless he can help it. His more fortunate friend may leave Philadelphia in a comfortable express at 7.45 A. M. and reach his home at the same time as his Baltimore companion. They interchange views, and I myself have heard these comparisons dozens of times to the great detriment of Baltimore.

Wants Nine Epsteins.

"How to change this condition is a problem for Baltimore's live business men to solve. The trade is there. Since preparing this address I have seen in The Sun an account of the enterprise of Mr. Jacob Epstein in boldly striking out for the Southern trade. With nine Epsteins—one for each Eastern Shore county — Baltimore will have another tale to relate. Then instead of Philadelphia and other Northern drafts passing through our banks for three grain crops to one sent to Baltimore the number will be reversed, as it should be."

Speaking of postal savings banks, the subject was treated at length by Mr. Lucius Teter. Mr. Copper said that they were unnecessary in this country and that their adoption would be a detriment to the honest and trustworthy banking institutions.

The president's address was followed by a welcome extended by Mr. Hammond Urner, of Frederick, and responded to by Mr. Harvey L. Cooper, of Denton. Addresses by Mr. J. Dukes Downes, State bank examiner, and Mr. J. Walter Oster, assistant cashier of the Howard National Bank.

Bank Tax Bill Discussed.

The report of the committee which cooperated with committees of the Baltimore Clearing House and the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association on the Bank Tax bill reported its work through its chairman, Mr. Harold Hardings of the Patapsco National Bank, Ellicott City.

The bill which will be introduced will provide for an assessment on the actual book value of stock, instead of the present assessment on market value. The book value is to be determined by the capital, surplus and undivided profits. The tax is 1 per cent.

The bill was presented for the consideration of the convention which acted upon it by Mr. Alexander Neill, president of the Hagerstown Bank.

Explains The Four Systems.

Mr. Downes, in his address, declared that a revision of the Maryland banking laws, particularly in order to cover savings banks without capital stock and banks conducted by individuals or partnerships which are not now reached by the code.

He said that in Maryland there are four classes of banking institutions—trust companies, State banks, savings banks with capital stock and savings banks without stock. Although four different types of business are indicated, he said, the first three classes do practically the same business, many of them having equal powers. In some instances, he said, savings banks without capital are conducting commercial departments with deposits subject to check, so that the distinction between the classes of banking institutions is not as clearly defined as it should be.

For any violation of the act imposing obligations on the banks under State supervision, he said, the only penalty is that the State Treasurer, with the assent of the Governor, can declare the offending bank's charter forfeited and appoint a receiver. There is no provision in the law, he said which the bank examiner or the State Treasurer can compel a bank to correct evils or discontinue unsafe practices except by taking away the charter.

In the State, he said, are 52 State and savings banks with a capital stock and 22 trust companies with eight branches, with a combined capital of $12,386,620, surplus and undivided profits of $13,415,671 and deposits of $50,088,671 and deposits of $50,088,679.

Thirty-Four Not Supervised.

There are 34 savings banks without stock, 14 in Baltimore and 20 in the counties, which do not come under State supervision, are not subject to examination and are not required to make a report of their condition. On December 31 of last year 28 of these banks had on hand funds amounting to $90,037,803. This sum with the funds of the other institutions, is twice as great, he said, as the individual deposits in all the national banks of the State.

"The no-capital banks, I think, should come under the same supervision that other banks do. They should be required to make and publish sworn statements of condition along the lines that the public can comprehend and thus inspire confidence and remove any question or criticism which the lack of information brings about. Some of our banking institutions are criticised for not affording their patrons sufficient and proper security for the amount of deposits they hold; others are criticised for accumulating too much surplus and undivided profits, but I fail to see where either of them are placed in any better position to refute these charges by withholding a frank statement of their actual resources and liabilities.

Mr. Downes cited as an instance a bank he recently examined, where with a deposit line of $200,000 there was only $4,300 in the vault and the only reserve account overdrawn.

Mr. Oster, in speaking on the simplification of the currency said that the attention of the country has been claimed by the struggle against financial stringency caused by an "outgrown currency system" and said that plans intended to solve the problem have heretofore only resulted in a further complication. He said that although a large amount of banking is done without help of note issues currency and banking are usually closely associated.

Gold certificates, he said, are simply warehouse receipts for gold stored with the Government; silver certificates are receipts for so many dollars worth intrinsically about 50 cents on the dollar; greenbacks were but a political device for raising money in war time and Treasury notes were issued for the purchase of a silver bullion. Although the act authorizing them, he said, was repealed in the panic of 1893, these notes are also counted as reserve.

"What are our national bank notes?" he went on. "Are they not equally as well secured as our silver certificates, greenbacks or Treasury notes, when they have back of them double the capital of the issuing bank, when you consider the double liability of the stockholder and by the surplus and principally and primarily by a deposit of Government bonds, payable in gold?

WHY GAME IS SCARCE.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—I think there are fifty dogs, big and little, of all kinds running rabbits between Chestertown and Tolchester in the branches on each side of the road. Suppose these dogs catch two rabbits a month a piece, a poor catch, but it would be one hundred a month, ten unlawful months in a year that would be one thousand rabbitts, besides other game. This fall when game is scarce you ask the owners of these dogs the reason they will say foxes, hawks and big rains have destroyed them. If the constable was appointed in his district game warden and collected fifty cents for every dog he sees running rabbits and keep the money it would be a good thing and the county would be at no expense, nobody but the owner of the dogs. I have heard of game wardens but never saw one. HUNTER.

This seems to be the season for dropping dogs and cats around at the different homes by those who have been careless enough to allow the crop to get beyond home consumption. To say the least of it is it not bad neighboring? Who wants anybody's cast off dogs and cats? What about applying the law for cruelty to animals?
