THANKSGIVING

We thank thee, Lord, that thy restraining hand
Has kept our country free from war;
That neither party strife, nor greed has fanned
The flame of hate our peace to mar.

That far and wide prosperity doth reign.
While busy towns, and fruitful fields attest
That thou thy generous love hast shown again,
And hast our labors richly blessed.

We thank Thee, too, for human love that yields
Its harvest of rich gifts to swell
The blessings of the year,—a love that wields
Its scepter in our hearts, unrest to quell.

And if some gifts we craved have been denied,
'Tis thou who hast our murmurs stilled
And grace and strength abundantly supplied
To say: "'Tis good as God has willed."

If voices that we loved are hushed, and they
Will join our songs below no more,
We lift our tear-filled eyes and hear Thee say:
"In heaven they sing forevermore!"

And so we yet may raise our grateful song—
Thou wilt forgive the stilled sighs—
Our Father, God! in Thee we would be strong
Our weakness on Thy strength relies.

After a New Jersey man had eaten sixty hot cakes and two pounds of sausage and drinking six cups of coffee, he made the remark that he did not know what he would have done had he been real hungry. The readers can make their own comments.

Last Wednesday the wife of a New York theatrical man secured a divorce in Nevada. On Saturday night she took another husband. And in this instance the divorced husband posed as the defendant. Isn't it time that this travesty upon the laws of decency was put an end to?

Within a week three "boy bandits" have appeared in the West and two were killed. These boys evidentally had been reading Wild West stories and smoking cigarettes. Judge Elliott says crime may be cured at home. In the case of these boys the rod had no doubt been spared.

The road-builders in Kent and Queen Anne's counties, it is said, have been working on the Sabbath. It is the duty of our officers to see that this day is respected and we feel confident they will look into the matter. If the earnest, conscientious editor is not allowed to ply his vocation on Sunday then the same rule should apply to road builders. Enforce the law against all offenders.

Sixteen young men have died this year as as the result of injuries received while playing football, and the list is not yet completed for the season. Nobody can argue with this record of fatalities, that the game is safe and sane. There is a sane way to play the game and steps are being taken to adopt the Rugby system. We are an ardent advocate of football but there should be no mass plays and the tackling should be modified. Not only have sixteen young men been killed but scores have been seriously injured.

Chas. N. Crittenton, of New York, died the other day at age of 76. For forty years Mr. Crittenton set the world an example of Christian charity. He gave not only of his money, but also of his time and energy, and there was no thought of self glorification in his work, but only a deep pity for the weak and erring. Like the Master he professed to serve, he held that the best way to combat sin was to lift up and hearten the desperate and despairing sinner. There was nothing of the orthodox moralist about him. He had no faith in the efficacy of punishments.

The Maryland hunter who packed 75 pheasants in a barrel and coated the same with apples deserved to be caught. He was fined $75. A bird dog scented the game while the officer was waiting for a train. Game laws, like oyster laws, are usually broken by those most interested. They rob themselves. An improved public sentiment for observance of all laws is the remedy.

Lessons from Chestertown's Fire.

It is a fact that experience is the best teacher. The recent fire in Chestertown should act as a warning to us. It showed what can be done by an organized fire company under practical leadership. But this is not all, the authorities must co-operate with the Fire Company with a generous hand.

Of course, the first thing needed is water, but we recognize that it will take time to solve this point.

What is needed at once and can be procured at once are more fire hydrants. Twenty more should be put in, but even seven would be a great help. They cost about $80.00 each. Then an air lift should be supplied for the artesian well which would increase that well's output from 50 to 100 per cent, and cost less than $200. More hose is needed also. Other things will come in course of time, but more plugs are the present absolute need and the Water Board and Town Commissioners should see that they are put in at once.

The 25th Anniversary issue of The Manufacturing Jeweler published at Providence, R. I., by Walter B. Frost & Co., is on our table. It is the largest and finest periodical publication ever issued in that state. Every page is a gem and the artistic printing unexcelled. There is the imprint of a master mechanic upon the whole and his name is Frost. Congratulations, brother.
