Old and New Moon

Frequently, during the phase of the moon popularly called new, the dim form of the full moon can be seen within the crescent of the new moon. This is known as earthshine and is a faint light visible on the part of the moon not directly illuminatec by the sun. It is due to sunlight reflected to the moon by the earth and is most conspicuous when the part of the moon's disk illuminated directly by the sun is smallest. The new moon is first visible as a thin crescent. Then according to an old adage, "the old moon can be seen sitting in the lap or arms of the new." In olden times sailors regarded this phenomenon with superstitious dread.—Exchange.

Tennyson Not Exact

Poetic license undoubtedly gave Alfred Tennyson, famous English poet, the privilege to immortalize only 600 English soldiers as participants in the charge of the Light brigade in one of the best-known war poems in the English language, but there actually was more than a "noble six hundred" for the English in that disastrous attack in the Crimean war. As pointed out by Stuart M. Emery, in an article in Liberty, there were 673 men of the brigade in the charge, according to the most reliable figures. In the action, which took between 20 and 25 minutes from start to finish, the Light brigade, out of 673 men, lost 127 killled, 104 wounded, and 73 prisoners, almost half its strength. Nearly 500 horses were killed.

Infancy of the Auto

What might be termed the first automobile race was the endurance run in Chicago in 1895, sponsored by a Chicago newspaper. Six cars started over a course of 54 miles, and two finished. Four of the cars were gasoline driven and two were propelled by electricity. Charles E. Duryea, the winner of the $500 prize, finished in 10 hours and 23 minutes.

Human Failing
