DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Galena, Kans.—"A year ago last March I fell, and a few days after there was soreness in my right side. In a short time a bunch came and it bothered me so much at night I could not sleep. It kept growing larger and by fall it was as large as a hen's egg. I could not go to bed without a hot water bottle applied to that side. I had one of the best doctors in Kansas and he told my husband that I would have to be operated on as it was something like a tumor caused by a rupture. I wrote to you for advice and you told me not to get discouraged but to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did take it and soon the lump in my side broke and passed away."—Mrs. R. R. HUEY, 713 Mineral Ave., Galena, Kans.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to many suffering women.

If you want special advice write for it to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

Mr. Wilford Adams is his name, and he writes about it.—"Some time ago I was confined to my bed with chronic rheumatism. MOTHER'S DAY.

(AN ACROSTIC.)

Mothers of men. How noble are they Ordained from above for the noblest fray.
Thought of but little at times when we need
Heroes to battle, perform some great deed.
Ere we linger to wonder, how can we repay?
Reimburse her for time she has spent many a day.
Surrendered her life (for she knew 'Twas God's way.)
Day for our mother, we truly shall wear.
A flower of white (though he vacant her chair.)
Yet she watches and waits for her hero there.

KARL CROSSLEY PERKINS.

SUNDAY, May 8th, has been selected as "Mother's Day" and a white flower is the emblem. The idea was originated several years ago by Miss Anna Jarvis, 2031 North Twelfth street, Philadelphia, who conceived the plan in a desire to commemorate the anniversary of her mother's death. It occurred to her that it would be a beautiful tribute to all mothers, the living as well as the dead, if their children on a given day would unite in the simple wearing of white flowers. Miss Jarvis suggested the white carnation as the Mothers' Day flower, for she said: 'Its whiteness stands for purity; its form of beauty; its fragrance for love; its wide field of growth for charity, and its lasting qualities for faithfulness—all a true mother's attributes.

The churches in many of the Northern and Western cities have taken up the idea and have made it a day of blessing for all. The sentiment of "Mothers' Day" has appealed to the American people as nothing else has done in recent years.

Too many people keep the flowers they have plucked for you until the day of your funeral. Their songs of praise are not heard until your procession is passing their door. The mantle of charity does not become public property until put in use by the preacher who concludes the "last sad rites." If a man has flowers for us we want them while on earth and can smell their fragrance. They will do us no good sitting at the head of our coffin. The grass that is kept green about our last resting place will be of little avail to us on the other shore. Here is where we need the flowers and the smiles and the praise, not over there. If the fellow who is going around to the house after we are gone to see "if he can be of any help" will come around tomorrow we can tell him how he can be of a whole lot of help. There will be plenty of them. It is all-fired short now. Carry your flowers to the living and sing your songs of praise at the dinner table. Don't wait for the funeral. Let every person who has a mother living visit her, if possible, on this "Mother's Day." If the loved one sleeps in the City of The Dead visit the sacred mound and place a flower on the bier.

MONEY TO PROTECT FISH

Revenue To Come From Fees For Fishermen Who Use Nets.

Among the many interesting game and fish protection laws passed by the last legislature was one to levy a tax of $1 on all nets in Maryland of 100 fathoms or under in length and 50 cents for each additional 100 fathoms. The revenue from this source is to be at the disposal of State Game Warden Harmonson for expenses incurred in enforcing the game and fish protection laws. According to his chief deputy, Sidney C. Jones, the expense appropriation for the State game warden has been increased to $3,000 each year.

Mr. Jones has spent the last few days visiting the fisheries on the Upper Bay and will tour those further South. His object is to notify all users of nets that they must have the State licenses under the new law now in effect. The object of the game warden's department is to have the fishermen pay their license fee and not to prosecute, and the present tour is one of warning.

Chief Assistant Warden Jones explained the loss of the case of the game warden against Capt. Orvilla Stevens, of a Rock Hall schooner, charged with violation of the law that prohibits purse nets in the Upper Bay. Mr. Jones said that the case was lost by him and that it was his first loss.

"We lost the case on the technicality that the name of Orvilla Stevens did not appear on the United States documents of the vessel of her captain. The name of Harry Watkins appeared as captain, and we arrested Stevens, owner of the craft. We will now go after a warrant for Watkins and bring up the issue."

Gill nets, both big and little, are becoming more the vogue for amateur fishermen. These nets do not take up much room and are easy to handle. As most of the amateurs set out nets Saturday afternoon and take them up Sunday afternoon, Assistant Jones would like it known that it is illegal to set such a net from sundown Saturday to sunrise Monday.

Parrott-Woodall Case Compromised.—The case of Miss Rachel A. Parrott against Andrew W. Woodall, where Miss Parrott sued Mr. Woodall for $1000 loaned him in 1894, and which Mr. Woodall claims he did not owe, as he had been discharged in bankruptcy, has been compromised by Mr. Woodall paying Miss Parrott $1150. A similar case was tried last year of J. Herman Ireland against Mr. Woodall, which resulted in favor of Mr. Ireland for the full amount, with interest and costs.

How to Cure Hiccoughs.—Hiccough is a distressing and sometimes a dangerous complaint. Many times a swallow of water will stop it. If simple measures fail the following has been found very efficacious. The nerves that produce hiccough are near the surface in the neck. They may be reached and compressed by placing two fingers right in the centre of the top of the breastbone between the two cords that run up either side of the neck and pressing inward, downward and outward. A few minutes' pressure of this kind will stop the most obstinate hiccough.
