THE UMBRELLA MAN AND HIS SONG, "UMBRELLAS! TO-MEND

Coming down the street today,
Same old smiling, happy way,
As he comes from May to May,
Same old cane, and same old pack,
Slinging from his bending back,
Strong his cry, nor vigor lack,
"Um-bre-ellas! to mend-"

Stooped his shoulders, grey his hair,
Where they once were sturdy, fair,
Years spent walking, mending wave,
Comes in Winter's, cold and sleet,
Comes in Summer's, dust and heat,
Singing gaily on his beat,
"Um-bre-ellas! to mend-"

Dumps his pack beside one's door,
Mends umbrellas by the score,
Each man's friend, altho' he's poor,
Never wears a mitt or glove,
But I think the God above,
Hears his cry, in pittying love,
"Um-bre-ellas! to mend-"

If he passes by your way,
Give him coffee, tis a ray,
Of solace on a trying day,
He will thank you in his heart,
For an apple, sandwich, tart,
Helps him sing his chosen part,
"Um-bre-ellas! to mend-"

When his busy days are past,
Weary feet resting at last,
No more stormy, icy blast,
Cutting to his very bone,
Nevermore need he intone,
In God's Heaven, his last Home,
"Um-bre-ellas! to mend-"

Timely Christmas Ideas Offered in Acrostics

This would be a very Merry Christmas if one could give:
Cheerfulness to the crabbed.
Hope to the hopeless.
Riches to the righteous.
Industry to the Indolent.
Salvation to the sinners.
Truth to the tatlers.
Mirth to the moody.
Ability to the ambitious.
Smiles to the sad.

How happy one would be if one could give to all one's friends:
Contentment.
Health.
Riches.
Imperturbation.
Success.
Triumphs.
Magnanimity.
Admiration.
Satisfaction.

QUAIL LAYS 135 EGGS IN 180 DAYS

Pebble Hill plantation, owned by P. W. Harvey, Cleveland, Ohio, capitalist, claims the champion egg-laying quail hen in Georgia.

The nameless bird has a record of 135 eggs in 180 days. She weighs a half pound and it takes four of her eggs to weigh an ounce. The average quail production for the year from all the plantation hens was 72 eggs.

The tiny hen was raised in a hatchery, where under hundreds of feet of wire netting these fowls are bred and released before hunstmen come down annually from the north.

Quail raising is an important business at Pebble Hill. Two expert caretakers are employed. There also are extensive hatcheries on the plantations of L. S. Thompson, Red Bank, New Jersey, and H. M. Hanna, brother of the late Mrs. Mark Hanna.

This year, it is estimated the three hatcheries released 2,500 quail.
