OBJECT LESSONS

Adams County, Ohio, Most Conspicuous Place on Political Map.

With more than 1,200 of its citizens under indictment on the charge of selling their votes and with more than 400 of that number having already pleaded guilty, while the string of penitents rushing before the court to declare their guilt and get off with a nominal fine, continuous from morning to night, according to dispatches, Adams county, Ohio, has recovered from its first feeling of shame and chagrin when the revelations of wholesale purchase of ballots were made ten days ago,

Adams county is the most conspicuous place on the political map of the United States to-day because of the object lesson in practical politics which the disclosures resulting from its special grand jury investigation that began on December 13 has furnished to the country at large.

If there are any generalizations to be based on the discovery that fully a third of all the voters in an entire county have been in the habit of selling their votes ever since they have had votes to sell, and the fact that the most effectual and abrupt termination to this widespread practice is now being applied, they seem to include among their number the following:

1. The purchase and sale of votes is not regarded as even a moral offense in communities where it is practiced.

2. The so-called "secret Australian ballot," which never was Australian, also is not secret.

3. The party with the largest campaign fund stands the best chance of electing its ticket.

4. Most important of all, it has been conservatively demonstrated that one courageous man can "clean up" an entire county if he wants to.

The courageous man in this instance is Albion Z. Blair, Judge of the Common Pleas Court for a district which includes several of the Ohio river counties. It was Judge Blair who, single handed, started the investigation which has already had such fruitful results. It is Judge Blair who has become "father confessor" to the voters of the county to an extent unprecedented in political history.

"The purchase of votes has been going on in Adams county for more than a generation," said Judge Blair. "I made my first effort to stop it in the campaign of 1896. I was a Democrat then—I am a Republican now. I got the candidates on both tickets together and we agreed not to spend any money for votes. I think very little was so spent in that campaign. In several campaigns after that we could not reach an agreement and money was spent for votes on both sides.

"In one campaign a few years ago the Republican candidates agreed that they would not buy any votes. The vote-sellers formed an organization against them and forced nearly every candidate off the ticket. Finally I got elected Common Pleas judge. Conditions on the bench made it necessary for me to move into Scioto county, and I did not get a chance to hold a term of court in Adams county until the fall term this year. This was my opportunity, for which I had long waited."

Judge Blair's method was a simple one. Armed with first-hand knowledge of some of the most active vote-buyers of both parties and their methods, he named Will P. Stephenson, a lawyer, whom he trusted, as special prosecutor, and gave him the information he had. The vote-buyers were summoned before the grand jury. Their attention was called to the statute giving immunity to persons involved in bribery who will tell on the other fellow. They told. They gave up toll lists, with the names of purchasable voters checked off on them. They told which ones they had bought at the last election.

Then the grand jury mill began to grind. The first grist of indictments threw the county into a panic. The Sheriff had to swear in a lot of special deputies to bring the indicted men in. They made threats against the men who had betrayed them, but they pleaded guilty.

Judge Blair put a stop to the threatening business by doing some threatening himself, and let it be understood that he was letting them down easy because they had pleaded guilty.

The word that those who "fessed up" would get off with light sentences spread, and the procession of penitents on their pilgrimage to the county seat began. It is still going on, and it is likely to continue for some weeks to come, for the investigation has as yet reached barely half the known purchasable voters of the county.

The figures given for votes are surprising. They range from $3 or $4 up to $20 or more—high prices, one thinks, until he remembers how close the vote of Adams county always is. It went for Governor Harmon by 29 last month and has seldom given any candidate a plurality of more than 100.

So far there has been but one case involving a woman. Mrs. Sallie Inlow, of Peebles, pleaded guilty to taking $5 which she needed badly to influence her son's vote. The judge imposed a fine, but suspended sentence, though he made the son pay $5. There are stories about the purchase of women's votes at the school election last year, but there are none under investigation at the present time.

Men, however, of every class and degree are involved in the revelations now being made.

As it has affected all classes of people, so has the boodling been indulged in by both of the leading political parties. The high prices paid for votes have been due to competitive bidding in the open market between the Republicans and the Democrats.

"The first vote buying done in Adams county on an extensive scale was in 1875," said Milton Dryden, an old resident. "A man named Taylor, now in Seattle, was running for sheriff. He spent $150 to buy 300 Democratic votes at 50 cents each and was elected. Four years later when Charley Foster ran for Governor it became a regular business for both parties. I am glad to see it stopped and I think Adams county ought to be proud of Judge Blair."

So general has this feeling become throughout the county that the Sheriff has found it unnecessary to send out warrants for indicted men, and only employes his deputies in serving subpoenas on grand jury witnesses. "These are coming, too, without service, in response to the advertisement of the court which is published in every county paper, promising secrecy and leniency to all whow will give testimony."

"We had to pry the information out with crowbars at first," said Lucien Fenton, a former member of Congress and foreman of the bipartisan grand jury.

"Now we don't even need to use a corkscrew."

MILLINGTON ITEMS.

Mr. and Mrs. Disharoon spent the holidays with Salisbury and Federalsburg friends.

Miss Hannah Boyer, of Baltimore, was the guest of Miss Mildred Gillespie last week.

Mr. Brown Duling and wife are spending some time with Mrs. Duling's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Ennis, near Chester, Pa.

Miss Elva Reese has returned to Centreville after spending the holidays with her parents on Cypress street.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Duling who have been spending the winter with their nephew, Mr. Edward Walters, of near Galena, are visiting relatives in town.

Every pupil of School No. 1, District 1, has had the mumps within the past month. The teacher has so far escaped the disease.

Mr. John Wood, the oldest resident of our town, whose age is 93 years, and who has been confined to his room for 2 months or more, is able to be out again and made several calls during Christmas week. Mr. Wood is very anxious to reach the age of 100 years and we hope he may do so.

Asbury M. E. Sunday school gave a very enjoyable "Christmas Reunion" on Thursday evening of last week. The Sunday school room was packed to the door, a very entertaining program was well rendered after which ice cream and cake was served and a very pleasant social hour spent. Everybody was requested to remain and partake of the refreshments of which there was an abundance. Much credit was due the committee. A large quantity of left-over was distributed next day to those who were unable to attend.

Last Sunday was appointed the day for re-election of officers of the school but was deferred on account of the unfavorable weather and small attendance. A full attendance is desired next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Higman entertained a large number of relatives and friends at dinner on Monday of last week. Among those present were: Richard Higman and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Higman, Mrs. Annie Sparks, and Miss Sallie Sparks, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mallalieu, Rev. Wilmer Jaggard and wife and others.

Messrs. Burgess Anderson and Medford Maginness left town this week to accept positions in Wilmington.

Mrs. Annie Price is visiting friends in Philadelphia.

Revival services are in progress at Trinity M. E. Church South are largely attended. The pastor, Dr. Rood, is being assisted by Rev. T. C. Jonas, of Oklahoma City, Okla. Mr. Jones is being entertained at Central Hotel.

Mr. Wm. Sylvester, rural mail carrier, Route No. 2, has removed to the Hurlock farm tenanted last year by Mr. Wm. Wiest.

The young people of our town held a dance in Gillespie's Hall on Monday evening and had quite a pleasant time. There was about 20 couples present.

The boys and girls who are attending schools out of town have all returned to their respective schools and settled down to hard work again with the purpose of obtaining the highest marks for the next term.

BAKER—CONNER.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place in the St. Dennis' parsonage on Thursday, December 29, when Miss Margaret Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Conner, became the bride of Mr. Howard E. Baker, both of Millington. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Baker drove to the home of the bride's parents, where they were given a sumptuous dinner, after which they left on the afternoon train for Wilmington, Del. There they were given a reception by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson, of 604 W. Third street, and were serenaded by the Jr. O. U. A. M. Fife and Drum Corps. On Saturday they returned home and were serenaded by the young folks of Millington and vicinity. The bride was gowned in brown broadcloth, with hat and gloves to match, while the groom wore the conventional black. Mr. and Mrs. Baker will reside at Warwick this year, where the groom is engaged in farming.

ROCK HALL NOTES.

Old Jupiter Pluvius has certainly without a doubt been on a rampage this week and has swamped about all the cheer the good old Xmas season bestowed upon us. Sunday he kept us housed up all day, Monday it was little better and Tuesday he capped the climax by cutting an old time "pigeon wing" and all we could do was to grin and bear it. Well such is life and we best let it go at that.

Between showers Squire Wilkins succeeded in moving to his own property in Denby and Mr. Lum Kendall also moved up to near Edesville.

Mrs. Alexander made the trip to the city on Monday for a little recreation after her arduous holiday work at the big department store.

The revival meetings at the M. E. Church have been much hampered by the inclement weather and bad traveling of the week.

The new officers of the I. O. O. F. Lodge were installed on Wednesday evening as follows: Noble Grand, A. A. Tolson; Vice Grand, Alex Taylor; Rec. Sec., J. R. Ryan; Fin. Sec., S. B. Colyer; Treas., B. H. Coburn.

CHURCH NOTES.

Chestertown M. E. Church, Rev. L. E. Barrett, D. D., pastor. Services next Sunday, Jan. 8th, as follows: 10.30 a.m., preaching by the pastor, subject, "Sand, Rock—Which?" 2.15 p. m., Sabbath School and Pastor's Bible Class; 7 p. m. Epworth League Song service, followed by brief sermon by the pastor, subject, "How to Reach the Destination." Revival service every evening during the week. All invited.

The Chestertown M. E. Sunday school has elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: Superintendent, H. H. Klinefelter; assistant superintendent, M. E. Newsome; lady assistant superintendent, Mrs. Clara Perkins; secretary, Samuel Kreeger; assistant secretary, Carl Bordley; treasurer, John C. Davis; librarian, Thos. W. Eliason; assistant librarian, George Baldwin; organist, Miss Daisy Barnes; pianist, Miss Lillian Matthews; assistant pianist, Miss Ethel Ringgold; Primary Department—Superintendent, Mrs. Merrick Clements; organist, Miss Cora Moffett; assistant organist, Miss Hallie Cooper.

Kennedyville M. P. Church: Last Sunday the election of officers for the Sabbath school took place, with the following result: John Medders, superintendent; George Rasin, assistant; Mrs. Wm. T. Baxter, secretary; Leonard Pennington, treasurer; Mrs. William T. Baxter, organist; Miss Annie Weer, assistant. Later on a librarian will be chosen. The newly elected officers are to be regularly installed next Sunday morning, just before the preaching service. The third quarterly conference, recently postponed, will be held in the church Monday morning next, at 9.30. A large attendance is earnestly requested by the pastor. Sunday-school at 9.30 a. m., sermon at 10.30 and 7 p. m.

Mr. J. Frank Wheatley led the song service in Christ Church Sunday evening.

Rev. William D. Gould, for the last eight years rector of St. Mark's Protestant Episcopal Church, West Lombard street, has resigned to take the rectorship of Holy Trinity, Gilmor street and Riggs avenue. His resignation will take effect February 1, and he will take charge of Holy Trinity by March 1.

Rev. George R. Graham, the present rector of Holy Trinity, has tendered his resignation to the church, to take effect by March 1, but permission was granted him to sever his relations before that date if he so desired. The successor of Mr. Gould at St. Mark's has not yet been selected. Both of these divines are graduates of Washington College and well-known here.

BETTERTON NOTES.

Capt. John Brice, the genial agent of the Ericsson Steamboat Company, is off on a gunning trip to the shores of North Carolina. We wish him good sport.

Mrs. Fountain Crew entertained her Sunday school class and a few friends last Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Carlton Moore entertained the Ladies Embroidery Club last Thursday afternoon. All enjoyed a jolly good time.

The Ladies Improvement Association entertained their husbands and town commissioners Tuesday evening at Price Cottage.

Mrs. Alfred Greenwood has moved into the home of Mr. Harry Crew on Ericsson Ave., Mr. Crew going to the Howard farm in Still Pond Neck.

Mr. James H. Covington has left our midst for the winter months. He is now residing in Baltimore with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Newsome have returned from visiting friends in Baltimore where they enjoyed the holidays.

Mr. Joseph R. Owens, of Philadelphia, spent Sunday and Monday at his parental home.

Mr. Charles Bacon is boarding at The Belmont Cottage.

Capt. Geo. W. Moore has tied up his gasoline barge, The Chelsea, for the winter months and is now enjoying home life.

We are glad to report Mr. Wm. H. Crew is rapidly improving under the efficient attention of Dr. Lewis Atwell.

Mr. Raymond Herbert is on a visit to his sister in Alexander, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Mann entertained a party of friends on New Year's Eve.

Mr. Earl Crew returned to Wilmington to resume work, after spending the holidays at home.

The waters of the upper Chesapeake being very salty it looks very doubtful whether the ice will freeze hard and thick enough to store or keep if it does freeze. The owners of ice houses are hoping the rains of Sunday and Monday will bring a freshit.

Horse Notes.—One of Dr. H. Benge Simmons' fine driving horses is afflicted with lock-jaw. The doctor hopes to save the animal.

Capt. H. W. Fletcher lost a valuable brood mare last week. She got down in the stable and crippled herself and had to be chloroformed.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

MRS. MARY E. WATTS.

Mrs. Mary E. Watts died at her home on Queen street, Chestertown, early yesterday morning. She was the widow of the late Charles Watts. Mrs. Watts was 80 years of age and was a Christian lady of splendid qualities, true to her family and friends. She loved to work and was never happier than when she was busy doing something. Idleness was never said of Mrs. Watts.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Laura Clendaniel and Miss Mollie Watts, who did all in their power to make the last years of their mother's life free from care and trouble. The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Dr. L. E. Barrett officiating. The bearers will be Messrs. John H. Clendaniel, M. A. Toulson, Howard Clendaniel, James W. Crouch, W. B. Copper and D. A. Bacchus. C. L. Dodd, undertaker. Interment in Chester cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Jeanette Shallcross who died last Thursday week was held in the M. E. Church at Galena on Monday afternoon at one o'clock the Rev. Mr. Prettyman assisted by Rev. R. H. Lewis officiating. After singing of the beautiful hymns, Asleep in Jesus, and Abide with Me, Mr. Prettyman spoke beautifully from the text, Precious in the sight of the death of His Saints.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful, among the many pieces being a large pillow of white roses and carnations, with the one word so appropriate in this case, Mother.

After the services in the church the body was tenderly laid to rest in the family lot adjoining, beside that of her deceased husband.

The bearers were W. O., W. F., and S. S. Shallcross, Wm. Bonwell, Wm. Dushane, T. A. Whitaker. Undertaker Wm. H. Krusen had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mr. Frank C. Robinson, a well-known resident of Queen Annes county died at his home at Catlin's corner, last Sunday morning, of cancer of the stomach, aged 56 years. He is survived by his widow and the following children: Joseph M., Harry N., Spencer W., Frank C., Russell and Miss Minnie Robinson, and Mrs. Maggie E. Meeks. Funeral was held Tuesday, conducted by Rev. Daniel Wilson of Crumpton; interment in Chester cemetery. The bearers were James M., Harry F., Spencer, Frank and Russum Robinson, sons, and Haywood Meeks. Undertaker Chas. L. Dodd had charge of arrangements.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mulford A. Peterson, died last Saturday afternoon and was buried on Monday, funeral services conducted by Rev. Dr. L. E. Barrett; interment in Chester cemetery, Undertaker Charles L. Dodd in charge.

JOHN R. FOUNTAIN.

Mr. John R. Fountain, one of the directors of the Tolchester Company, and a well-known builder and contractor, died Tuesday morning at his home, 3002 St. Paul street, Baltimore. Mr. Fountain had been away from his home for several weeks on business. He returned Monday morning and said he felt ill. He was put to bed and a physician was summoned. During the night Mr. Fountain became worse, and though he was given medical aid he died early in the morning. Mr. Fountain was born in Baltimore and educated in the schools there. He was a graduate of the Maryland Institute and several other local colleges. The funeral took place Friday. The pall-bearers were members of the Tolchester Company.

The funeral of Mrs. James McCarter, who died at her home near Golts, Md., took place on Monday. The services were conducted at the home by Rev. F. C. MacSorley; interment was made at Smyrna. Mrs. McCarter was one of the oldest residents in the vicinity of Golts, having reached the age of 80 years. She is survived by her husband, son and daughter, who lived on the farm.

THE trial of Hicks Gardner before Justice Loud for larceny resulted in acquittal. George Johnson and nephew, Percy, were held for court on charge of selling liquor.

MARRIAGE licenses have been granted Ralph T. VanDuyke and Florence L. Cochran; Benj. F. Caulk and Mary Alice Dreka.

THE Easton Creamery Company are paying $1.20 per hundred pounds for December milk. This is the highest price ever paid during the existence of the creamery and is the equivalent of 30 cents per pound for butter. All customers during the month of December and continuing during the year will be paid 10 cents per hundred pounds more than the prevailing price during the summer months.

THE assessors are at work in the first district having finished the 5th, 6th and 7th districts.

THE goods of Hague & Hackett at Still Pond will be auctioned off beginning next Thursday morning at 10.30.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Mr. J. H. Sides is the first to open business in the burnt district. His neat and up-to-date brick store with glass front is a credit to Messrs. W. S. & A. M. Culp and to the owner. Mr. Samuel Kreeger, head salesman and skilled workman is at his his post while chauffeur Carter is assisting about the store until the roads get in condition for automobilng.

Brick-layers are here to work on Davis & Satterfield's big building the foundation of which is laid.

Mr. Kent Lambert who purchased the Davis property on High street is making extensiue changes there under contractor Harry Cannan's direction. A cellar has been dug, store-room changed into a hall, new floors, and a long porch will be built along the front besides other changes.

W. L. Fowler expects to remove into his new building next week.

Mr. W. R. Maul and sister expect to begin work on their two new business places as soon as possible. M. A. Toulson is also restless to start building.

A BIG WEDDING in colored society took place on Calvert street last week the interested parties being Sarah Grifin, of Kent, and Perry Wilson, a well-to-do farmer of near Chestertown. Sarah is a faithful servant and Perry is an industrious farmer.

Quite Flattered

We felt quite flattered the other day when one of our farmer friends told us that the first thing he looked for when he got his paper was our advertisement. He said he was always wondering what we were going to say next, and that he always found something to interest him. He had never thought bank advertising very interesting or entertaining, but that he had to confess our advertising was somewhat out of the ordinary.

While we have no desire to "run opposition" to our friend, the editor, we are happy over the fact that these advertisements are being read and that they are accomplishing their purpose, which is to bring people to the bank, where they get in touch with us and become our customers. All any advertisemezt can do is to bring possible patrons to our door. If we cannot do our part then, we should not have published the advertisement.

We want to say to those who are as yet unacquainted that we are just as friendly as these advertisements indicate, and if they have inspired you with a desire to know us, we can assure you we will use every effort not to disappoint you.

Come see us and you will discover that the friendly spirit of the advertisements pervades our entire establishment.

COME TO DAY.
